WPB Regulates Ice Cream Making

ORDER LIMITS FLAVORS TO 20, IN TWO GRADES

Bans Less than 1 Lb. Butter Cartons.

Washington, D. C. May 1 (AP).—With hot weather just setting in, the war caught up with the ice cream industry today.

The War Production board, in general instructions issued as conservation measures, limited manufacturers to 20 different flavors of ice cream and two flavors of sherbet or ices, and prohibited sales of more than two flavors a month in 5 cent cups.

Only two grades of ice cream may be manufactured in any one state, the instructions said, with not more than 10 flavors produced in either grade. Production of novelty ice cream was limited to five types or flavors each month.

WPB said the restrictions on flavors would cut down the size of manufacturers' stocks and conserve large quantities of containers.

Curb Butter Wrappers.

Butter producers were forbidden to pack half and quarter pounds in cardboard, and one wrapping was prescribed for all butter sold at retail.

The industry also was told to discontinue the use of advertising circulars and inserts in retail packages.

Ice cream manufacturers must, in future, use common carriers such as the railroads or trucks to serve scattered trade, the instruction said.

Fuel Ceiling Ordered.

A price order putting a ceiling on prices charged for all solid fuels was issued by the Office of Price Administration as a supplement to Tuesday's universal price control order.

The ceilings imposed are the levels prevailing in the period, Dec. 15-31, 1941, where they had been held previously by informal agreement. Wood and wood products are excluded from the order. Regulations become effective May 18.

The term "solid fuels" includes all anthracite, semianthracite, semibituminous, bituminous, subbituminous, and cannel coal; lignite; all coke, including low temperature coke and petroleum coke [except by-product foundry and blast furnace coke and Pennsylvania beehive oven furnace coke], briquette made from coal and coke, and sea coal used for foundry facings.

YOU'LL HARDLY NOTICE IT!

Only a few consumers of ice cream—those who like odd and unusual flavors—are going to be discommoded by the War Production board's order. And the manufacturers aren't, in their own opinion, going to be hurt at all.

"The board's announcement is a followup of ideas that the manufacturers have been advocating, and to a large extent putting into effect individually for months," said Frederick J. Bridges, president of the Hydrox corporation, one of the large Chicago ice cream manufacturers.

"Ten flavors to a grade ought to satisfy everybody except a few epicureans. Most people won't notice any restriction on ice cream, as retailers normally only carry four or five flavors.

Bridges explained that grades are determined by butterfat content and that experience had shown a 12 per cent mixture was most satisfactory to the public.

Paul A. Potter, executive director of the Associated Milk Dealers, said farm interests were in favor of letting the ice cream industry flourish. Much dried skim milk, he said, is being packaged for shipment abroad, and ice cream furnishes a needed outlet for the cream left over by this product.

Sorry, You Folks at Home Can't Get Army Newspaper

LONDON, May 1 (AP).—The United States army today said "sorry" but the Stars and Stripes, the newspaper for the forces abroad, cannot be sold outside the British Isles. Maj. E. N. Llewellyn of Tacoma, Wash., in charge of the paper, said that the army got its paper from already short supplies in Great Britain and that the scarcity of newsprint made it possible to print only enough copies for the forces themselves.

TVA Backers Admit Flaws in Operations

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 1.—The senate was diverted this afternoon by a controversy involving the management and accounting methods of the Tennessee Valley authority, 700 million dollar New Deal experiment in socialism.

Sen. McKellar.

Sen. Norris.

Sen. Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.], for years one of the foremost apologists of the TVA, led the fight against its present management and sponsored an amendment to make it dependent upon appropriations by congress for its expenditures. Under existing law the TVA's receipts go into a revolving fund, which can be spent as it pleases, without approval by congress.

Norris Admits Shortcomings.

No less paradoxical than McKellar's assault on the TVA was an admission by Sen. George Norris [Ind., Neb.], father of the TVA, that a power shortage in the area served by it threatened the production of aluminum for the war effort last fall and that the private power companies came to the rescue of the government.

Norris has been an almost fanatical supporter of the TVA and just as strongly a foe of private power interests.

McKellar offered his amendment to the pending 2 billion, 125 million dollar independent offices appropriation bill. Norris is leading the fight against the McKellar amendment.

Norris came to the defense of the private power companies and credited them with saving the TVA when McKellar assailed the expenditure of $41,697 by the TVA for newspaper advertising, urging the people to curtail the use of electricity because of the power shortage. McKellar denied that there was a shortage.

Reservoirs Empty Says Norris.

"As a matter of fact, some of the reservoirs were empty at that time," Norris said. "I believe that great reservoir behind the Norris dam was empty, or nearly empty. I happen to know that the federal officials and the private power companies worked together. They issued this order as a safeguard, and they did keep the great aluminum company going."

In due time, Norris said, the rains came, the reservoirs were filled, and it was not necessary to have a "blackout" in the area.

McKellar remarked that he had never expected to live to the day when Norris would defend the private power companies.

"I feel the same way about the power companies as I do about Russia," Norris replied. "I did not like the Russian government; but the Russian government is doing a work which nobody else in the world has been able to do. When we get thru, if we win the war—as I think we shall—we shall owe more to Russia

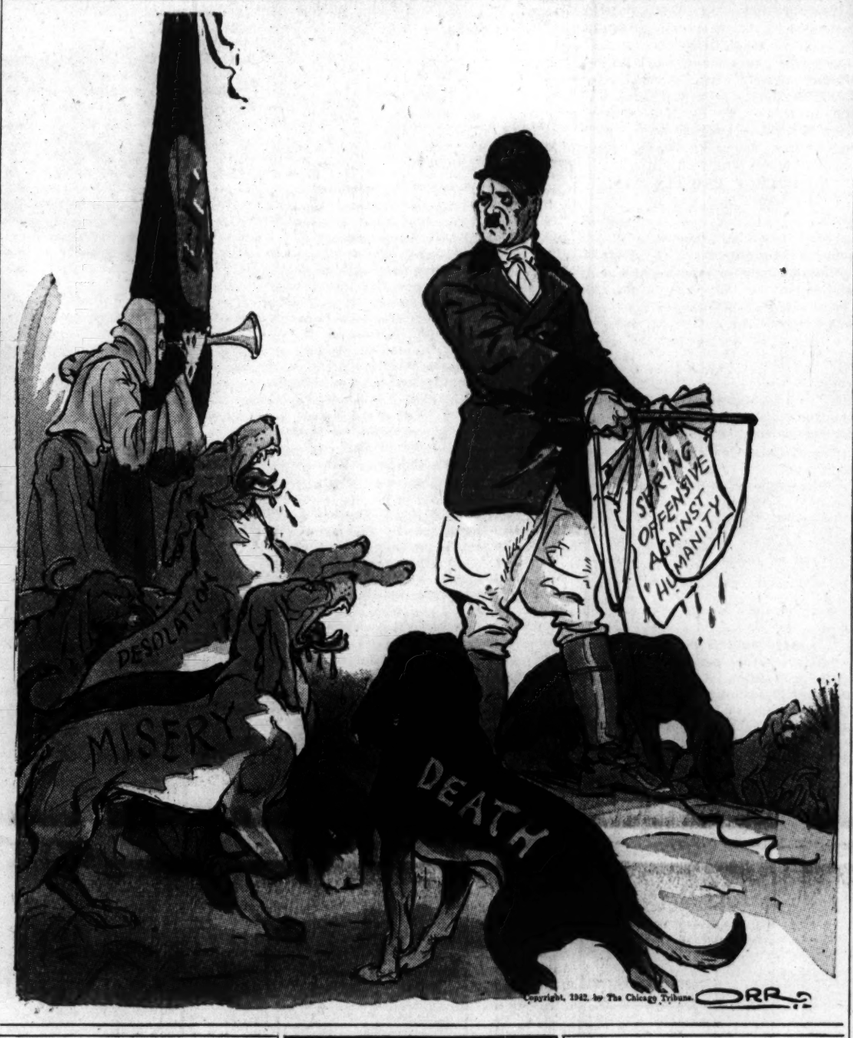
MASTER OF THE HOUNDS



North Shore Takes Its Air Raid in Stride

EFFECT.

The shrill wail of a siren filled the air at 9:30 last night at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. A minute or two later the wail was taken up by the vociferous whistle of the American Steel and Wire company plant, located between North Chicago and Waukegan.

Then the siren at North Chicago joined in the medley and the racket became general thruout the territory.

The booming of thunder, a steady fall of rain, and the weird flashes of lightning added to the general tumult. Scores of citizens in Waukegan, North Chicago, Lake Bluff, and nearby towns trained their eyes skyward for a sight of invading planes.

Sergt. Ray Shoup, in charge of the police station at North Chicago, began to get dozens of telephone calls from men and women who wanted to know what it was all about.

They couldn't see any planes for the rain, they said; they couldn't hear the roar of any motors thru the din of the sirens. But Great Lakes was sounding off—was there an attack on the naval station?

CAUSE.

Two sailors, Harold Polk, aged 19, and Rolla Matthews, also 19, climbed out a window of the hospital at the training station at 9:25. They ran away clad only in white hospital pajamas. But their absence was discovered almost immediately. Result: The gates at the naval station were locked and the sirens were turned on to call out the guard in a general hunt thru the grounds for the two patients.

As the Great Lakes sirens started their loud alarming whine, a bolt of lightning struck the air raid alarm whistle at the steel and wire company's plant, caused a short circuit and the whistle could not be stopped.

And by a coincidence authorities at North Chicago began testing a new raid alarm siren that very moment.

P. S.—Quiet was restored at 10 p. m.

WAR AT A GLANCE; BRIEF SUMMARY OF MAJOR ACTIONS

Latest war developments:

The British reported that hundreds of RAF planes sped across the English channel to bomb the German held continental coast. The air ministry said eight British fighters were missing.

The Moscow radio listed these successes against the Germans: The sinking of an unidentified battleship by the Red navy in the Baltic sea, and the killing or wounding of 58,000 Nazis plus the destruction of 248 planes in April on the Leningrad front alone.

Allied headquarters in Australia announced that its air force had bombed airdrome installations in Gasmata, New Britain, and that one of five Japanese fighter planes which raided Port Moresby, New Guinea, had been shot down. In the Philippines the Japanese were said to be continuing a heavy air and artillery bombardment of Corregidor.

The Chinese disclosed that Japanese columns were approaching China along the Burma road following the capture of Lashio, terminus of that supply route. A communique admitted the enemy was within 45 miles of the Chinese border. The Chinese army rushed reënforcements down the Burma road in an attempt to stop the Japanese. British forces retreated northward on the Mandalay front.

Army to Take 1-B Men for Limited Duty

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 1.—The army is moving to tap the sizable reserve of 800,000 single men with minor physical defects for limited war service.

It was disclosed today at selective service headquarters that plans are being made for the induction of an experimental group of the physically handicapped shortly after June 1.

Members of this group will receive a certain amount of army drilling and other training, designed to enable them to replace more able-bodied men so that the latter may be available for combat service.

Group to Get Guard Jobs.

Men of the experimental group, on completion of the limited training course, will be assigned to guard duty, quartermaster depots, desk jobs, and similar duties.

The number of men to be inducted into the experimental group was not made known. All will be drawn from class 1-B, members of which have been deferred for minor physical defects such as flat feet, poor eyesight, undersize, underweight, and missing fingers.

Draft boards on the east coast and in the middle west will receive instructions to induct a number of men of this class. They will be called according to their original order numbers. It is possible that the selective service administration may call for volunteers to fill the ranks.

Commissions in Doubt.

It has not been decided whether these men will be permitted to apply for admission to officers' training schools. There was a division of opinion in the army on this question.

If the experiment proves successful, it is believed it will delay the induction of men with dependents. The army is moving slowly in approaching the problem of taking men with wives and children.

Chinese Slay 1,000 Japs, Halt Honan Area Drive

CHUNGKING, China May 2 [Saturday] (AP).—Chinese field dispatches from the Honan province battlefront said tonight 1,000 Japanese had been slain in an attempted drive by the invader northwestward from Sinyang. The entire Japanese force, reported to number 6,000 men, was reported trapped near Minkong.

JAPANESE DRIVE TO REACH CHINA ON BURMA ROAD

Chinese Troops Rush to Stop Enemy.

CHUNGKING, China, May 1 (AP).—China, endangered as never before by a Japanese back door thrust which has penetrated within 45 miles of her border, sent reënforcements streaming down the Burma road today in a supreme attempt to stop the Japanese columns raging thru northeastern Burma.

Forging due north from captured Lashio, where the Mandalay railroad meets the twisting supply route thru the mountains, the Japanese reached the vicinity of Hsenwi, 22 miles northeast of Lashio along the Burma road.

The Chinese high command said that the Chinese defenders were holding steadfast in the Hsenwi sector under heavy pressure, and that some of the south bound reënforcements already had reached Hsenwi from Yunnan province.

Drive for Border.

There appeared no doubt, now, that the Japanese were going all-out to reach China's Yunnan border, which is 45 miles east and 55 miles north of Hsenwi.

[For some time informed opinion has inclined to the belief that the Japanese drive thru eastern Burma was aimed at China, rather than in preparation for a westward attack on India. At their present location in the Hsenwi area, the Japanese not only are enveloping the Burma road but are in a position to menace the new and incomplete India-China route to the north, the 2,300 mile Assam-Sikang road.]

Far south of Lashio, isolated Chinese units in the Shan state area of Taunggyi and Lollem still were attacking in an effort to cut the extended Japanese supply lines and, a communique said, were inflicting heavy casualties.

British Forces Retreat.

NEW DELHI, India, May 1 (AP).—British forces withdrew northward today to the right bank of the Irrawaddy river west of Mandalay, and the dismal allied prospects in Burma were brightened only by news of another American air raid on Japanese occupied Rangoon.

Mandalay is on the left bank of the Irrawaddy. The river flows generally from north to south the length of Burma, but makes a big bend to the west at Mandalay.

A British communique said the withdrawal across the river "proceeds successfully" and that a small Japanese party raided Monywa, on the right side of the river 55 miles west of Mandalay, but was being "successfully dealt with."

Blow Up a Bridge.

The retiring troops blew up a bridge across an Irrawaddy tributary at Kyause, which is less than 30 miles below Mandalay.

On the east flank, in the Shan states where the Chinese defenders announced the Burma road had been cut by Lashio's fall Wednesday, headquarters said the situation "is confused."

Allied military men, however, expressed determination to keep supply routes from India to China open, come what may.

[President Roosevelt yesterday classified as a military secret the steps which would be taken to keep supplies going to China.]

The raid on Rangoon by the American bombers of Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton's command was carried out the night of April 29, damaging docks, it was announced. Rangoon is Japanese chief supply base for Burma.

DUTCH PRINCESS TO VISIT CHICAGO WITHIN FEW DAYS

Princess Juliana of the Netherlands will visit Chicago sometime within the next few days as the guest of the Dutch societies of the city, it was learned last night.

J. I. Noest, counsul general of the Netherlands, 223 East Chestnut street, said he would announce the complete program for her visit in a day or so. The princess will be guest of honor at a convocation in Rockefeller Memorial chapel at the University of Chicago, May 12. President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the university will preside.

Plane Burns as It Strikes Salt Lake Peak

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 2 (Saturday)—(Special).—Eighteen persons were killed shortly after midnight today when a United Air Lines Mainliner crashed into a mountain and burst into flames two miles from the heart of this city's business district and within sight of the airport.

An air lines official said 15 of those, including two infants, were passengers. There were 3in the crew—Capt. Don Brown, pilot; Harold Minor, co-pilot, and Neva Cantwell, the stewardess.

The ship, east bound from San Francisco to Chicago and New York, crashed into the rugged Wasatch mountains, which rim the city, as it approached Salt Lake for a landing.

See Flames from Airport.

The glare of the flames could plainly be seen from the airport and from some of the buildings in the business district.

Police and air lines officials rushed ground crews and ambulances with doctors and nurses to the scene in the vain hope that some of those on board might have escaped death. Not long after the crash, however, air lines officials said all on board were dead.

The liner, Trip No. 4 to New York, left San Francisco at 6 p. m. Pacific war time (8 p. m. Chicago war time). The crash occurred at 11:10 p. m. (12:10 a. m. Chicago war time today). The plane was due in Chicago at 8:28 a. m. (Chicago war time) today.

Here Is Passenger List.

United Air Lines officials gave out the following passenger list, saying, however, that addresses of those on board were not available at once:

M. L. Patterson,
F. B. Vogle,
Mrs. J. A. Lloyd,
C. M. Cole,
Lieut. Frankenberg,
Mrs. Paleroma,
Pvt. M. Shapiro,
R. P. Darrett,
J. M. Kershisnik,
A. D. Herr,
C. R. Drenk,
Lieut. J. G. Barrows,
Lieut. C. S. Tucker,
Two unidentified infants.

Names of the infants were not available, but it was believed that one was with each of the two women passengers.

Ship Is Demolished.

Of those on board 17 were reported killed instantly. One man lived a few minutes after ground crews reached the wreck. The huge ship was demolished.

The plane came in for a routine landing. It was in radio contact with the airport almost up to the moment it hurtled against the rugged mountainside. Officials, did not know what caused the crash.

George Benton Gearhart, employé of a night club on U. S. highway 91, which skirts the rugged Wasatch mountains, saw the plane crash.

"It was a dull crash, like blasting," he said. "After it struck, the plane blazed up with flames you could see for miles."

Strewn on Peak's Side.

R. W. Pearson, a Union Pacific railroad yard checker, and a companion who were first on the scene, said they found wreckage and bodies of the victims strewn

They said they found one man alive, covered him with blankets. Then Pearson hurried down the mountainside for help. When he returned the man was dead.

A sleet storm was in progress at the scene of the crash at midnight.

CHICAGO BOYS EXCLAIM: 'WE LIKE AUSTRALIA'

One Soldier Looks for Kangaroos.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Pictures on page 4.)

AN ADVANCED ALLIED BASE, Australia, May 1.—The story of how new contingents of American troops arrived in Australia can now be told. Most of the Yanks did not know where they were when the packed transports entered port.

"Where are we?" shouted thousands of men hanging over the rails of the ships.

Some had thought they were en route to India. Others had picked the middle east as their destination, but all, including some Chicagoans, were pleased when they found it was Australia.

Chicagoan Prefers Australia.

"If we are going to fight away from America, this is the place we'd rather be," said Pvt. Eugene Huxhold of 1913 Cullom avenue, Chicago. Huxhold entered the army from a job as a shipping clerk at Sprague Warner & Co.

The arrival of the troops was shrouded in great secrecy. The exact hour was concealed from newspaper men who were permitted to cover it. I spent 18 hours at the dock in order to be there when the troops came in. With several colleagues I passed the night shivering in chill wintry breezes, peering out to sea and wondering where the boats were.

At 2 a. m. Australian dock workers deserted their creaking winches long enough to make a cup of tea which they asked us to share. It had a dash of whisky in it.

Troops Shout Questions.

Suddenly the transports took shape and began sliding slowly toward the docks. From about 50 feet away they began shouting: "Hey, where is this? What country is this?"

When they were told they were in Australia, they cried:

"Do they have American cigarets here?"

Thru portholes could be seen the tightly packed bunks where the soldiers slept during the voyage. Up forward a long line of men stood with mess kits in their hands waiting to be served breakfast before setting out for camp.

After breakfast the troops disembarked.

Looks for Boomerangs.

As the soldiers moved away from the water front they peered eagerly for a glimpse of foreign soil. They didn't quite know what to expect. Some thought Australia was populated mainly by aborigines.

"Say, where are all these guys with boomerangs?" one soldier asked indignantly as he passed thru the business section of a city with modern office buildings.

The soldiers found the rural landscape much like that at home, with sweeping, undulating plains occasionally rising into low hills.

"It's very much like parts of the middle west," said Pvt. Frank Stockmal of 2901 West 39th place, Chicago. Stockmal, who joined up June 2, 1940, formerly worked for Swift's.

Most of the troops were disappointed over their failure to see any kangaroos.

Asks About Kangaroos.

"What is all this about kangaroos?" asked Pvt. Leo Himelblau of 1108 Newport avenue, Chicago. "All I can see is sheep."

Signs advertising ice cream were greeted with whoops of delight.

"We didn't get much of it on the boat," said vt. Casimir Attak of 1217 Chicago avenue, Chicago, by way of explanation.

Hours later and many miles away in the "bush," the Americans found their new home which had been built by Australians. The main camp consisted of a number of small tent cities tucked away among low, rolling hills. Each tent had a board floor.

The troops threw their barracks bags on the ground and lined up while they were being assigned to tents. At a signal all moved in and made themselves comfortable, and in 30 minutes were ready to take up their duties.

FAMILIES HAPPY.

The families of Huxhold, Himelbau, and Attak last night expressed happiness on learning that the trio had reached Australia safely. Himelbau is a personal friend of Capt. Arthur Wermuth, who won fame as "the one man army from Chicago" for killing more than 100 Japanese in the Philippines.

REVEAL KNOX'S VETO OF PLAN TO HALT SUB RAIDS

Pilots Tell of Rejection 2 Months Ago.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

A scheme for defeating axis submarines off the Atlantic coast similar to that proposed on the senate floor in Washington on Thursday by Senator Wayland Brooks was presented directly to Secretary of Navy Knox two months ago and the secretary personally turned it down, a group of Chicago airmen disclosed here last night. Since that veto some 45 more freighters and tankers have been announced by the navy as sunk by U-boats.

"Sen. Brooks hit the nail on the head," one of these pilots said yesterday. "Of course his scheme isn't new, but it is practical. Every experienced flyer in the country knows that an armed light plane patrol that covered our coastal waters every hour of the day and night would bring an abrupt halt to these sinkings."

Begged Knox to Act.

The airmen—numbering more than 200 in all—said they begged Secretary Knox early in March to enlist flyers and flivver type airplanes from civil life to take over the coastal patrol. They begged him to arm these planes with depth charges—each ship could carry a pilot, radio, and up to 300 pounds of explosives—and put out a screen that would extend 50 miles to sea and from Maine to Florida. But no action of this sort has yet been taken, they said.

After their proposals were transmitted to Washington thru personal agents of Knox in Chicago, a period of one month elapsed. Then on April 10, the following note from Knox was received here:

"The plan you submitted has been carefully considered. It is not the intention of the navy department to employ civilian pilots and airplanes as such, as it is considered preferable to induct those individuals who meet navy requirements directly into the service.

Referred to Civil Patrol.

"It is suggested that you investigate the possibility of employing the pilots to whom you refer in the various wings of the Civil Air Patrol. Your attention is directed to the current employment of certain portions of the CAP by the army. Further information with regards to this employment can be obtained by addressing the Office of Civilian Defense under which the CAP is organized.

"Your interest in this problem which is causing the country such concern is sincerely appreciated."

The airmen here said they want the navy to take as specialists, reservists, or some other classification, the men and planes to do the patrol work. This would relieve the navy's regular units now kept from combat work and asked to cover far greater areas than can be watched efficiently with forces available. But no such move has come, they said.

There are 3,000 light planes ideal for the subpatrol work now frozen at various airports around the country, the airmen said, and almost 100,000 airmen to fly them. It would take only 1,000 pilots and 600 machines to operate the constant umbrella, they said.

A dispatch from Washington printed Friday afternoon by Secretary Knox's afternoon newspaper was declared by the airmen to be a total misrepresentation of the true situation as regards the use of either pilots or planes from the country's civilian resources. This dispatch indicated that the Civil Air Patrol, an organization of civil pilots affiliated with the army air corps, was now patroling the coasts.

Spokesmen for the Chicago group said that while the CAP has been doing some good work, its activities have been extremely limited. Patrols are conducted only 15 miles to sea, planes are unarmed, and only a few points on the 1,400 mile coast line are patroled at all. No attempt is made to conduct a comprehensive round the clock coverage of all shipping.

Only Play at Patroling.

"Actually this patrol should be a navy proposition, and it should be approached seriously," one pilot said. "So far they are only playing at patroling and even so they have done some fine things. Their efforts have really proved how a thoro patrol would work. Above all the planes should be armed and numerous so they would be repeatedly over the same waters.

"They are conducting the CAP patrol as if it were a peacetime proposition. What if there should be some plane and pilot losses—it is war and they are expected."

8 WOMEN KILLED, 10 HURT AS BLAST WRECKS FACTORY

Railway Signal Torpedo Shop Blows Up.

McKeesport, Pa., May 1 (AP).—Eight women were killed today and 10 were injured in an explosion which destroyed the mixing plant of the Central Railways Signal company in adjoining Versailles borough.

Arrow locates place of blast.

A mixture of potash and sulphur, which the 20 women in the steel and concrete one story building were making into torpedoes for railroad signal work, exploded at 2:37 p. m. Gust Bassler, 50, a railroad brakeman, was the first to enter the building after the explosion.

Girls Run About Screaming.

"It was terrifying," Bassler said. "Girls were running about screaming, blood gushing from wounds in their legs and arms. Black smoke hung in and above the building. I ran inside and helped out one girl who couldn't walk."

Bassler said he seized a fire extinguisher and with Howard B. McKee, a volunteer fireman of McKeesport, put out a small blaze.

"I picked up fragments and bits of bodies everywhere," said McKee. "Some of the victims were decapitated. All were nude, their clothing having been burned or blasted off."

Superintendent's Daughter Killed.

One of those killed was Elizabeth Slaney, 19 years old, a recent graduate of McKeesport High school, whose body was identified by her father, Frank Slaney, plant superintendent. Two died after being taken to McKeesport hospital. Four of the women in the hospital were reported in serious condition.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation began an inquiry into the blast. Its cause was not immediately made known.

Jap Commerce Group in Hawaii Halts Activities

HONOLULU, T. H., May 1.—The Japanese chamber of commerce here has suspended activities for the duration, it was made known today. Tetsuo Oi, secretary and manager, is under detention by United States military authorities. The last activity of the chamber was to distribute gasoline ration cards among Japanese business men. The chamber was formed in 1916.

TVA SUPPORTERS CONCEDE FLAWS IN ITS OPERATION

Norris Has Kind Word for Power Companies.

Tires of Power Company Aid.

Norris said the private power companies, thru an arrangement with the TVA, brought in 300,000 kilowatts in one instance alone for the manufacture of aluminum. "That power would not have been available had it not been for the arrangements between the private power companies and the TVA," he said.

Sen. A. B. Chandler (D., Ky.) also challenged McKellar's statement that there was no power shortage in the TVA area.

Gordon R. Clapp, general manager of the TVA, testified before the appropriations committee in connection with the pending bill that the TVA still has a power shortage and is getting power from the private utilities in Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio.

Appropriations heretofore voted for the TVA aggregate $531,869,270, of which 65 per cent, or $345,715,000, is allotted to power, according to the TVA's own accounting system. Thus, with a capital investment of $345,000,000 in power alone, the organization has had to call upon the private utilities for assistance.

The pending bill, as passed by the house, carries $136,100,000 for the TVA. Under Sen. McKellar's amendment this would be increased to $172,220,112, and the TVA's receipts would go into the treasury instead of its revolving fund.

Lilienthal Charges Politics.

David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the TVA, has charged that McKellar's purpose is to convert the 35,000 TVA jobs into "political plums." McKellar denounced this charge as an "absolute falsehood" and accused Lilienthal, whom he termed a Uriah Heap, of "trying to build up a little machine of his own."

McKellar said he understood that Lilienthal entered into an agreement with "this man who comes from Texas and Illinois and Tennessee and Maryland—Silly Man Evans, who came down a year or so ago and bought a newspaper in Nashville."

"He and Lilienthal have made an agreement to put me out of politics."

M'CORMICK GIFT CHAMBERS USED IN AIR RESEARCH

Secret Experiments Made by Passavant Staff.

The special oxygen and decompression chambers presented to Passavant hospital 11 years ago by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, are being used today by the nation's military air forces for secret studies of the effects of altitude on combat flyers. Faculty members of Northwestern university's medical school who staff the hospital are in charge of the experiments.

These facts were disclosed yesterday by medical school authorities who also said the aviation experimentalists and regular patients of the hospital are using the special oxygen chambers an average of 12 hours daily. They said that the studies have demonstrated so completely the importance of such chambers that new equipment of this sort is being added to St. Luke's hospital.

Results Are Withheld.

Members of the hospital staff conducting the military experiments are sworn to secrecy and none of the results of these studies are being made public at this time. It is understood, however, that the physicians and aviation officers are most interested in the effects of repeated brief periods of oxygen starvation upon the nervous and motorcontrol systems of fighting airmen.

Other studies made include methods for reducing distress from the expansion of intestinal gas at high altitudes, and ways and means for decreasing ear troubles during rapid descents. The chambers, it is understood, also are being used as proving grounds for various types of oxygen masks, and for determining the proper rates of oxygen flow for combat flight.

There has been such a demand for the chamber and the accurate control of pressure and oxygen in the atmosphere within it that recommendations for the construction of other, even larger chambers at the hospital have been made by the staff.

Presentation Made in 1931.

Experimentation at the hospital is along the lines Col. McCormick had hoped would be pursued when in 1931, he gave the chambers to the hospital and school. At the time of their presentation he called attention to the possibilities for aviation research in the chambers and said he hoped they would become—in part at least—an aviation medicine laboratory.

Two standard hospital bedrooms were enclosed in a double walled chamber on the hospital's ninth floor, to form the entire oxygen and decompression unit. Walls are of steel in double thickness, and windows are of three ply glass. Oxygen is pumped into the rooms from tanks in the hospital basement, or electrically operated pumps reduce room pressures to carefully measured levels. Humidity also is controled.

Air Locks Are Used.

Either of the rooms is large enough to accommodate a number of persons so that nurses can attend patients in the rooms, doctors enter and depart. Air locks are provided so that these entrances and departures do not materially affect the conditions within the rooms.

In addition to the aviation experiments the chambers are used daily for medical patients. At this time sinus therapy is given to nearly 50 patients each week, and the rooms always are available for patients suffering from pneumonia, heart disease, post-operative difficulties, drug poisoning, electrical shocks and carbon monoxide poisoning.

Studies of the effects of short exposures to oxygen starvation upon the metabolism [rate of oxydation] for human beings, rats and guinea pigs are also being made. It is said that the findings are so significant that these, too, are being held in confidence.

Summer Khaki

Lieut. L. K. Vertrees wearing naval summer uniform.

Naval officers donned their new summer khaki uniforms yesterday to the confusion of thousands of sailors and soldiers. The new uniforms include a light weight khaki shirt with gold bars on the collar to denote rank, khaki coat and trousers, and black shoes, and black tie. One khaki clad naval officer walking thru the loop yesterday reported that several army officers cast puzzled glances at his black shoes—their own are brown—and saluted. He met several sailors, also obviously puzzled, who after a moment's indecision finally saluted. The new uniform, he said, had absolutely no effect, one way or another, on the marines.

CHICAGO PRIEST AWARDED DSC AS PHILIPPINE HERO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 1.—First Lieut. John L. Curran of Chicago, a chaplain, was one of 56 officers and 44 enlisted men awarded the distinguished service cross for bravery in defense of the Philippine Islands. The list was announced tonight in a war department communique. Lieut. Curran listed his next of kin as the Very Rev. Peter P. O'Brien, O. P., superior, Dominican college, Chicago.

Maj. Gen. George F. Moore, Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, Brig. Gen. Spencer B. Akin, and Brig. Gen. Albert M. Jones, also were on the list as were 28 Filipinos.

The distinguished service cross is the second highest honor that the United States bestows on military heroes.

[Father Curran was born in Boston 40 years ago and was ordained here after three years at the Dominican house of studies in River Forest. He served parishes in Kentucky and Louisiana and joined the army in 1940, being attached to the air force. He has a brother, also a priest, in Washington, D. C. He is not related to Father O'Brien.]

DE SEVERSKY HITS U. S. CHIEFS FOR 'INFERIOR' PLANES

Designer Says Axis Ships Top American.

American airplanes now in service are inferior in almost every military aspect to equivalent British and axis warplanes and this inferiority is due solely to errors in judgment, shortsightedness and stubborn orthodoxy on the part of men responsible for directing the nation's air policy.

Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky, brilliant combat plane designer and pilot, made this sensational allegation in his recently published book, "Victory Thru Air Power." He further charged that the men responsible for the woeful state of our air forces still are in positions of leadership, and said conditions will not be corrected until a full housecleaning removes them from office and thus improves the morale of the men who risk their lives flying inferior planes in battle.

Arnold Called "Bottleneck."

Pulling no punches, De Seversky, who built the P-35 series of army fighters and established the Seversky Aircraft corporation [now Republic aviation], charged that Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, is the bottleneck to plane improvement. Citing personal experiences during eight years of selling airplanes to the air corps, De Seversky asserted that Gen. Arnold refused to utilize the aviation brains and industrial skills offered him by the American aviation industry.

Tearing the veil of army secrecy from what he termed "brutal facts," De Seversky said he acted to show the causes of America's military air inferiority and prevent their repetition or continuance.

"The clear need," De Seversky wrote, "is to forestall events by seeking out the causes of our backwardness and eliminating them with relentless vigor. . . . A real housecleaning and renovation of our military aviation structure . . . would expose too much and would cut too cruelly into burocratic inertias and privileges.

Raps Prewar Procurement.

"Our fighting men of the air services know that the very people who rammed inferior equipment down their throats still are in charge of the situation. . . . The most stimulating thing that the President could do to lift morale would be to follow the English example and clean house at the top—not in the tactical units, but among those who were directly responsible for procurement before the war emergency."

De Seversky said the impression that German air force strength was a complete surprise to professional soldiers as well as to laymen was false. The parade of aviation in the Spanish war and in the early months of the European war showed that great fire power and range, as well as armor and self-sealing fuel tanks, were absolute essentials in combat planes. Yet, the author says, our own air force was pitifully weak in all these points until recent months when some progress was made.

De Seversky sold the army the P-35 pursuit planes delivered in 1937 and 1938. He says he pleaded with the army to let him mount more than the two guns to which he was restricted, and begged to double the range of his ships. In fact, he offered to double the fire power and fuel capacity of his ships for $1,879 a machine in lots of 21, or for $15,000 in one experimental installation.

"The war department declined the proposal," he writes, "asserting in an official letter that the price quoted exceeded the potential value of such modifications to the air corps."

De Seversky says his company then built a long range plane in which he made many high speed flights for distances up to 2,500 miles to prove his point, but the army continued to ignore his pleas.

Made Himself Unwelcome.

"The more persistently I begged for the privilege of enlarging the reach of our military pursuit planes the more unwelcome I made myself at headquarters," he writes. "A couple of years later Gen. Arnold in his book on air power indicated that engineers were 'frantically' at work on convoy pursuits."

"The implication was that if we did not possess this essential equipment it was thru some act of God, rather than thru the blindness of officialdom. Had there been more competence and less complacent indifference three years earlier there would be no need for 'frantic' catching up now."

De Seversky writes that the refusal to countenance addition of range to pursuit airplanes explains the American setbacks in the Pacific. Pursuit planes now have to be crated and shipped across an ocean infested with submarines and menaced by enemy air power, he said, whereas suggested modifications would have made it possible to fly them to the scenes of action — Hawaii, Guam, Wake, Midway, the Philippines — under their own power.

"The public," he writes, "could not guess that this failure was the result of shortsightedness and not an aeronautical limitation. Technically there was no reason why, years before the start of the Pacific war, we should not have possessed a canopy of air power over the whole area."

De Seversky touches upon one of the most delicate situations in aviation when he pounces upon the air corps' "pet engine" situation. The pet engine, De Seversky writes, is the only American liquid cooled motor in production today—the Allison V-12, 1,325 horse power unit.

In 1938, he says, the army refused to allow him to enter a pursuit plane competition with a plane designed to use any one of several types of engines. De Seversky said he argued against the adoption of a plane that could use only one type of engine because the power plant might prove unsuitable or the factory making it might be destroyed. In either event, he pointed out, an entire pursuit force might be grounded unless another type of motor could be substituted.

Offers 432 M. P. H. Plane.

"The office of the chief of air corps [at that time headed by Gen. Arnold] failed to understand this vital strategic consideration," De Seversky writes. "It not only rejected the idea of interchangeable engines for all pursuit types, but went so far as to chain all pursuits to one type—and an engine of highly problematical and experimental character at that."

De Seversky said that despite the army's ruling he made exhaustive studies of cooling and cowling and showed that an air cooled motor could be quite as effective as a liquid cooled one. Air cooled motors of nearly twice the horse power of the Allison engine were available, he added, so in June, 1938, he proposed the construction of a fighter plane with a Pratt & Whitney air cooled 2,000 horse power motor which would have had a top speed of 432 miles an hour at substratospheric altitudes.

He was refused point blank, De Seversky says, yet the same official who turned him down boasted publicly in a recent speech that the new Republic [formerly De Seversky] P-47 pursuit plane built around the 2,000 horse power air cooled engine "eclipsed" all previous American fighter types.

"The publicity implied that this was something new in the way of pursuit planes pulled out of the official magician's hat," De Seversky writes. "The truth is that this plane was conceived in 1937, presented for consideration to the air corps in 1938, only to be denied a hearing because it did not use the pet engine.

"Its production was postponed until 1941. No amount of self-congratulation by the very officials who prevented the construction of this plane until three years too late can wipe out their responsibility for the delay. The Truman committee says the P-47 cannot be delivered in appreciable quantities until the end of 1942. Yet this plane could have been in action on all fronts years earlier."

As De Seversky says in his summation, however, the moral of his book is not despair, but of soaring hope. He says that America's aerial potential is so great that victory thru aviation is assured.

AUSTRALIA VOTES AGAINST SENDING MILITIA ABROAD

Lower House Supports Premier Curtin.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

CANBERRA, Australia, May 1. — The opposition resolution calling for militia service outside Australia was defeated in the house of representatives today, 31 to 27, with the aid of two independents, on whose votes the government had relied.

Former Prime Minister A. W. Fadden argued that the Australian imperial force should be welded into one army available for offense as well as defense. He said the opposition had been waiting for an official pronouncement on the issue from Prime Minister John Curtin for some time.

He declared that obviously inspired statements had appeared in newspapers suggesting that the government was willing to send any Australian forces overseas at the wish of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the allied commander in chief, despite the restrictions.

Seeks Maximum Security.

"The opposition wants the war effort placed on a footing giving the nation maximum protection and security," Fadden went on. "It is now important that we meet the enemy away from Australian shores as well as within. Unless immediate action is taken to remove the distinction between the Australian imperial force and the militia defensive strategy might be seriously hampered.

"A simple amendment to existing legislation would give Australia one army, any unit of which would be liable for service anywhere in defending Australia."

Curtin replied that Australia had available for service overseas Australian land forces that were as large as those the previous government had sent away. He stressed that the advice on which he was acting and the policy he was trying to carry out had for its immediate effect the bringing of men to Australia, not of sending them out.

Calls for More Planes.

"The dispatch of forces to distant theaters from Australia is not contemplated in the present realities of the war," he said. "A force is already available larger than any that would have been used for that purpose.

"Air superiority has almost dictated the nature of military and naval operations. Our air strength needs to be greater. If we could double it, it would be far more advantageous than adding two or three divisions of land forces.

"The country has now reached a stage where it has to use the maximum resources of national unity. This measure was not sought by anybody except a few disappointed politicians seeking an issue on which to rehabilitate themselves."

Calls for Offensive.

Former Premier Robert G. Menzies said there should be one force, designed to defend Australia from invasion and also to take the offensive in good time "because we could escape the invasion of Australia and still lose the war."

Army Minister F. M. Forde declared that the government had done all that Gen. MacArthur had asked and that the debate was a gross breach of the opposition's pledge not to play party politics.

GENERAL CALLS REPORT OF CHUTE RAIDERS FALSE

Fort Bragg, N. C., May 1 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Preston A. Weatherred, commander of the 2nd district of the 4th corps area, said tonight that reports that three unidentified parachutists had landed near Bayboro, in Pamlico county, were false.

Earlier he had said that "specially assigned officers" were investigating such reports. Soon after the report was heard in the vicinity of Bayboro, nearly 700 civilians, many armed with shotguns, and law enforcement officers began a search of the surrounding territory.

At the time that Gen. Weatherred disclosed that the army was looking into the rumor, he commented: "there probably is nothing to the reports, and nothing to get excited about."

The New River marine base headquarters, near the scene, said marines were engaged during the day in parachute tactics, and the belief was expressed in some quarters that the reports originated from this coincidence.

PROTESTS RAIL SERVICE FOR RACE TRACK 'LOAFERS'

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP).—Sen. Clyde Herring [D., Ia.] today said he planned to protest to Joseph B. Eastman, transportation coördinator, about use of railroad cars to "haul loafers to race tracks at a time when soldier boys are jammed into obsolete and unsafe railway equipment."

"I am going to ask Eastman," Herring said, "why railway cars should be used for such purpose when the railroads are unable to move necessities because of lack of equipment.

"I feel this particularly today because my youngest boy is on the high seas in uniform. All of those fellows going to race tracks should be in the army and the same is true of baseball players."

JAP AIRDROMES OFF AUSTRALIA RAIDED BY ALLIES

Big Guns, Bombers Pound Corregidor.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 2 [Saturday]—(AP).—Allied airmen successfully bombed Japanese airdrome installations at Gasmata on New Britain Island, and shot down one of seven Japanese fighter planes which sought to intercept them on a reconnaissance flight over New Guinea, a communique said today. Another Japanese plane was destroyed when five enemy craft attacked Port Moresby, New Guinea, yesterday, the communique added.

Japs Pound Corregidor.

In the Philippines the Japanese were reported still pounding Corregidor and the other fortified islands of Manila bay both with artillery and aerial bombs.

On Mindanao Island the Japanese were said to be attempting a crossing of the Rio Grande river at Columbao and Cotabato.

Pick Off Five Jap Planes.

Allied headquarters announced yesterday that three Japanese planes were shot down and two were damaged in a renewal of aerial and artillery attacks on Corregidor.

There were 12 air raids, accompanied by heavy shelling. The defenders' fire hit Japanese batteries, truck columns, and supply ships, the communique said.

[The Tokio radio reported that "Japanese forces mopping up remaining enemy resistance on the Island of Luzon stormed and occupied key positions on Mount Pinatubo on April 29."]

PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL, GETULIO VARGAS, HURT IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Getulio Vargas.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 1 (AP).—President Getulio Vargas suffered cuts which required hospital attention in an automobile accident today while en route from nearby Petropolis to Guanabara palace here. An official announcement said Vargas' automobile was in collision with another on a suburban street. A medical bulletin said Vargas suffered a bad contusion on his right thigh, but that there was no sign of a fracture and that his condition is satisfactory.

Vargas, who is 59 years old, has governed Brazil since his leadership of the 1930 revolution placed him in power. This régime lasted to 1934, marked by extensive reforms, and upon promulgation of a federal constitution in 1934 he was elected president for the term 1934-'38.

On Nov. 10, 1937, Vargas, supported by the army and navy, revoked the 1934 constitution and supplanted it with another indefinitely extending "the mandate of the present president of the republic." This has given Brazil virtually one-man government.

HEAR NAZIS KILL 30 FOR HELPING GIRAUD ESCAPE

MOSCOW, May 2 [Saturday]—(AP).—Thirty French officers have been executed in Germany as suspected accomplices in the escape of French Gen. Henri Honore Giraud from the German prison at Koenigstein, a Tass dispatch from Stockholm, Sweden, said today.

BOY HIT WITH BAT; NOSE BROKEN.

Richard Periel, 6 years old, was treated for a broken nose in the Holy Cross hospital yesterday after being accidentally struck with a bat while playing ball in the alley behind his home at 6541 South Whipple street.

250 DIE IN NAZI PLANT BLAST IN NORTH BELGIUM

LONDON, May 1 (AP).—A tremendous explosion on Wednesday wiped out the German controled gas and explosives factory at Tessenderloo in north Belgium, killing 250 persons and injuring more than 1,000, advices from the Nazi occupied nation disclosed today.

Map locates scene of blast.

The impression was strong in London that Belgian patriots were responsible. The German radio said cryptically that "the cause of the disaster has not been ascertained." Later, however, the German radio reported 100 "Communists" were being deported from Belgium to the east for fomenting sabotage and causing strikes.

The Berlin radio, admitting the factory was "completely destroyed," maintained that it produced artificial manure and washing preparations. Free Belgian sources in London said it was equipped to manufacture chemicals for explosives and gas. The Germans admitted the blast damaged a nearby technical school, demolished or damaged "a number" of houses and put the Tessenderloo telephone exchange out of action.

FREE AMERICAN SOLDIER IN DEATH OF IRISH DRIVER

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN NORTHERN IRELAND, May 1 (AP).—Sergt. William V. Clipsham of Narbeth, Pa., was acquitted today by a court martial of a manslaughter charge in the death of an Irish bus driver on April 17.

The court was told that the driver, Albert Redden, 30 years old, drove into a column of military vehicles escorting high United States officials and raced with Clipsham's armored car.

The defense said a defective machine gun was discharged accidentally when the car was jarred to keep Rodden's bus out of the convoy and that three bullets struck Rodden. The civil government had waived jurisdiction in the case.

Seek to Halt Marriages of Yanks to Iceland Girls

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, April 29 [Delayed] (AP).—Both the United States army and the Iceland government are trying to discourage marriages between soldiers and "stulkas"—the native girls. The army has not forbidden such unions but has expressed firm disapproval.

CHAPTER 10

GENERAL DOUGLAS MacARTHUR'S early education was somewhat limited due to the restrictions of living at army posts with his parents. He spent but a few years at public school when, because of the exigencies of their army life, his parents placed him in private school. Later, when he was fifteen, his parents entered him in West Texas Military Academy at San Antonio. He won medals for achievement every year and graduated in 1898 as the first man in his class.

It was during his days at West Texas Academy that he manifested a deep interest in athletics. He was small in stature but excelled in most athletic activities, particularly in baseball and

HITLER SEEKS MORE TROOPS IN TALK WITH DUCE

Believe Dictators Give Up Peace Hopes.

BERNE, Switzerland, May 1 (AP).—Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini were reported tonight to have dwelt in the main during two days of conferences at Salzburg, Germany, on measures for increasing the number of effective axis troops on the Russian front and on rigid enforcement of home discipline both in Germany and Italy.

They also were believed by competent diplomatic analysts to have given up any hope of negotiating a peace this spring, after three weeks of unofficial overtures.

Axis communiques today disclosed the bare facts of the dictators' 11th meeting Wednesday and Thursday, and axis commentators said, as usual, that it was a preface to "great political and military events" early this summer.

Jap Envoy Absent.

Contrary to expectations, the Japanese ambassador to Berlin, Lieut. Gen. Hiroshi Oshima, was not on hand.

It was believed, however, that Oshima might meet Hitler and Mussolini in the near future for a detailed discussion of axis war efforts. Foreign military observers here thought this would involve an effort to get Japan into the war against Russia by June.

Behind the familiar axis communique curtain, decorated with such phrases as the one that "a perfect accord of views" had been reached at the meetings "on the further conduct of the war by the two nations in both political and military spheres," qualified observers saw evidences that the Salzburg conference ranked as probably the most important that Hitler and Mussolini ever have had.

This, it was pointed out, is the first time they have come together after publicly alluding to the sharp need for greater discipline and morale on the home front.

War of Nerves Grows.

In the matter of military numbers the axis position is regarded as even more serious than disaffection at home.

Hitler has told the Germans how close the German army came to disaster in the winter. Reserve divisions, intended for spring, were thrown into the Russian battle in January. Far fewer new divisions than expected enrolled in Germany, Italy, and especially in the Balkan countries. Bulgaria, for instance, provided but three or four divisions, instead of 10 expected, and these were sent to Serbia to relieve German units.

The war of nerves over the possibility of allied invasion in the west is keeping more divisions along the Atlantic coast than otherwise would be needed.

Foreign diplomatic sources heard that Hitler plans to send Field Marshal Erwin Rommel to the Donetz basin to direct tank operations, indicating the lull in north Africa may continue.

NAZI BATTLESHIP SUNK IN BALTIC, RUSSIA REPORTS

Claims a Total of 447 Ships Sent Down.

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, May 1 (AP).—The guns, bombs, and bayonets of the Red army have punctured beyond repair Adolf Hitler's vaunted spring offensive plans, the Russians declared on this May day in announcing an imposing list of new soviet successes.

To the nation's workers and fighters Premier Josef Stalin broadcast a message of confidence, the army newspaper Red Star praised the armed forces for "converting into a fable" Hitler's early offensive preparations, and the Moscow radio announced these soviet successes:

Claim Battleship Sunk.

The sinking of a German battleship—the first claimed thus far by the Russians—by the Baltic fleet.

A total of 58,000 Germans killed or wounded and 248 enemy planes destroyed in April on the Leningrad front alone.

In a resumé of the Baltic fleet's operations — presumably since the war's start—the radio announcement listed 447 German ships destroyed, including the battleship, a cruiser, 16 destroyers, 18 submarines, 18 torpedo boats, and 114 transports.

The name of the battleship reported sunk or the date of its destruction was not given.

Claim 721 Planes Downed.

Soviet airmen and anti-aircraft gunners of the Baltic fleet were credited with having downed 721 enemy planes.

The most pronounced activity at the moment appeared to be on the central front, where the soviet information bureau reported 300 Germans killed.

The nightly soviet communique reported 38 German planes were destroyed yesterday with a loss 9 Russian craft, and that Russian ships sank a 9,000 ton German transport in the Barents sea.

A supplement said soviet guerrillas seized several villages behind the German lines in the Leningrad sector. On the Kalinin front it reported 900 Germans killed in two days. Soviet planes yesterday were said to have destroyed or damaged 95 German trucks carrying troops and supplies.

BOMBERS ATTACK SUEZ CANAL; ONLY SLIGHT DAMAGE IS REPORTED

CAIRO, Egypt, May 1 (AP).—Bombs were dropped in the Suez canal and Damietta areas in an air raid last night, a communique from the Egyptian ministry of interior said today. Damietta lies on a mouth of the Nile, about 30 miles northwest from Port Said, the Mediterranean mouth of the canal. The damage was slight, the communique said, but six persons were injured. Royal air force headquarters said two attacking bombers were shot down. Dust storms were said to have hampered land operations in Libya.

Malta Bags Six Planes.

VALETTA, Malta, May 1 (AP).—Six enemy planes were destroyed and eight damaged during raids on Malta in the last 24 hours, a communique said tonight.

French Fire on British Plane.

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, May 1 (AP).—Anti-aircraft fire at a British plane flying over this Atlantic naval base roused the population yesterday. It was the second such recent incident.

British Force Repulsed, Says Rome.

ROME, May 1 [from Italian broadcasts] (AP).—Several prisoners were captured when Italian forces east of El Mekili, Libya, repulsed an attack by British armored forces, the Italian high command reported today.

NAZI LABOR TOLD TO MAKE 'FINAL' EFFORT TO WIN

BERLIN, May 1 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Robert Ley, Adolf Hitler's lieutenant for labor affairs, appealed to the workers of Germany in a May day message today to make "a last supreme effort for victory."

"It is the duty of all to help lighten the burden of the men at the front and avoid bloodshed as much as possible . . ." he said.

"Whatever may come and however long the war may last, it will be decided by the best soldiers and the best weapons.

"It is our sacred duty to get the best weapons and the best munitions in great quantities."

FINDS CALEDONIA NOW STRONGLY FORTIFIED BY U. S.

French Praise American Troops There.

BY WILLIAM HIPPLE.

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 1 (AP).—I was in Noumea, principal city of New Caledonia, the day the war department at Washington, D. C., announced that American forces had arrived there, and I saw reassuring evidence that the islands on the strategically vital northeastern flank of Australia had been fortified strongly.

American soldiers were to be seen everywhere when I touched the "Free French" city after an extended tour with United States naval units operating in the southern Pacific.

"This place reminds me of the French quarter of New Orleans," said one American soldier from a southern state.

Band Plays in Square.

In the city square the army band was playing a concert. The program included popular American dance tunes.

The crowd of local residents—Samoans, Fijians, Javanese, and French soldiers and civilians—listened and applauded enthusiastically.

"We are happy you Americans are here to combat with us," one Frenchman said in halting English. He said the arrival of American troops was "veree populaire with us." He added that Vichy sympathizers on the island either were interned or had "come over with us."

A United States army officer told me that if the Japanese occupied New Caledonia they would have an ideal spot from which to bomb Australia and cut the American supply line, "but we're not going to let that happen."

Expect Big Naval Battle.

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP).—The war in the Pacific apparently is approaching a period of intense naval and land action among the islands southwest of Hawaii, well qualified authorities said today, with the security of the allied supply route to Australia as the prize at stake.

A strong Japanese attack against one or more sections of the island chain guarding this extended lifeline probably is imminent, it was added, and the ensuing action is almost certain to produce a great naval battle.

Actual development of a Japanese strategy of blockade first was indicated this week with reports that a considerable force of ships and men was being concentrated in the mandated island area.

This force was understood to be gathering in the Marshall Islands, center of which is Jaluit—2,420 miles from Pearl Harbor, 1,940 miles from Samoa, and about 1,960 miles from New Caledonia.

Rt. Rev. Cyril F. Garbett Is Named Archbishop of York

LONDON, May 1 (AP).—The Rt. Rev. Cyril Forster Garbett, 67 years old, Anglican bishop of Winchester, since 1932 and clerk of the closet to the king since 1937, was elected archbishop of York today. He succeeds Dr. William Temple, who was enthroned April 23 as archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England.

ADM. LEAHY LEAVES VICHY; BRINGING BODY OF WIFE TO AMERICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, May 1.—Adm. William D. Leahy, American ambassador to France, left Vichy tonight to return to Washington, D. C., for consultation over changes in the French government and the extent to which they may affect American interests.

The ambassador left under tragic circumstances. Only a few days before he was ordered home, Mrs. Leahy underwent an operation and died 10 days later. Mrs. Leahy's body is being returned with the admiral on Chief of State Marshal Petain's special train, on which the envoy will travel to the Spanish frontier. There Generalissimo Francisco Franco's presidential car will meet the funeral party and carry it across Spain.

Adm. Leahy expects to leave Lisbon, Portugal, for America on the Swedish liner Drottningholm about May 5.

BUILDING SERVICE WORKERS RETURN AFTER N. Y. STRIKE

New York, May 1 [Special].—A strike of 8,000 building service employés, which hampered service in 800 of Manhattan's fashionable Riverside drive apartments, was called off tonight after the national war labor board asked workers to return to their jobs pending arbitration of the dispute.

The strikers, members of local 32-B of the AFL Building Service Employés International union, were ordered out in a dispute over the open shop issue and demands for wage increases in a new contract. David Sullivan, president of the local, ordered the men back after they had been on strike 13 hours.

The strike disrupted elevator and telephone service and forced thousands of tenants to use stairways and do without porter service.

PREMATURE BLAST KILLS MINER.

MACHINES BUILT FOR PEACE THROB WITH WAR TASKS

New Methods, New Ideas Bring Improvements.

(This is the last article in a series describing the epochal achievements of Chicagoland industries in their transition from peacetime to war production.)

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

In a hundred factories thruout Chicagoland the machines that for two decades have turned out the merchandise of peace are being geared to production of the instruments of war.

Not only is the changeover being made smoothly and with a minimum time loss, but new methods and new ideas are bringing revolutionary production improvements. The brains that have mapped the strategy for years of keen, competitive selling are now tackling the problem of arming the United States with the greatest possible speed and efficiency.

One outstanding example of this is in evidence at the Ingersoll Steel & Disc company in the Chicago industrial area. On display there are samples of a vital war item that always has been made of brass and which soon will be in mass production, made of steel. Brass these days is a semi-precious metal.

More Improvements Coming.

Additional improvements and efficiencies will come as American industry approaches the all-out war production stage. At several plants visited, criticisms of present government specifications were heard. Plant managers complained both of waste and complications resulting from specifications for certain items.

This is particularly true in the case of one product, required at the rate of millions a month and whose parts now must be cut and drilled out of solid brass and aluminum. One plant executive summed it up this way:

"If we were making these parts for our regular products, we would have to do it differently. We would be unable to stand the expense of so many machines if we were to compete with our rivals and we would have to turn these parts out faster.

"Carving them out of brass and aluminum bars and rods results in a high percentage of waste. This means nothing to us now, because our contracts with the government allow for the waste. We simply ship it back and get credit.

Hopes for Change in Rules.

"If we were making these gadgets for ourselves, we'd use sheet brass and aluminum. Instead of machining them, we'd stamp them out in one operation at the rate of one a second. And there'd be practically no waste. We have pointed this out to army ordnance officers and I hope there'll be a change soon."

The "gadget" referred to is not among the items being turned out by Ingersoll Steel, however. This plant has been converted to the manufacture of heavier implements.

Its peacetime line included disc truck wheels, discs for plows, washer tubes, steel beer barrels, and kitchen sinks. When it began fulfilling arms contracts its output practically doubled.

Now, however, as the rationing cuts into the plant's consumer products, new war production is contemplated in quantities that not only will take up the slack, but will result in employment of many more workers.

Copper Screen Looms Idle.

In one wing of the plant a line of looms, sheeted now with white canvas, stretch away into the distance. These were used for weaving copper screen. Priorities long since have wiped out the manufacture of copper screen for civilian use. Eventually the looms themselves will be gone and other machines will have taken their places for the duration.

The plant is well equipped for the transition from brass to steel in the manufacture of the vital war item mentioned earlier. It rolls its own steel, and the army of employés is trained in the handling of steel rather than brass.

The present production line involves 15 operations. It was indicated that at least three new lines involving fewer operations will be set up in the next two months, when the changeover is made.

Meanwhile, new buildings are rising and arrangements are being made to employ and train a new army of workers to augment the hundreds already employed. Ingersoll now is 95 per cent engaged in war production. Within two months it expects to be 100 per cent.

[Censorship rules prohibit descriptions of products manufactured in war industries when the name of a specific company is used.]

Stratosphere Suit

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Miss Elaine DeCuir models army suit for use in high level flying.

Sacramento, Cal., May 1 (AP).—Pilots at the United States army air depot here are being equipped with new "stratosphere suits" which look like a de luxe Eskimo outfit. The latest in stratosphere fashions consists of jacket, trousers, parka and boots of elk hide, fleece-lined and trimmed with brown leather. Pilots will use the suits for high level flights and in the Arctic regions, where temperatures go to 50 degrees below zero.

HUNDREDS OF RAF RAIDERS ATTACK NAZI-HELD COAST

Blow Called One of Biggest Offensive Sweeps.

LONDON, May 1 (AP).—Hundreds of British planes swung across the channel at late twilight today in what coast observers called one of the war's greatest single thrusts against the Nazi-held continental coast.

Resumption of the British mass attacks followed a weather enforced overnight break in the continuous nine day old offensive. They came on the heels of neutral dispatches from Germany which some London quarters interpreted as hints that the Nazis were willing to call off their aerial duel with Britain now, but which brought only an expression of scorn from an authoritative source here.

Planes "Fill the Sky."

The late day RAF raiders, filying at altitudes between 20,000 and 30,000 feet, filled the sky between Calais and Dungeness, Kent. The planes attacked the station and railway yards at St. Omer, Calais, and other targets. The air ministry said eight British fighters were missing in the day's operations and that one German plane was destroyed.

Action overnight was limited by unfavorable weather to armed reconnaissance flights, altho 11 Nazi bombers were destroyed over England and France.

Beaverbrook's Son Victor.

One of the planes downed last night was accounted for by Wing Comm. Max Aitken, son of Lord Beaverbrook. He shot down a Dornier 217, one of Germany's latest type bombers, it was announced.

Over Britain last night, communiques said enemy air action was directed mainly at the northeast coast, but damage was not heavy.

The air ministry issued photographic evidence of the extent of damage left in the Nazi Heinkel warplane plants at Rostok which was pounded four nights in succession.

"The main output of this factory for some time to come will be salvage, not aircraft," the ministry said.

DUTCH FREIGHTER SUNK BY U-BOAT OFF U. S.; SAVE 37

Lewes, Del., May 1.—A small Dutch freighter was torpedoed and sunk 149 Tuesday four hours out of an Atlantic port, the navy announced today.

Thirty-seven members of the crew, including the freighter's skipper, were landed here. They were rescued by a navy ship after drifting in a lifeboat two hours. Six members of the crew were missing.

The sinking was the 149th in American waters since Pearl Harbor, with a total of 886 known dead, 1,212 missing and believed lost, and 4,441 rescued.

The chief officer of the Dutch ship, whose name was not disclosed, said the submarine fired one torpedo without warning about 9:30 a. m. and did not come to the surface.

Some of the missing were believed to have been carried under by suction after leaping from the sinking ship, and others were believed to have been killed below deck when the torpedo crashed into the starboard side.

Four men, including the chief officer, launched a lifeboat and picked up other survivors from the water.

COMMANDO CHIEF ON ST. NAZAIRE RAID CAPTURED

LONDON, May 1 (AP).—Lieut. Col. A. C. Newman, 37 year old commando officer who led the March 27 raid on St. Nazaire, is a prisoner of war, his wife was informed tonight.

Newman, a former middleweight fighter, was last seen by his comrades as he jumped ashore from the explosives-laden destroyer Campbeltown just before the former American warship was blown up in the dock gate at the Nazi occupied French port.

"Newman went ashore altho he must have known chances of his being evacuated were remote," said one of the raiding group. "We tried to persuade him to remain on our launch and direct the operations, but he said he could better rally his forces for what looked like a desperate fight in the face of overwhelming odds."

PRICE LID TO ACT AS WAGE CEILING, MERCHANTS TOLD

Bruce MacLeish Reports on OPA Parley.

Bruce MacLeish, vice president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., predicted yesterday that the new federal price freezing order would have the effect of freezing all factors in the cost of living, including wages. Otherwise, he said, wage increase demands might impose financial difficulties on many firms.

MacLeish, a member of the Retailers Advisory committee, which met in Washington with Price Administrator Leon Henderson and other OPA officials, addressed a luncheon of the State Street council in the Palmer House. He told how the price freezing regulations were shaped, and what problems might arise for the individual merchant. Then he answered questions asked by puzzled or worried retailers.

Stress Farm-Pay Control.

MacLeish said Henderson himself had agreed with the retailers' committee that farm prices and wages should be controled simultaneously with prices, but told them he lacked power to do so. The retailers group, MacLeish said, stressed the importance of such control as well as the urgent necessity for doing something about the lag between wholesale and retail prices in the freeze order.

Altho the advisory group failed in efforts to have the manufacturers' and wholesale prices frozen at earlier levels than the retail ones, MacLeish said the OPA has promised, so far as its can, to take care of acute situations arising from the lag thru supplementary regulations which should be drafted before the May 18 deadline.

Sees Subsidy to Pay Loss.

He added that since the "rollback" necessary to make such adjustments would result in loss to the manufacturer and wholesaler, there probably would be a government subsidy created to repay such losses in part. The sum of $750,000,000 has been suggested for the first year for this purpose, he said, but merchandising experts have told the OPA that the true figure needed probably would be closer to 3 or 3½ billion.

Other adjustments will be needed, MacLeish said, in such fields as seasonal goods, sold during March at below the proper price level. The OPA is expected to make up a list of seasonal goods for which price exceptions will be made. It was suggested that the OPA consider as seasonal any articles of which 40 per cent of the annual sales occur within a 90 day period.

MacLeish said the retailers are hopeful that the OPA will set the 30 day period prior to the date of the order [April 28] as the ceiling price gauge instead of March, as suggested by the retailers' group. If this were done, he said, it would mean somewhat less of a lag between wholesale and retail price, less of a period over which adjustments would have to be made, and consequently less confusion all around.

Seek to Promote Compliance.

"We told them," he said, "that the more equitable the price control is at the start the more complete will be the compliance. We also pointed out that fewer adjustments will mean less of an outlay in subsidies."

MacLeish then told his fellow merchants that the OPA had agreed that the price freezing would largely have to be a matter of voluntary compliance to succeed.

"I think you'll agree that it would be unfortunate to have it break down," he continued, "to have another prohibition era, with black markets and other similar practices."

MacLeish advised the merchants to figure out where the regulations hit them most severely and to file adjustment petitions without waiting for actual forms in order to give the OPA an understanding of the acuteness of the problem and enable them to judge where they would have to give relief by supplementary regulation.

Questioned by newsmen after the meeting MacLeish said that the importance of the "lag" between wholesale and retail prices could be seen when it was realized that according to government figures retail prices had risen between 15 and 16 per cent from September, 1939, to March, 1942, while manufacturing price levels increased double this percentage during the same period.

Retail Groups Meet with OPA.

After the luncheon meeting MacLeish and other representatives of the State Street council met with John C. Weigel, regional OPA director, and representatives of the Illinois Federation of Retail associations, the Cook County Retail council, the Illinois Retail Furniture association, National Retail Grocers association, Illinois Retail Hardware association, Chicago Hardware association, and Chicago Druggists association. C. L. Christenson and Elmo Hohman, OPA officials, also spoke.

Weigel said: "It was the most harmonious session that could have been imagined. With the coöperation of men representing organizations such as these the situation is won."

'Unidentified Target' Puts Los Angeles on Air Alert

OAK PARK SUNDAY CLOSING DISPUTE FLARES UP AGAIN

Remember the case of the Schlosser chain bakery and the Oak Park blue laws? It's been going on for nearly a year over whether the bakery, at 1145 Lake street, may stay open on Sunday. Oak Park finally settled all argument, it believed, when it passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of bakery goods without health department inspection, and the inspectors don't work on Sunday.

But two women, a Helene Schmidt, 738 Belleforte avenue, Oak Park, and Helen Green, said to be a Chicagoan, brought complaints against six other business houses in Oak Park—two drug stores, a delicatessen, a bakery, a chicken pie kitchen and a food shop, alleging they were operating on Sunday in defiance of the laws. It was rumored the two ladies were friends of the Schlossers.

Yesterday Justice Alfred Brennan decided the drug stores were a necessity, also the delicatessen; that the bakery did only a restaurant business on Sunday, but that the food shop and the pie kitchen were violators, at a cost of $10 each.

MEETING MONDAY TO EXPLAIN NEW RULES ON PRICES

Problems to be faced by Chicago retailers, wholesalers, and manufacturers in connection with the maximum price regulations announced Wednesday will be discussed at a meeting Monday evening at 7:30 in the city council chamber, it was announced yesterday by Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago rationing administrator.

J. P. Davis, chief of the procedures retail division of OPA in Washington, will be the principal speaker

CIGARET STARTS ROOF FIRE.

A cigaret thrown from a window ignited the tar roof of a one story brick building adjoining the Warfield division of the Thompson and Taylor Spice company, 536-554 West Cermak road yesterday, causing $100 damage.

SEEK MORE HELP FOR REGISTRATION OF SUGAR USERS

Michael F. Mulcahy, rationing administrator for the Chicago metropolitan area, expressed gratitude yesterday for the "generous and patriotic" response to his appeal for volunteers to register individual sugar users and distribute ration books to them, next week. More registrars still are needed, however, for duty next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in the registration booths at all elementary schools.

Mulcahy also announced that an office would be set up on the third floor of the city hall where visitors and residents of loop hotels may register. Those who expect to be here only a few days, however, were urged to have their families register for them in their home towns.

Cafés Impose rationing.

Chicagoans experienced sugar rationing yesterday when the supply allotted cafés and restaurants was cut 50 per cent. Most places allowed each customer one teaspoonful of sugar for each item normally calling for sugar, such as coffee, cereal, etc., with a top limit of two teaspoonsful per meal per customer.

In Washington the Office of Price Administration answered as follows some of the sugar rationing questions now perplexing the nation:

Q.—Suppose three or four persons share a single apartment but are not in any way related. Are they considered a family unit?

A.—No. Each must register and receive a separate war ration book.

Q.—Should a person such as a college student who is away from home possibly eight months out of a year be registered with his family unit?

A.—No. In most cases college students living away from home should be registered separately.

Here's Boarding House Data.

Q.—Suppose the student eats 12 or more meals a week in an establishment such as a fraternity, sorority, dormitory or boarding house?

A.—If the establishment is registered as an institutional user, the student's war ration book must be turned over to the manager of the establishment. The manager should then have the stamps which expire during the school period canceled at the local rationing board.

Q.—Can the student use the war ration book when he or she is home during a vacation period?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Is a single boarder or servant residing in a household considered a member of a family unit?

A.—No.

Q.—Must he register himself?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Can any person—with your permission—take your war ration book to a store to make a sugar purchase for you?

A.—Yes.

WOMEN TO GET ARMY DUTY UP TO FRONT LINES

Advisers Ask for Quick Passage of Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 1.—Two statements disclosing places for women in war work were made here today. They were:

1. Sen. Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the senate military affairs committee, said service "right up to the front lines" will be the part of the women's auxiliary army corps.

2. Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war man power commission, announced policies for recruiting a million women for the arms industries this year.

Seek 150,000 in Women's Corps.

Sen. Reynolds revealed army plans for a women's auxiliary corps for noncombat jobs now filled by men physically fit to fight. Representatives of the war department, in a closed session of the committee, said the army is prepared to enroll 150,000 in this corps. The senator said that the assignments for the women would include foreign service, such as servicing planes.

"They will be expected to do everything except shoulder arms," he added.

Take "Working Women" First.

As a national policy for the time being, McNutt said the first opportunities for employment will be given to those women who normally work. These will be placed before efforts are made to recruit additions.

Meanwhile, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower commission, announced that a million women will be added to arms industries this year and that, with next year's further expansions, approximately 4 million women and 16 million men will be working in the arsenals.

At present, on a national basis, there are more women job seekers than there are jobs, McNutt asserted. One and a half millions have registered with the United States employment service and some of these applicants are qualified for arms plants, he said, and added registration on a voluntary basis will be solicited thru its 1,500 field offices where and when jobs are available.

President Roosevelt announced that for the present there is no need for a registration of women similar to the draft registration for men.

HENDERSON SAYS OPA WILL STICK TO MARCH PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 1.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson, after a conference with President Roosevelt today, told White House reporters that "We are going to hold to March prices." Various trade groups have protested, each in behalf of his own line, that they can not sell at the March price level in accordance with the edict effective for retailers on May 18.

Henderson said the consumer public's reaction to the general price ceiling has been "very, very fine."

Legislature Asks Jamaica to Form Its Own Regiment

KINGSTON, Jamaica, May 1.—The legislature yesterday passed a resolution asking the local government to impress on the imperial authorities the advisability of forming a Jamaica regiment to give Jamaica an opportunity to contribute to the war effort. It was said that many Americans are willing to enlist, but lack the opportunity to do so.

TENDER FEELING FOR 'HINK' KEEPS WARDS LOPSIDED

Law Requires Remapping on Basis of 1940 Census.

A tender regard for the feelings of Ald. Michael [Hinky Dink] Kenna of the 1st ward was reported unofficially yesterday as one reason for the city council's failure so far to redistrict the 50 wards in compliance with the state law.

This law requires that the ward boundaries be changed the year after each federal decennial census so that each ward may have approximately the same number of inhabitant. This average is 68,000 at present, and 27 wards have more than that. The 5th ward, for example, has 92,126, or 10,262 more than in 1930.

First Ward Has Only 28,058.

On the other hand Kenna's 1st ward lost 8,824 in the 10 year period and now has only 28,058. It is the only ward with fewer than 48,000 inhabitants. Kenna is 84 years old and for nearly a half century has been the ward boss. Any action to redistrict would result in the destruction of his tight little isle and give greater representation to the south side colored districts.

In view of this, many aldermen and Democratic leaders were said to feel that slapping an old party war horse is unfair—even if it deprives the fast growing wards on the city's outer edges of what is due them in the way of voting strength in the council.

Big Excesses in 6 Wards.

The present populations of some larger wards, their increase in 10 years, and their excess over the 68,000 average follow:

Ward.	Pop.	Inc.	Excess.
2	87,530	6,814	19,530
6	79,440	4,432	11,440
7	89,372	788	22,372
38	81,457	9,044	13,457
48	81,805	9,810	13,805
49	80,280	4,921	12,280

Asked yesterday why the move to redistrict, due in 1941, was still not made, Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the redistricting committee, said the councilmen were waiting for an opinion by Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes.

"The law on redistricting has been changed since it was first passed," Bowler said, "and approved by referendum. We want to be sure that any changes we make would not require a referendum."

Hodes said the opinion had been asked, that he was studying the matter now and would issue his opinion "in the near future."

ARNOLD GAGGED BY BIDDLE OVER LABOR COERCION

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP).—Thurman Arnold, head of the justice department's anti-trust division, has been prevented by Attorney General Francis Biddle from testifying before a house committee on a bill aimed at alleged coercion by labor unions, it was disclosed today.

Arnold created a sensation some weeks ago by striking out at unions in terms seldom, if ever, used by a New Deal official.

Rep. Sam Hobbs [D., Ala.], chairman of a house judiciary subcommittee, inserted in the record an exchange of correspondence in which Biddle declined to permit Arnold to testify on Hobbs' bill to outlaw interference with interstate commerce thru threats of violence or coercion.

Referring to this bill and others, Biddle wrote to Hobbs:

"In view of the fact that these are not departmental bills, and that they involve controversial issues upon which Mr. Arnold has heretofore expressed himself, I should prefer not to have him appear before the committee in connection with them."

Slays Infant When Stuck by Diaper Pin; Gets Year

Denver, Colo., May 1 (AP).—An 18 year old father, accused of slaying his baby daughter in anger when a pin in her diaper pricked his finger, was convicted yesterday of involuntary manslaughter. The parent, Frank Lloyd Dehn, was sentenced by District Judge Joseph J. Walsh to one year in jail, the maximum under the verdict. S. T. Anderson, assistant district attorney, contended at the trial that Dehn, in an angry outburst, shoved the baby's head against a wall, fracturing her skull. The baby died March 16.

RENT FREEZING CHAOS ADDS TO MOVING DAY WOE

Some Landlords Waive Boosts in New Leases.

Moving day for 35,000 Chicago families was complicated yesterday by the lack of any general policy on whether rent increases should apply. Some landlords were insisting on payment of raises embodied in new leases, others were waiving the excesses and still another group was asking for the higher payments with the proviso that rebates may be made after June 28.

Byron A. Cain & Co., 4545 Broadway, which manages residential units on the north and northwest sides, sent letters to 2,000 tenants last night advising them that the company was voluntarily canceling all rent increases since March 1 and would accept the previous rents as full payment. The company asked the tenants in return to coöperate by keeping decorating and repair requirements to a minimum.

June 28 Deadline for Compliance.

June 28, the date after which some landlords are offering rebates, is 60 days from last Tuesday when Price Administrator Leon Henderson recommended that rents for the Chicago defense area be frozen as of March 1. If by June 28, there has not been voluntary compliance with his recommendation, he is empowered to issue a mandatory order to that effect, and appoint a rent administrator.

The Chicago Real Estate board has asked for a 4½ per cent increase over the March 1 figures, but representatives of the Office of Price Administion, during a two day rent control conference in the Drake hotel which ended Thursday, indicated they looked with little favor on the request.

Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman of the defense commission price control committee, received hundreds of telephone calls yesterday from tenants who said they were being forced to pay increased rents, some of which they regarded as unreasonable.

Warns Against Signing Waivers.

A few complaints came to Lindell that landlords, in demanding the increases, were asking tenants to sign affidavits that the raises did not come under the jurisdiction of the OPA recommendations. Lindell said no tenants were required to sign such statements.

The alderman advised his callers that landlords may collect the increases, if they insist, until June 28.

Ronald J. Chinnock, president of the real estate board, said it has not formulated any definite procedure for its members pending a meeting of the board's directors and the renting and management division next week.

"Until those meetings are held," Chinnock said, "there is comparatively little that can be said by the board. The board has, however, recommended that May rentals be paid in accordance with the terms of the lease. We cannot see any other course to advise until our petition for a justified increase in the maximum rent figure is decided upon."

U. S. FLYER KILLED IN CANADA.

MONTREAL, Que., May 1 [AP].—Leading Aircraftman M. R. Davis of Randolph, Mass., was killed yesterday when two training planes of the royal Canadian air force collided in mid-air near Windsor Mills, Que. The cause of the accident was not known. The other pilot escaped with slight injuries.

2 ARMY FLYERS DIE IN CRASH OF TRAINING PLANE

Houston, Tex., May 1 (AP).—Second Lieut. Hays Brantley Jr., and Cadet Willard Fairchild Jr., both of Ellington field, were killed late today in the crash of their bimotored plane while on a routine training flight. Lieut. Brantley, 22 years old, was from Memphis; Cadet Fairchild, also 22, from New York.

Two Navy Pilots Killed.

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP).—The navy department announced today that two officers were killed when navy planes collided in the air Thursday afternoon and crashed into the ocean off Sandy Point, R. I. They were Ensign David L. Kauffman, 21, of Versailles, Mo., and Lieut. Howard Lapsley, 31, of South Natick, Mass. The pilot and passenger of the other plane parachuted safely and were rescued by surface craft without injuries.

Find Seven Dead.

Cimarron, N. M., May 1 (AP).—A cowboy reported tonight that the seven crew members of a four-motored army bomber were killed when the huge craft crashed into 10,000 foot trail peak southwest of Cimarron during a storm nine days ago. The wreckage was located from the air today.

The cowboy and a soldier reached the crash scene late today, reporting to Col. Frank D. Hatchett, commander of the Albuquerque air base to which the bomber was assigned. Bodies of the crew, commanded by Capt. Robert O. Redding of Minatare, Neb., will be brought out tomorrow by a ground party.

Women Taxicab Drivers Start Service in Rockford

Rockford, Ill., May 1 (AP).—Women taxicab drivers called for passengers at Rockford railroad and bus stations today. Unable to get men, a cab company advertised for experienced women drivers. Fifty-one applied. Mrs. Monty B. Bird, president of an oil company, said she would train women to be "grease monkeys" at filling stations.

NORWAY FIGHTS NAZIS GAMELY ON LAND AND SEA

Crown Prince Olav Sees Victory in Time.

Crown Prince Olav of Norway climaxed an all-day visit to Chicago last night with an address in Orchestra hall in which he declared that the Norwegian people never will succumb to their Nazi overlords.

A capacity audience, comprising in the main persons of Norwegian birth or descent, heard the prince, a stately figure in the olive-gray of a Norwegian army general, say, "The oppressors have tried to make Norway part of their new order. They have set parties against each other, class against class. They have set the young against the old. They have tried flattery, threats, arousing jealousies to break the people's unity. They have not succeeded! They will not succeed!"

Chance Being Shot.

Day by day, the prince disclosed, Norwegian patriots sail across the North sea straits to join other comrades in the British Isles.

"They sail in small boats under the cover of night," he declared. "They sail, knowing that if they are caught, they will be shot. But still they keep coming."

Various units of the royal Norwegian navy, he said, are in service for the allied nations as sub chasers, mine sweepers and as other auxiliary aids near Great Britain, Iceland, Canada, and even operate in the Caribbean and the Red sea.

Merchant Fleet Important.

"Our Free Norwegian forces are strong, small but strong, prepared, trained for the fight to regain their homeland. They have taken part in commando raids on the Norway coast," he disclosed. "And much of the Norwegian merchant fleet now is engaged in transporting oil and other supplies across the Atlantic. British officials recently estimated that our shipping, which acts under orders of our government in exile on the British Isles, has an effectiveness equivalent to that of one million well equipped soldiers."

The Norwegian people will prolong their unyielding stand against the Nazi invaders, said the prince, "because they know in their hearts that one day they will regain freedom, that the forces of good must conquer the forces of evil."

Couple Tour Forts.

The evening's serious tone was disturbed only once, when Clifford Barnes, head of the Chicago Sunday Evening club, introduced the prince as the "Crown Prince of Germany." The prince grinned good-naturedly, wagged his head, and was the first to call attention to the error. From the audience came a flurry of loud gasps and "Oooohs." A moment later, the hall resounded with applause as Barnes corrected the mistake and, with painstaking slowness, said, "I am gratified to present a great Norwegian patriot, the crown prince of Norway."

In the audience was Crown Princess Martha, with whom Prince Olav visited here in 1939. Earlier in the day, the royal couple visited the Great Lakes Naval Training station and Fort Sheridan. They made a tour of the two posts as the guests of Rear Adm. John Downes and Maj. Gen. George Grunert and Col. Fredrick Rogers.

'ISOLATIONISM' IS DEAD, CONSENSUS OF LEGION MEET

Indianapolis, Ind., May 1 (AP).—Declaring that "isolationism is dead," the national executive committee of the American Legion wound up its first wartime session today by proposing an intensive study of postwar "economic, social, and political problems" with future world peace as an objective.

Executive committeemen approved a report of the organization's coordinating committee, which had prepared its conclusions after consulting with spokesmen for six other groups. These were the National Grange, the American Federation of Labor, the National Association of Manufacturers, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the Knights of Columbus, the B'nai B'rith, and the Grand Lodge of Masons of New York.

MILITARY UNIT BEING FORMED AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Machine Guns and Rifles May Be Used.

Delinquent and dependent inmates of the Illinois State School for Boys, near St. Charles, who want to enlist in the army, navy, or marine corps, are being organized into a special militia company to receive basic military training.

This was announced jointly yesterday by Russell W. Ballard, managing officer, and Rodney H. Brandon, state director of public welfare. The company will include about 60 boys, Ballard said, but none of the incorrigibles slated for incarceration at the new prison type branch near Sheridan.

Ballard disclosed that 67 inmates of the school have enlisted in the armed services between last July 1 and April 1. In each case, he said, the boy had been discharged from the institution, after being placed first on parole and then having his enlistment approved by the committing judge.

Officials' Approval Required.

To be eligible for the militia company, an inmate must be 18 years or older. His application for training must then be approved by officials of the institution, Ballard said, who will be certain that his record merits this extra privilege.

In the militia company the boys will continue to receive the usual military drill with wooden guns, which has been a feature of the institution for many years. In addition, Ballard said, a few rifles and possibly a machine gun will be borrowed from American Legion posts of nearby communities.

Seek Old Militia Uniforms.

Ballard and Brandon conferred yesterday with Leo M. Boyle, adjutant general of Illinois, on the possibility of outfitting the St. Charles trainees in the blue uniforms discarded by the Illinois Reserve militia after the issue of regulation army uniforms. It was expected that the blue uniforms would be made available to St. Charles.

Sergt. Ben Harris, an employé of the school, will be in charge of the military training.

DIES WHILE AT WORK.

William Henig, 59 years old, 2456 North Mozart street, died of a stroke yesterday at the Baker Novelty company, 1700 West Washington street, where he was employed.

K. ROOSEVELT, 52, IN HOSPITAL FOR MIND TREATMENT

Hartford, Conn., May 1 (AP).—Kermit Roosevelt, 52 years old, son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, has entered a psychiatric institute here for a four month treatment under a voluntary agreement reached in Probate court here.

He entered the institute yesterday after a hearing before Probate Judge Russell Z. Johnston during which his brother, Archibald B. Roosevelt of Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., sought to have him committed for a year.

Kermit Roosevelt testified he was playing cards at a rest home in Bernardsville, N. J., on April 22 when his brother, a doctor, and two ambulance attendants "rushed in," bound him to a stretcher, and drove him to Hartford in an ambulance, where he signed a voluntary commitment paper "under duress." The brother told Judge Johnston that Kermit objected at first to going to the Hartford institution, but subsequently agreed to go.

12 MONTH TERM IN HIGH SCHOOLS URGED FOR WAR

Courses for Services and Production Proposed.

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP).—Year-around operation of America's 25,467 high schools—eliminating summer vacations—was urged today by the wartime commission of the United States office of education. Aviation education was among the proposed courses.

A wide range of activity was recommended for all types of schools, meaning that thousands of elementary schools might also remain open during summer, along with high schools—not for instruction but to render special community services.

"To America's schools this summer comes not as a time for vacation but as an opportunity for pointing their services toward certain basic objectives highlighted by the war needs of the armed forces and of war production," the commission said.

Voluntary Attendance Studied.

Attendance at the summer schools would not be compulsory for the nation's 7,334,000 high school students, the office of education said, but any student wishing to attend probably would find opportunity for improving his value in the war effort.

The commission, a wartime advisory body comprised of representatives from 30 national education groups and headed by J. W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education, asked each school system, whether or not it has been operating summer school in the past, to study the possibilities of offering day and evening summer training courses for students at high school and adult levels.

Summer courses recommended are those for which a demand exists in the war program.

Six Courses Listed.

The commission listed six courses for which demand already was evident, as follows:

1. Aviation education. Courses developed by the office of education and other government authorities will be available.

2. Courses in mathematics, science, English, and social studies adapted to specific needs of the armed forces and war production.

3. Courses to train girls and women in business, trade, and clerical occupations as replacements for workers drawn into the armed forces or war production.

4. Courses in home nursing, nutrition, first aid, and other fields related to civilian defense and other war needs.

5. Courses to improve the physical fitness of those likely to enter the military services or war production.

6. Training thru coöperation with the Office of Civilian Defense for air raid wardens, auxiliary fire and police officers, and others.

PLAN APPROVED HERE.

Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, yesterday approved the government proposal to keep the high schools open all year around and asserted Chicago's summer schools would open an expanded vacation time curriculum.

"It's more or less what we have been doing right along," he declared. "More than 6,000 men are being trained for defense jobs in our schools now, in addition to our normal educational program."

The 1942 summer school classes will emphasize physical education and defense training, Dr. Johnson said.

HULL VICTORIOUS OVER WALLACE IN TEST OF POWERS

Feud Puts Milo Perkins, BEW in Their Place.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 1.—An official family spat over the handling of international relations was brought to light today when President Roosevelt explained that the state department is still in charge of the nation's foreign relations despite his recent executive order giving Vice President Henry A. Wallace's Board of Economic Warfare control over the importation of vital materials.

Secretary Hull [top] and Milo Perkins.

Acknowledging that some people in other departments of the government want to run foreign affairs, Mr. Roosevelt said he would issue what he termed a clarification rather than a modification of the original order. This directive, he said, will make it clear that Secretary of State Cordell Hull is responsible for conduct of the nation's foreign policy.

Victory for Hull.

This statement, made by the chief executive at his press conference, was seen as another victory for the soft spoken, mild mannered, but unswerving head of the state department.

Yesterday Hull drew a marksman's bead on Milo Perkins, executive director of BEW, and Milo's boss, Vice President Wallace, at a White House conference. The bone of contention was the executive order giving BEW the right to tell the state department what war materials to buy and what price to pay for them, thus usurping the state department's control of economic foreign policy and the imports purchasing policy of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The executive order was issued while Hull was taking a rest cure. Back on the job, Hull yesterday loosed a carefully planned exposition of the dangers of short circuiting the state department's economic policy.

Roosevelt Acknowledges Error.

At his press conference this morning, Mr. Roosevelt acknowledged that he had discussed the matter with the secretary yesterday, and it was found that the order was confusing. The order will be clarified so as to leave no doubt that all negotiations with sister republics of the Americas concerning raw materials will be conducted by the state department and not by BEW.

After negotiations have been completed, BEW will begin the process of actual procurement, because the state department is not a procurement agency in any sense.

Perkins, the latest New Dealer to find that feuding with Hull is unhealthy, is a protégé of Vice President Wallace.

NAVY LIEUTENANT BEGS SCHOOLS TO EMPHASIZE MATH

Need for Leaders Told by Army Officer.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Arithmetic as a bottleneck in the production of navy personnel was cited in a plea before American educators yesterday for greater emphasis on mathematics and science if the war on the seas is to be won. The plea was made by Lieut. William Exton Jr., representing the navy, before the opening session of the American Council on Education in the Stevens hotel.

A parallel plea was made by Col. Jim E. Lawhon, coördinator of military personnel, who asked the educators to help students to continue their studies just as long as possible. He said that in previous wars the ablest youths rushed to the colors to "be sacrificed in the early phases of the conflict."

Waste of Leader Material.

"The value of their education and leadership qualities have thus been extravagantly expended, to the detriment of subsequent efforts to attain victory," Col. Lawhon continued. "Many great military leaders of the past were men of little education. They were men whose courage and leadership qualified them to command the relatively simple formations of their day."

Col. Lawhon described the present army as a "tremendously complex organization, employing highly technical machines, and requiring educated men to master its complexities and give it efficient direction."

In his plea for greater emphasis on arithmetic and the physical sciences, Lieut. Exton spoke of the long period necessary to produce skilled technicians necessary for modern naval operations. He said that the dictator nations had trained their men along with the manufacture of arms and weapons, while the democracies depend on universal public education for war emergencies. He said the navy had hoped that a little technical training on top of general education would solve the problem.

Training Program Handicapped.

"The navy's actual experience, however, has been disappointing," Lieut. Exton declared. "Consider arithmetic, which is the basic need of virtually all naval activities. The average arithmetical attainment for the United States has, as a whole, been so low as to constitute a serious disappointment, and to handicap the training program of the navy.

"In the search for officer material, it was assumed that college graduates formed the largest appropriate pool of pre-selected manpower; and the navy sought graduates for training as ensigns in the V-7 program. A large proportion of these college graduates had never taken mathematics or science in the colleges.

"The navy was confronted with the fact that thousands of young men claiming to be college graduates—and holding degrees to prove their contention — had not taken a single course which would prove of any value as a basis for specialized naval training."

Monday Last Registration Day for Suburban Voters

Monday is the last day on which voters in the 549 suburban precincts under jurisdiction of County Clerk Michael J. Flynn may make transfer of registration for the June 1 judicial election, if they have moved, Flynn warned yesterday. It is also the last day for recording of new registrations.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Warm Weather Activity.

May 1, 1942.

ACCORDING to the calendar the season is spring, but after a visit to the Wheaton farm during this week's premature heat wave it almost seemed that the good old summertime was in the driver's seat.

Men were utilizing discs and drags over a 50-acre field preparatory to planting corn, and the drivers of the big tractors and caterpillars were working in their shirtsleeves. A flock of sheep, consisting of newlyshorn Southdown ewes and their gamboling unclipped lambs, grazed thru an open woodlot on tender pasturage in a simulation of scenes we see all over Chicagoland every June and July. A hike thru any farm woodlot brought discovery of spring flowers, but hikers had to shed their jackets before traveling very far under the warm sun.

The White Rock chicks, kept in brooder houses and chicken houses during the cooler weather, had been turned out into the warm sunshine of the farm barnyard to peck away at natural foods on the ground.

Woodchucks Clean House.

Even tho the sun's force brought signs of summer, spring still has something to say about early May activities. When we walked thru one of the farm woodlots the other morning we noticed that a pair of woodchucks evidently had been doing their spring housecleaning. Gravel and clay from the interior of their den had been piled in a small mound at the entrances to make entry and exit easier now that these furbearers have awakened from their winter sleep and are scurrying thru the woods and fields.

In the barnyard, too, there was another definite sign that the season has turned. Barn swallows are gliding in and out of the big doors of the sheepbarn and surveying the countryside for mudholes to be used a little later for collecting nesting material. We went inside the barn and inspected last year's swallow nest, and found that these beautiful and graceful bird residents haven't started the reconditioning process of adding new mud.

Black Swans on Pond.

On the big pond, too, there are new arrivals. A pair of black swan cygnets, hatched last May at the Brookfield zoo, are paddling gracefully over the surface of the pond along with the white swans, geese, mallard ducks, and migrant ducks which drop down on the pond every spring.

Several adult black swans have been donated to the zoo by the Wheaton farm in past years, and the two cygnets are birds which were hatched from stock originally kept on the farm. When we hiked around the pond the other morning in an attempt to get a look at these youngsters they evidently had retreated to one of their private sanctums in the heavy willow jungle around the edge of the pond. At any rate they refused to swim out to the center of the pond so that we could get a look at them.

W-G-N TO STAGE BATTLE REVIEW AT 7:30 TONIGHT

Col. McCormick to Speak; War Songs on Program.

A unique broadcast—"The Battle of the Wilderness"—with a setting of songs of the Civil and other American wars, will be presented on "America Loves a Melody" from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock tonight over W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will present a critical study of this famous engagement, strategically the most decisive of the Civil war, during the broadcast. Col. McCormick's discussion will be presented on the air in three parts.

Program in Three Parts.

Prior to the presentation of part one the scene will be set musically by the W-G-N orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, with Marion Claire and Attilio Baggiore as soloists. There will be musical interludes between the first and second, and between the second and third portions, and, at the conclusion, a medley of war songs and the singing of the national anthem.

The program will be presented in W-G-N's theater studio before an audience of more than 600 persons, representing 81 garden clubs of Chicagoland which are affiliated with the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild, which sponsors Lilac day in cooperation with THE TRIBUNE.

Maps in Graphic Section.

Among those who will be guests will be Theodore V. Purcell, president of the guild, and Mrs. Warner R. Nelson of Glencoe, general chairman.

The story of "The Battle of the Wilderness" will be further delineated in full color maps, pictures, with text by Col. McCormick in the Graphic section of THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE tomorrow. There will be three maps in color, and 12 pictures of key figures in this action.

WOMAN RESCUER OF BULL'S VICTIM RECEIVES MEDAL

Mrs. Hattie F. Garrelts, frail 130 pound farm wife, whose home is on Shoe Factory road near Elgin, was cited as a heroine and awarded a bronze medal by the Carnegie Hero Fund commission in Pittsburgh, Pa., yesterday for fearlessly swinging an ax on an enraged bull to save the life of Carl J. Meyer, 80 year old farm hand, last Nov. 25.

Mrs. Hattie F. Garrelts.

The citation read: "Mrs. Garrelts, aged 48, housewife, rescued Carl J. Meyer, aged 80, farm hand, from an enraged bull near Elgin, Ill., Nov. 25, 1941. While Meyer was standing in a barnyard a bull knocked him to the ground and then repeatedly butted him, shoving him 40 feet. Meyer got hold of a ring in the bull's nose.

"Mrs. Garrelts, who was not robust [she had been under a physician's care for several months], got an ax, ran to the bull, struck its head with the ax. The bull jerked free from Meyer's hold and backed 10 feet. Mrs. Garrelts then aided Meyer to walk 65 feet to an exit and out of the yard. Meyer sustained serious injuries, but recovered."

LA GUARDIA HIT FOR CITY HALL'S 'DESECRATION'

New York, May 1 [Special].—Councilman Joseph E. Kinsley today launched an attack on Mayor Fiorello La Guardia for the "desecration" of the historic 130 year old city hall, charging that the mayor is converting the building into a firetrap in order to provide office space for his many civilian defense agencies.

Carpenters have been busy this week building a lumber and composition board nook for Arthur Wallander, chief of staff of the mayor's defense activities. Last week stone masons patched the city hall steps to conceal the jagged breaks caused by a quartet of army jeeps which climbed them for a publicity picture with the mayor.

Before that, workmen removed historical paintings and stripped the governor's room which now houses a closely packed stenographic battery for the civilian defense volunteer office. A good part of the lower floor has been partitioned for other defense activities.

Kinsley introduced a resolution in the council declaring that during the nine years of the La Guardia administration the city hall has been permitted "to deteriorate into a disgraceful state of disrepair, hastened by the self-glorification schemes of the present mayor."

PUPIL SPANKED, TEN TEACHERS ARE ARRESTED

Norristown, Pa., May 1 (AP).—Ten junior high school teachers were arrested today in the aftermath of a disciplinary spanking of 15 year old Michael Valerio. The warrants were obtained by the youth's father, Rosario Valerio.

Four of the men teachers were charged with assault and battery, the others with conspiracy.

The whipping was revealed when young Valerio was brought into Juvenile court, April 17, on a charge of incorrigibility preferred by Dr. Robert B. Taylor, school principal.

Dr. Taylor testified the boy, "generally defiant," had violated school rules and that a faculty committee had decided upon a spanking as an attempt at a final remedy. Michael asserted he was spread-eagled upon a table, held by teachers, while four others whipped him "40 or 50 times."

NOBLE AND JONES DENY SEDITION TO GRAND JURY

Sacramento, Cal., May 1 (AP).—Robert Noble and Ellis O. Jones told the Sacramento county grand jury today the main aim of the Friends of Progress was to prevent America's entry into the war and that there was nothing subversive in its activities.

The two Friends of Progress leaders were brought here from Los Angeles, where they are under indictment on federal sedition charges, to testify at the grand jury inquiry into charges that the organization advocated overthrow of the government.

Noble told how the Friends of Progress staged a four-part mock impeachment trial of President Roosevelt in connection with its campaign to "keep America out of war." He was asked why the proceedings continued even after Pearl Harbor.

The "trial" had occupied three previous meetings, he said, so the organization's leaders felt they should get a final expression from those who had followed it. A vote to "impeach" the President resulted on Jan. 11.

Noble, Jones, and six other persons are charged with violation of the state subversive organizations registration act, which carries maximum penalties of $5,000 fines and five years imprisonment.

What is the significance of the

HAMILTON FISH FACES FIGHT TO BE RE-ELECTED

Move to Purge Him for Pre-War Stand.

New York, May 1 [Special].—Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., who has been under continued attack because of his opposition to war involvement before Dec. 7, today formally announced his candidacy for reëlection from the 26th district. He has served in congress for 22 years despite opposition which has included President Roosevelt, one of his constituents.

A bitter fight is expected in the Republican primary because of the determination of prewar interventionists to purge Fish.

The congressman also disclosed that his request for active service with the army in a combat unit had been turned down. In a letter to members of the Republican committees of Orange, Putnam, and Dutchess counties, which form his district, Fish stated that Lieut. Gen. Leslie J. McNair, commander of the army ground forces, has informer him that "because of your age and your broad knowledge of military matters and understanding of the army's problems, you will be of greater service in the halls of congress than with the troops in the field."

Expects Bitter Campaign.

Fish declared in his letter that he expected a vigorous and bitter campaign to prevent his renomination.

"The smear artists, the communists, radicals, and a few fanatical interventionists who hate my outspoken condemnation of communists, left wing New Dealers and even some reactionaries in my own party who cannot control me, are out to defeat and purge me," he wrote.

"One group has gone so far as to blame me for the disaster at Pearl Harbor. This contemptible and infamous slander is made in spite of the fact that I voted for every army, navy, and air force bill since 1938 and introduced a bill in 1939 to prohibit the sale of scrap iron to Japan, the same scrap iron that destroyed our ships and the lives of our soldiers and sailors.

"The responsibility for Pearl Harbor will not be known until Admiral Kimmel and General Short are court-martialed and they will not be until the war is over, and even then possibly never, as too many higher-ups are involved and I do not mean members of congress or interventionists or noninterventionists."

May Change to New District.

In a statement issued at Newburgh, Orange county, Fish said he intentioned to rent a house there in June and become a permanent resident if reëlected. Under the congressional reapportionment bill recently passed by the New York legislature to become effective in 1944, Orange county will be joined with Sullivan, Rockland, and Delaware counties in a new congressional district.

Fish expressed belief that, if reelected, he would be much stronger there than in his present district. He is running in his old district this year.

The redistricting splitting Fish's present district is said to have been aimed in part at his defeat and originally was planned for this year.

Harriman May Run.

Interest has been aroused by the suggestion of Thomas J. V. Cullen, Orange county Democratic chairman, that W. Averell Harriman, now in London as a special envoy, run for the Democratic nomination for representative. Harriman's home is in Arden, Orange county.

A social feud has raged between the Fish and Harriman families for many years, dating from the time E. H. Harriman wrested control of the Illinois Central railroad from Stuyvesant Fish.

The two avowed Republican candidates against Fish are State Sen. Allan A. Rean of Dutchess county, home of the Roosevelts and Edward A. Dolph of Newburgh. Lewis E. Lawes, former warden of Sing Sing prison, has been mentioned as a possible candidate. The Dutchess county Republican organization is definitely opposed to Fish's renomination.

SEARCY DECRIES CHICAGO SEIZURE OF STATE POSTS

Springfield, Ill., May 1 [Special].—Protests against what he termed a "preponderant capture by Chicago of state civil service jobs that, by their nature, should be going downstate," was voiced today by State Sen. Earl B. Searcy [R.]. His protest came as he discussed the closing of applications next Thursday, May 7, for extensive civil service examinations for junior clerk, junior typist, junior file clerk, and other similar positions.

"A survey indicates that of several hundred people who have applied for admission to these examinations, around two-thirds are from Chicago," Searcy explained. "What is wrong?

"I appreciate that our state civil service commission cannot legally allocate either applicants or jobs as between geographical sections of Illinois, but the condition that gradually is building up is one that, in my opinion, warrants the serious consideration of those who aspire to state positions under the merit system."

WIND TOPPLES ANCIENT BRICK BRIDEWELL WALL

About 150 feet of the aged wall that separates the Bridewell from the county jail was blown down yesterday by a strong wind. Ninety young prisoners who had been working on victory gardens in the old exercise yard had been returned to their cells just before the wall collapsed.

Bricks blown from the 18 foot wall were found as far as 50 feet away. The wall was weakened by a wind last November, officials said.

According to old records, the structure was built in 1871, the year of the great fire.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Harry E. Herr, 4820 North Wolcott avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

Have you ever had an accident as a result of lighting or smoking a cigaret?

WHERE ASKED.

Adams and Market streets.

THE ANSWERS.

Martha Connor, sales correspondent, 57 East Cedar street—As we were driving along in the car I tossed the remainder of the lighted cigaret out the front window. It whirled around into the open back window and started a real fire before we ever realized it was still with us. We stopped in a hurry and extinguished the blaze with sand.

Oliver Carlson, clerk, 4128 Clarendon avenue—I thought I had become quite proficient in lighting a match with a quick pinch at the tip with two finger nails. The last time I tried it a piece of the sulphur became wedged under one nail and ignited there. I didn't know until then that nails will burn. It's no fun.

Louise Hunter, switchboard operator, 817½ Lake street, Oak Park—I emptied the ash tray into the waste basket without noticing the live cigaret butt. It's an old story from there on. If the fire had confined itself to the waste basket it wouldn't have been so bad, but we had to replace all furniture after the fire department's call.

Natalie Leibovitz, stenographer, 1519 East 67th street — The party would have been more enjoyable if it hadn't been necessary for me to spend all my time covering up the ugly burn my cigaret made on the davenport. I told my hostess about it when the party was over.

Marjorie Samet, stenographer, 9215 South Hoyne avenue—It seems as tho I burn a hole in my dress every time I hold a cigaret. I hold the ignited end downward and before I know it another dress has been damaged conspicuously. Little accidents like that soon take a big toll in my wardrobe.

Rosalyn Gross, telephone operator, 4014 Congress street—Once when I struck a match on one of those folding double packets a spark went astray and the whole thing burst into flame in my hands. I didn't pay any attention to where I threw it so it could have been worse. The burn on the rug is still there.

BOARDS CONTINUE MAILING DRAFT QUESTIONNAIRES

Cook county draft boards yesterday continued to mail out occupational questionnaires to men who registered Feb. 16. Selective service officials said it would take another week before all of the county's 320,000 second draft men would be contacted. The questionnaires are being sent in the order of the registrants' serial numbers. Local selective service headquarters yesterday had not received orders from Washington to draft for service single men with minor physical defects for limited war service.

SEN. BYRD CALLS FEDERAL TRAVEL COSTS 'SCANDAL'

Rips Government Waste on Publicity Program.

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP).—Sen. Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] told the senate today that government outlays for travel expenses and publicity bureaus "very nearly approaches a national scandal in the waste of public funds."

The Virginian, a leader of economy advocates, called attention to these costs as he congratulated the senate on its action yesterday in clipping more than 12 million dollars from the routine costs of independent agencies in their annual appropriation measure now pending before the body.

First Slash in Years.

"For the first time, certainly in some years, a determined and courageous effort was undertaken to reduce the excessive and unreasonable administrative cost of a number of agencies, notably in traveling expenses and in publicity," Byrd said, adding that congress might save "millions in unnecessary expenditures for traveling, long distance telephoning, and overlapping and unnecessary agencies conducting publicity or propaganda activities."

Byrd said that in the fiscal year ended last July 1, the government spent $147,986,385 for traveling expenses, according to the Office of Government Reports. For the same fiscal year, Byrd said, the government publicity cost was $27,770,000 "and it has increased since then."

Gives Figures on Costs.

The senator said that 2,895 persons were employed full time on publicity and 31,618 persons part time. He gave these as the largest publicity outlays: Office of Government Reports, $1,800,000, Office of Facts and Figures, $450,000; information division, Office for Emergency Management, $1,500,000, and coördinator of information, $6,600,000.

Among travel cost totals mentioned by the senator were National Youth administration, $2,446,208; Works Projects administration $3,287,714; department of agriculture, $16,595,435, including Farm Security administration, $6,607,083.

G. O. P. RE-ELECTS BERVE AS ILLINOIS COMMITTEE HEAD

Springfield, Ill., May 1 (AP).—Illinois Republicans laid the groundwork for their fall campaign today by reëlecting Ben L. Berve of Rochelle as state chairman and selecting the men who will have much to do with writing the party platform and planning the biennial state convention.

Berve was chosen unanimously for his second two year term as chairman in an organization meeting of the state central committee. Vice Chairman John F. Tyrrell of Chicago and other present officers also were reëlected.

After a perfunctory session of the G. O. P. state convention, Berve announced the appointment of State Sen. Arnold P. Benson of Batavia as Chairman of the party's platform committee. Berve said the recessed convention will be held in August and added that sentiment expressed in an executive session of the state central committee favored Peoria as the meeting site, altho Rockford representatives continue to seek the meeting.

Democratic leaders, also convening their convention perfunctorily today as required by law, announced their full convention probably will be held in Springfield, also in August.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries. Persons are asked to keep their letters short because of the volume of mail.]

E. S. asks: "If a man has been dishonorably discharged from the army will this have any effect upon his being drafted?"

ANSWER: The registrant would be placed in class 4-F by his local draft board. However, if the board finds the man's current civilian record is good, and if the secretary of war concurs in this finding, he will be considered eligible for class 1-A.

E. W. writes: "I am in class 1-A and would like to enlist in the coast guard in preference to being inducted into the army. Until what time do I have to enlist?"

ANSWER: You may enlist until the day your local draft board mails the notice ordering you to report for a final physical examination and induction.

E. R. writes: "I read that the navy is now going to interview high school students with the object of enlisting them in the navy air corps. If they are going to take them, how about giving a chance to us fellows who have already graduated but have been turned down in the past because we didn't have two years of college? Certainly we're as able as the kids in high school."

ANSWER: High school graduates are eligible for enlistment. If you are between 18 and 27 years of age and are single, apply at the naval aviation cadet selection board at 141 West Jackson boulevard. If you are not yet 21 years of age you must have your parents' written consent.

E. T. writes: "I would like to enlist in the navy, but I have a slight hernia. Is there a chance for me to sign a waiver to get into that branch? If so, how should I go about it?"

ANSWER: The navy would not waive your physical defect, but it is still possible for you to enlist. You can apply for enlistment at the nearest naval recruiting station. If the examining naval physician diagnoses your hernia as not serious and if you make a good grade on the navy general classification test, you will be enlisted. The navy will undertake to correct your defect if it is found necessary to do so.

N. D. writes: "I am a business man and I rent a store where I have my shop. I now have the opportunity to buy a store at a bargain. I am married and the father of three small children. I am 38 and sole support of the family. I would like to buy this store, but if I should be called to service I wouldn't make this move. What would you advise me to do?"

ANSWER: It is quite certain that you will receive a 3-A classification. However, inasmuch as it is impossible to know what the future may bring with regard to the need for men, it is difficult to advise you. Col. Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois director of selective service, has said that no 3-A men will be taken until after the supply of registrants available for military service under the present standards has been exhausted. In view of your number of dependents, you probably would be among the last of the 3-A men to be taken. In view of these facts, it would appear you are in a favorable position to buy the store.

TRUCK LOOTERS GET FIVE YEARS IN U. S. PRISON

Hijacked Goods Worth $100,000.

Truckmen need no longer fear the phantom raids of that blue truck with "Ben's Fish Market" or "General Furniture Company" chalked on its sides. Its owners, Ben Bernard, 28 years old, and August Serio, 38, each were sentenced yesterday by Judge Charles E. Woodward in federal District court to five years in the penitentiary.

The activities of the pair, as outlined by Harry E. Connaughton, assistant United States attorney, began more than two years ago. At that time Bernard, an experienced hijacker, had just finished a four year sentence in Waupun, Wis., prison for looting a truck of cigars, cigarets, and tobacco. Serio had a minor police record.

Get $100,000 Loot.

Together they formed one of the smoothest hijacking combines in federal records, netting $100,000 in loot, Connaughton said.

First they bought the blue paneled truck which they stored in a cheap garage. For weeks they would plan their acts, scorning the old fashioned hijacking methods of bootleggers, but invading truck terminals, loading platforms, warehouse garages.

Use High Speed Truck.

In little more than two minutes they could transfer the cargo from the first truck to their own and scoot off. Other truckmen would give chase, but soon were outdistanced, for Bernard and Serio had installed special gearing in their truck. If the pursuers wanted to jot down the license number they were thwarted, for a wire in the dashboard zipped the license plates into the body of the truck.

All this came to an end last Dec. 26, when truckmen keeping a sharp eye out for the blue truck spied the pair in the act of hijacking a load of candy and gum from a truck near a warehouse at 599 East Illinois street.

Both men pleaded guilty yesterday and refused to implicate any fences. Bernard lives at 436 West 31st street and Serio at 7807 South Hermitage avenue.

Trial for Embezzlement Delayed to Await Audit

Trial of Alvin J. Salins, 39 years old, 625 Buckingham place, on a $5,000 embezzlement charge, was continued to June 3 yesterday by Judge John T. Zuris in Felony court to permit an audit of Salins' books. He was an auditor for Standard Brands, Inc. Salins had nothing to say when questioned by C. Vernon Thompson, assistant state's attorney.

TWO SUSPENDED COPS SILENT AT EXTORTION QUIZ

Two policemen formerly assigned to the state's attorney's office—Frank Cunningham, 32 years old, 5250 Crystal street, and Michael Marren, 30, of 6616 Stewart avenue—refused yesterday to answer questions regarding their alleged "shakedown" of a 16 year old high school student. They were charged with extortion by threats.

Bond was set at $1,000 each and arraignment is scheduled in Jury court Monday.

The policemen maintained silence on "constitutional grounds" when questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Ralph Clare. They were suspended Thursday after Theodore Johnson, 16, of 11215 Parnell avenue, charged that they had forced him to give them $5 under threats of arrest for reckless driving and had tried to drag his companion, Miss Phyllis Mueller, 15, of 10907 Wabash avenue, to their car.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

THE HIGH COMMAND.

Two more independents have been elected to parliament in British by-elections. The meaning of these expressions of public opinion is clear enough. The people are dissatisfied with the manner in which the war has been conducted. They are demanding a more intelligent, a better coordinated leadership, which will make effective use of the military arms and thereby speed the victory.

Like the American people, the British people have been disturbed by a succession of defeats. Some of the reverses may have been the unavoidable consequence of failure to prepare adequately but others like Crete, Pearl Harbor, and Singapore cannot be explained in any such terms alone. The evidences of bad management are too apparent.

A hundred thousand officers and men were captured at the fall of Singapore and there were scores of planes uncrated on the docks when the city was surrendered. Carelessness in Washington and Hawaii, a lack of coördination between the various arms of the service there and here, and a wholly inadequate conception of modern warfare go far to explain the tragedy of Pearl Harbor. There is much evidence at hand to suggest that strategic decisions of the greatest importance have been dictated to the military men rather than reached by them and submitted to the civil officials for approval.

In Britain, as here, remedies have been proposed. As might be expected from the fact that the causes of failure have been alike, if not always identical, the proposed measures of correction are similar. The London Times has been calling for the creation of a single authority over the army, the navy, and the air force, to be known as the combined general staff, under the direction of a chief of staff who would be responsible for the preparation of strategic plans and, once they were approved, for directing their execution. In that capacity he could issue orders to all the services and thereby assure a balanced and coöperative effort.

The suggestion can hardly be unfamiliar to readers of THE TRIBUNE. With the difference only of terminology, substantially the same proposal has been made in this and other American newspapers. We speak not of a chief of the combined general staff but, more simply and directly, of a commander in chief, selected, of course, by the President. The commander in chief would have full authority over the army, the navy, and the air forces; with the help of assistants of his own choosing he would make the grand plans and supervise their execution. As Gen. Grant was in supreme command of all the armies of the republic in the closing months of the Civil war, so this new commander in chief would be in charge of all the armed forces of the United States of all descriptions. Instead of wasting our strength in many little adventures and dividing the command in the field to the detriment of coordinated effort, we should have the advantages of concentration and combination. We are fighting a new kind of war which requires a new kind of organization.

The end can be reached in various ways. One would be to make an outstanding military success, like Gen. MacArthur, the secretary of war with assistant secretaries of army, navy, and air force under him. Another would be to give the title of commander in chief to a Gen. MacArthur and require the secretary of war, the secretary of the navy, and perhaps a new secretary of air to accept his orders once his plans had been approved.

The aim of the American people is to win the war as speedily as possible and, like the British people, they sense that there is need for a reorganization and a concentration of authority in trained hands if the struggle is not to be needlessly prolonged. The obvious—the common sense—remedy is to find the military man who has shown the greatest promise as a strategist and as a fighting man and give him the reins. We need a commander in chief over all the fighting services. If there is a better man for the job than Gen. MacArthur we don't know who he may be.

WAR RELIEF DRIVES.

War brings many calls on the generosity of the people. Numerous activities are better supported by private contribution than by government funds. As the needs are made apparent, the people are quick to meet them.

There has been a wide variety of these appeals. To mention only a few whose activities are most important, there are the USO, the Army and the Navy Relief funds, the Red Cross, and China Relief. There are other worthwhile activities which have attained less prominence.

Until now these groups have conducted their campaigns separately, altho the USO is itself a united effort of six national organizations for work among men in the armed services. Fund raising drives are expensive to conduct, both in money and in the time of the army of volunteer workers which is necessary to assure their success. It would be underestimating the generosity of the American people even to hint that the constant succession of drives would produce a gradually lessened response, but there is a real danger that essential and worthwhile activities may receive less support than they deserve because their appeal comes late or because the multiplicity of campaigns makes it impossible for them to obtain an adequate staff of volunteer workers.

Local communities faced this same problem thruout the nation a couple of decades ago and they came up with a solution in the form of the community chest—in which all charitable activities which met suitable standards united their efforts in a single appeal for funds. A similar organization of all the war fund drives might prove extremely useful. Obviously it cannot and should not be instituted immediately, as some of the organizations seeking funds have drives now under way and others have their plans already made for campaigns but, before too long, it should be possible to coördinate or unify the appeals.

The city of Milwaukee has already made substantial progress in this direction. There the war drives are to be merged in the future with the regular community chest. Requests for funds will be presented to the community chest directors and on approval will be included in its budget. The Milwaukee plan has the advantage that it does not leave out in the cold the essential civilian charities, many of which have a larger job to do because of the dislocations of war than they have in peace time.

An alternative would be to keep the war fund drive separate from existing community chest activities, coördinate the requests of all the fund raising organizations on a national basis, and then assign quotas to each state and city for a single war relief drive.

SUPERPATRIOTS AND SLACKERS.

The nation has reason to be deeply proud of the superpatriots whom the opening months of this war have produced. There was Capt. Kelly and there is Lieut. Comm. O'Hare. There were the thousands who fought gallantly and bitterly in a lost cause on Bataan. There was Brig. Gen. George, Gen. MacArthur's brilliant air leader, killed in the line of duty in Australia. There are the Flying Tigers, outnumbered but victorious in Burma, and thousands of others on land, and sea, and in the air, unmentioned in dispatches but undergoing hardships and facing death. The superpatriots are, of course, all with the armed forces. If they are not actually at the front they are pressing anxiously toward that post of honor.

On the other hand, the country is unfortunate in its slackers, and particularly in those who are trying to cover up their cowardice with a pretense of superpatriotism. Those who call for offensives for others to fight while skulking in luxurious offices themselves fool no one. Men may volunteer for the army between the ages of 18 and 44. The upper age limit is not ironclad, as Ald. Douglas demonstrated when, at the age of 50, an active conscience moved him to enlist in the marine corps.

Any men meeting the requirements of the armed forces who are talking big and still staying at home are either cowards or liars, and if a man is one he is apt to be the other.

MORESCHI, FARRELL AND THE CLOSED SHOP.

A New York judge has intervened on behalf of the "sand hog" members of a tunnel workers' union who made an unsuccessful protest last year against the control of their parent body, the International Hod Carriers and Laborers' union, by racketeers. As a result of the local union's stand against the gangsters, Joseph V. Moreschi, president of the international union, had their charter revoked by a trial board.

In enjoining Moreschi and the international union from interfering with the local union, Justice Philip J. McCook said:

"The attitude of Moreschi on the witness stand was so arrogant as to lend credibility to items of tyrannical and oppressive conduct asserted by others and denied by himself. . . . The unfairness of the decision [of the trial board] is made clearer in the light of the punishment imposed—the most extreme available to the trial body under its constitution, interpreting it in the most merciless way and applying it in the most merciless form."

Moreschi is a former tool and intimate of the unlamented Mike Carrozzo, the Chicago gangster who ran the hod carriers' union during his lifetime and made it a vehicle of many sorts of graft and extortion. Moreschi holds his office by virtue of a steam roller convention, which was the first held by the union in some 30 years.

The union under its present leadership is a disgrace to the labor movement. That did not prevent the federal administration from including it in the closed shop bargain under which any man who wanted to obtain a job building a defense plant or army training camp had first to pay whatever initiation fees and dues the AFL union claiming jurisdiction over his craft chose to exact.

In Cincinnati 15,000 members of 11 locals of the teamsters' union have just held their first election in 24 years. The election was obtained only thru appeals to the courts and enabled the local unions to throw off the hold of Thomas J. "Brocky" Farrell. Action is still pending to force from Farrell an accounting for between 5 and 10 million dollars which he collected from union members.

Farrell still holds his job as international organizer at $15,000 a year by the appointment of Daniel J. Tobin, general president of the teamsters' union. It was Tobin who sent Farrell into Cincinnati to supersede the local union officials and take over the locals. Appeals to Tobin to permit the locals again to choose their own leaders brought the contemptuous retort that the union members wouldn't know what to do with the power if they had it. Mr. Tobin seems to share the sentiment of his friend, Harry Hopkins, that the people are "too damn dumb" to understand.

The cases of Moreschi and Farrell have a direct bearing on the current attempts in Washington to use the war emergency to protect the union bosses. Under present statutes any man may join a union if he wants to and nobody may bother him for doing so. The introduction of the closed shop where it does not now exist and of the so-called union maintenance agreement which can prevent a man from leaving a union with which he is dissatisfied are intended to make men join unions and continue to pay dues when they don't want to. These devices will operate in some instances to make workmen pay tribute to such creatures as Moreschi and Farrell.

Moreschi, and Farrell, and their type are said to be the exception rather than the rule, but the point has little bearing. Until organized labor cleans house and gets rid of the gangsters and extortionists, a step which its leaders have been reluctant to undertake, public opinion will never tolerate forcing workmen to pay tribute, under government compulsion and against their will, for the right to work.

MR. PEPYS JOINS THE PARADE.

2d May—Went to register in the war reserve or home front the other day with all the other old codgers and felt better immediately, for when I came out to the street in a hurry a bus stopped for me in the middle of the block; and I was so surprised at this honor I nearly forgot to pay my fare. The registrar marked me down on the card as of ruddy complexion, and I took a bow, saying, "People generally tell me how pale I am looking, but maybe I am getting healthier." He observed, "Maybe you've just opened up the golf season," and I answered, "Maybe I walked a mile to get here and am all of a glow." Anyhow, for purposes of identification by this card I am ruddy, and if asked to show the card I will try to blush.

Went to see the play "Macbeth," and was surprised to see the villain killed by falling off a parapet, which is what the actor folk call "new business." This is too easy an end for him and cannot give Macduff much satisfaction, altho he did the pushing. Among the firstnighters I noted Ina Claire, the actress, who now dwells in San Francisco as the wife of a barrister and bides her time until the stage becomes gay again. Greeted her, and learned she is making a transcontinental tour for the sake of the train ride and to do her spring shopping.

Have strolled about the town to enjoy the blossomtime, which is extraspecial this year, and caroled under my breath an ancient song about the trees blooming again along the boulevard, but came to my sober senses with a start when I realized the words I was singing were German. Well, not quite that, only Austrian. Maybe I should learn a spring song in Chinese.

The Message of an Old Tower.

The water tower stands on the edge of Michigan avenue as tho in constant hope to cross the road and join the waterworks from which it has been parted. Time was when tower and works, with well trimmed lawn between, stood in their own secluded plot of ground and no mad highway rushed between the two. But progress shouldered them apart and now the tower, buttressed against the roadway, rises like a lighthouse brushed by a ceaseless tide of traffic.

It is not beautiful, this tower; in fact, it is a little inconsistent for, starting out to be a Gothic castle, it has seemed to lose its purpose—or perhaps it is that, fed on water, it outgrew its strength. But this old tower is something more than stonework to be lightly criticized. It is a sacred landmark; a symbol linking us with Chicago as it was before the fire.

This tower stood when the city of the '60s, emerged from pioneer days and grown strong in power and purpose, was fair in the promise of still greater accomplishment. And it was there when tragedy descended and the great fire laid all else waste. The tower withstood the flames and saw a new Chicago rise above the ruins.

It has seen change, disaster, triumph. Fashion has passed beneath, bedecked in crinoline and bustle; in wasp waist, trailing skirt, and leg-of-mutton sleeves; on to the century's turn and more revolt. It has seen traffic change from buggy, coach, and brougham to the first, part-conscious, sputtering motor car.

It has seen the lake, much closer then, washing a barren shore. It saw a boat drift in and the fantastic figure of a man emerge; saw this lone outcast make the sands his home, defy the law, and shout his squatter's rights.

And on this waste of sand, sometimes called Streeterville, a towered world has grown, of homes and business, hospitals and halls of learning, to look down in turn upon the water tower.

O, FOR A SONG!

No sanctimonious melody that hymns
Our "great and gracious land"! No saintly-sweet
Anthem of prayer or praise, while starkly dims
The world's eye to blank death! No peacetime beat
Of stately paeans piling up slow chords
Of pride! Not now for one of these is our need—
But bugle notes, and the ring of angry swords,
And something singing grim, determined deed:
Something with victory in its rhythm, and lines,
Wide lines, of bomb-wings over the enemy's sky—
A doomful, vengeful ballad, deadly as mines,
At whose mere sound seems it a boon to die!
This, this, in earth's red hour of deepest wrong,
Give us today, O makers—this for our song!

Unsinkable Ships, Old Style.

India is much in the news these days; so are ships and the sinkings of ships. So it is interesting to recall that Marco Polo, writing about 1290, was about the first man to describe ships with watertight compartments. Of the ships in India he wrote:

"Some of the ships, namely the bigger ones, also have, inside them, 13 tanks or compartments, made of strong boards firmly joined together; thus, if a ship should chance, by any accident, to spring a leak . . . the water flowing thru the leak falls into the bilge, which is always kept empty. Thereupon the sailors ascertain where the leak is and empty out the flooded compartment, transferring everything into the neighboring ones; the water, in fact, cannot pass from one compartment into another, so well and strongly built are the partitions separating them."

OLD SOL—THE HEALTH GIVER.

LIGHT is a world mystery and without it we would soon perish. Egyptians worshiped the orb of day and the American Indians inherited the tradition. According to their fables, the sun is the creator, responsible for all living things. Deprived of its influence all creatures would shrivel and decay.

Disease loves darkness. The germs of pneumonia, for example can live for days or weeks in a damp, shady environment. Let in the sunshine and they will succumb quickly. Thus it is that the health and well-being of the human family depend upon our ability to shun dismal caverns and gloomy caves.

But this does not mean that we should be out of doors all day long. The body is able to make needed adjustments. It can store up the healing effects of Old Sol against depressing periods. As it is our most powerful force for good, so it may become a deadly enemy. In the desert, unless the inhabitants are adequately protected, ultraviolet [beyond the lavender rays of the rainbow] may be as fatal as a stroke of lightning. But employed sanely and in moderation a gain in health is in store for all.

The season is approaching rapidly when we will spend more time in the open, when the sunbeams will be more direct and hence more effective. No longer do we shun gradual tanning of the cuticle. Long since our fair ladies have given up parasols and sun bonnets. With children particularly, exposure of the entire body is highly desirable, as no youngster who acquires a healthy coat of brown will become a victim of rickets. The explanation lies in the fact that vitamin D is manufactured in the skin and is absorbed as needed for the building of strong bones.

There is an old notion, however, which must be combated—that ultraviolet will be helpful to victims of pulmonary tuberculosis. To our cost, we have learned that this powerful force will stimulate the circulation and even a brief direct contact may undo the healing of weeks or months. Every bathing season is followed by the lighting up of latent disease within the lungs because too much has been absorbed. Some experts go so far in the treatment of the great white plague as to prohibit a single minute of reflection on any part of the cuticle.

It is important to remember that a tan should be acquired gradually and that the pigment which is deposited is merely a defense against rapid absorption. It serves as a filter. When the season opens and we begin to think about renewing a speaking acquaintance with nature's luminary, our intervals of conversation must be brief. With the body uncovered a few minutes at noonday is about all that most of us can stand. The oft repeated rule holds good—namely, that if redness lasts more than four or five hours we have had a bit too much.

We must recall, too, that a burn may be responsible for a severe illness. If but a small portion of the epidermis is involved, little damage will be done. The answer, of course, is caution, which comes with knowledge and common sense.

COLON SACS.

M. D. writes: My doctor tells me I have several pouchlike growths on the colon. What is the cause?

REPLY.

Diverticuli, or outpocketings along the colon are relatively common. The wall is slightly weaker where each tiny blood vessel passes thru. In consequence, constipation or straining at stool may result in a small bleb. Unless they are sizable, or give trouble, no attention need be paid to them.

CHANCRE.

L. M. writes: What is the usual interval for the initial sore of syphilis to appear?

REPLY.

The causative organisms [treponema] enter the system within a few hours after inoculation. The chancre manifests itself within two to four weeks.

FEDERAL HOUSING FOR SERVICE DEPENDENTS.

Oak Park, Ill., April 27.—The proposed allotment for the families of enlisted men is entirely inadequate to properly feed, clothe, and house these people. If we are really sincere in our desire to aid these people, why not place at their disposal, rent free, the government housing projects for the duration of the war?

A PEOPLE'S PEACE.

Chicago, April 30.—Much has already been said about the kind of peace that is to come after the war and which countries will have the say-so, but nothing much has been said about who shall be the actual individuals participating in this part of the program.

Will the peace-making group comprise the same old gang of highly educated premiers, ambassadors plenipotentiary, and other silk-hat-Harrys-de luxe, or, in a try-anything-once spirit, should we place this important matter in the hands of some common men and women from all countries known for their common sense and integrity and without claim to any profound wisdom in diplomatic matters? They could be farmers, artisans, shopkeepers, etc., with a few earnest preachers thrown in to keep the fear of God alive in the conference. Would it not be interesting to see what came out of such an unusual group? Based on the results of previous peace conferences, which have been nothing more than temporary armistices, what could we lose? We might even get something more significant than a good laugh if such a conference were given plenty time to do its work without interference from any professionals on the side lines.

THE RESERVE MILITIA.

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—On behalf of the officers and enlisted men of the Illinois reserve militia I want to thank you for the publicity given our organization in connection with the "Americans at the Ramparts" broadcast over station W-G-N April 23.

I feel that the radio program together with the newspaper publicity has helped tremendously toward selling the reserve militia to the general public. Enlistment in the reserve militia is open to all men between the ages of 18 and 55 who are residents of Illinois. The militia performs an extremely vital function in the nation's war program and is entitled to the full support of the citizenry.

BALL PARK PESTS.

Chicago, April 29.—In your editorial on baseball there is a remark about the hot dog salesmen who wander back and forth before the fans and obstruct their view. We would go nutty if people passed before us that often in the movies or in a stage show. Yet the ball game is a show, too, and there should be a full view of it for the money paying fan. Vendors could easily have stands in the rear of the grandstands, but the nuisance will endure as long as the fans do not protest against it. C. P.

SHARE THE WEALTH PLAN FOR LABOR.

Chicago, April 26.—The prices of the commodities which are essential to life are largely determined by the purchasing power of those who are subject to the payment of social security taxes. The recent serious increase in living costs was started by the fabulous wages which were paid by a few concerns last year. This in turn increased the purchasing power of the individuals receiving such wages and resulted in merchants raising their prices. These higher prices, together with a curtailed production of essential commodities, brought about a demand for still higher wages, thereby accelerating the spiral. To correct this situation in a simple and effective manner, permit me to suggest the following:

1. Stabilize all wages, on an hourly basis, of all persons subject to social security taxes, as of a certain date, say April 1, 1942.
2. Ascertain the average hourly wage paid to all whose wages are stabilized on the date fixed.
3. Create a wage stabilization fund, somewhat along the lines of the fund set up under the old agricultural adjustment act, by imposing an excess wage tax on all receiving more than the average hourly wage.
4. Out of the wage stabilization fund issue supplementary pay checks to those receiving from their employer less than the average wage.

Under this plan differences in actual dollar wages received would depend only upon actual hours worked. It would in no manner disturb relations existing between employer and employé, and it would not affect those who, for personal or other reasons, prefer not to enjoy the security offered by regular wages. The wage stabilization taxes can be deducted by the employer in the same way as old age pension taxes are now deducted, and the fund can be administered by the social security board, the department of labor, or other governmental agency.

"A REASON FOR EVERYTHING."

Chanute Field, Ill., April 29.—Private L. E. complains of the waste of paper in the numerous tags on army issue clothes. At the factories making the clothes each segment making up the garment is labeled as soon as it is cut out. In this way it is impossible to mix up the segments for different sizes of garments before they are assembled. There are great quantities of these pieces stored away awaiting their turn on the sewing machines. "There is a reason for everything in the army." PVT. W. D.

KIBITZERS AT FIRES.

Mendota, Ill., April 27.—We've had a lot of fires in our town lately. Nothing as big as the Normandie fire, but several had a common cause. At one, a grass fire which threatened a house, civilian automobiles choked the narrow, curved roadway in front of the home, hindering the movements of the fire truck and preventing altogether the arrival of an auxiliary truck. At another, in which the old Baptist church, one of the largest wooden structures in town, burned to the ground, a large crowd with hands in pockets found ready humor in the plight of a fireman unable to control a big hose on top of a high ladder, but only a few men were willing to help him and get their own pants wet.

At our latest fire, which had a source difficult to get at, the spectator was the only fellow present who knew how to put out the blaze [according to the spectator]. The gallery ought to realize that the national emergency begins at home. I've been looking for the complacent attitude the people have been accused of harboring. If it exists, this is it.

TAXABLE WAGES.

Chicago, April 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there a state law in Illinois or any other state which requires that employers furnish their employés with a statement showing the amount of deductions from their pay checks, such as social security tax, insurance, etc.? Some employers furnish this information. Is this a voluntary act on their part?

A. W.

The law requires every employer to furnish each employé with a written statement or statements, in a form suitable for retention, showing the taxable wages paid to an employé after Dec. 31, 1939, and the amount of tax imposed. The names of the employer and employé and the period of time covered [at least one and not more than four calendar quarters] must be shown. These receipts must be furnished to the employé not later than the last day of the statement except that a final receipt, where the employé is leaving, must be given when the final payment of wages is made. The employer may, at his option, furnish a receipt at the time of each payment of wages in lieu of a single receipt for the entire quarter. Wilful failure to furnish such statement subjects an employer to a civil penalty of not more than $5 for each failure. Internal revenue code, sec. 1403. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

"The Girl Who Stood Alone"

By Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS.

With the second World war threatening, the lawn mower company, for which June Clayton works as secretary, has become an armament factory, but June does not suspect it. All unknowing, June copies a confidential report not grasping that its technical terms refer to airplane parts. Mr. Tarlinghouse, her employer, loeks the copy and the original in his safe. But June has spoiled three pages of the report and has had to recopy these pages before giving them to Mr. Tarlinghouse. Dutifully she has torn the spoiled pages up and has put them in her purse to burn later. On her way home for the week-end she stops to look at a car she has been wanting to buy from Henry and Jacob Ferrer who, June does not know, have been selling secret information to Hitler. Henry spies part of the torn copy protruding from June's purse and steals it. Later he and his brother break into Tarlinghouse's safe and steal the full report. Henry is arrested and accuses June of helping him. In the meantime June has driven the car home for trial and has had a gay week-end showing it to her Aunt Dorothy Mallen and her fiancé, Ralph Eddis. It is not until she gets to her office the following Monday that she learns of the theft of the report and is questioned by Glenday of the British secret service who, altho convinced of her innocence, agrees to shield her only if she helps him in secret service work. He is anxious to get the stolen papers back from Jacob Ferrer. Her first assignment is to dine with a Maj. Stranack at the Savoy that evening. Polly Flinders, one of Glanday's employés, outfits June in the necessary evening clothes and June starts driving to the Savoy in her new car. En route, a big car forces her to the curb and its driver speaks to her.

INSTALMENT VI.

Jacob Ferrer, bending nearly double, thrust his face in the near side window. As June gaped in sheer amazement Glenday's words came back to her. The whole available resources of the country were looking for the stolen papers and for Jacob Ferrer.

"Oh—oh—good evening, Mr. Ferrer! You startled me." He startled her again when she saw that the one time garage proprietor was now in smart evening dress. "Yes, thanks, the car's all right. I—"

She broke off as Jacob Ferrer opened the door and seated himself beside her. As he did so, the big car ahead drove off.

From June came a laugh that was hysterical. Customs officers, Scotland Yard, the royal air force—all looking for this man. And in the first few minutes of her work as a secret service agent she had caught him. Or had he followed her? He knew the Morstyn so well.

Ferrer misunderstood the laugh.

"You need not be afraid of me, Miss Glayton, if you do what I tell you," he said, still pronouncing her name as tho it began with "G," "but you know now that I am the kind of man who—really kills."

She shuddered. He thrust the muzzle of a revolver gently against her waist.

"Drive on. I will tell you when to turn."

"I shall have to reverse—I'm against the curb," said June.

"Okay, Miss Glayton."

She watched the road in the driving mirror and carefully made her reverse. There were plenty of cars passing in both directions but that fact was of no help to her. She could not stop a family sedan and ask the occupants to please be so kind as to help her arrest a dangerous spy armed with a revolver.

For all practical purposes she was alone with Jacob Ferrer. She was ready to believe that he would shoot her if he thought it necessary to his own safety.

She changed gear and drove forward. She felt not fear but exasperation. This was her golden opportunity if only she could find a way of taking it. Suppose she were to stop at the first policeman she saw.

"Miss Glayton, your police want me for espionage, also, as they will perhaps discover, for murder. If one murder, who not a dozen? I shall kill any one who attempts to arrest me."

It was the way he said it that made her believe him. At her age, it was difficult to imagine life suddenly ending—still more difficult to imagine that a man would really fire a revolver at her. But she could sense the cold formidability of Jacob Ferrer whose shoulder touched hers.

A car passed them at high speed. She felt Ferrer stiffen and understood why.

"What are you going to do with me, Mr. Ferrer?" she asked.

"You may be confident that I am not one to amuse myself by harming young women. Obey me and we shall both be satisfied."

That told her nothing. She was not afraid of him in that way. She perceived that he was as impersonal as Glenday.

And Glenday would be impersonally scornful when he learned that she had been too much of a rabbit to do her duty—that she had been afraid when a man threatened her—just like a girl who was not in the secret service.

They were nearing the end of the common. Ahead of them Ferrer's car with the bent rear fender had stopped. The tail of another car showed beyond its front wing, the car that had passed them half a minute before at high speed.

"That is the police and they are looking for me," said Ferrer. "If one murder, why not a dozen—including you?"

A policeman stood in the fairway holding up his hand and looking straight at her.

"Tread on the gas. Drive at him. He will jump," ordered Ferrer, and pressed the point of the muzzle hard against her waist.

June obeyed. The policeman jumped.

"Good girl. You will find it profitable to do what I tell you. Keep that foot on the gas!"

He leant over and looked thru the back window.

"We cannot beat that car. Obey me like a soldier or we shall have an accident."

Another 10 seconds, then:

"Good! This youngster will save us."

A youth in a sports model passed the Morstyn, compelling the police car to wait.

"Keep your hand steady. I'm going to burst their front tire."

The next instant she nearly screamed, for there came the deafening crack of the revolver and a splintering of glass as Ferrer fired thru the back window. A second bang and a third—then a distant thud and Ferrer turned round.

"Missed the tire but got the driver!" he announced.

Traffic lights were changing to red.

"Don't stop. Full ahead! Right on the gas!" he shouted and June rushed the crossing at close on 60 miles an hour. There was no time for thought. Death was at her elbow—by Ferrer's gun or by collision if she lost her head.

"At the next light stop and I get out. Drive on yourself, then abandon the car and take a taxi."

She was obeying him mechanically. The lights held her for a few seconds only.

"See you later, Miss Glayton," said Ferrer and was gone.

Amber light and on again. She was running into Hammersmith now. Still obeying Ferrer, she drew into the curb, switched off and got out. Only one thought of her own possessed her—that the underground would be quicker than a taxi.

She walked on, took a ticket to Charing Cross.

Twelve minutes past seven. In the train she sat in a haze—she could think of nothing. She almost had the illusion that she was still driving the Morstyn—that Ferrer was still shouting at her—shooting policemen, threatening to shoot her.

Charing Cross. With a gasp she sprang on to the platform just as the train was restarting.

Half past seven. She doubted her ability to walk the short distance to the Savoy, so took a taxi.

"I can't go to a dinner-party now. I feel sick. I've got a headache. I want to go home to bed."

This, she reflected, was not the way they talked in the secret service.

Some seven minutes behind her time, she was paying off the taxi in the courtyard of the Savoy.

Thru the swing-doors into the lounge—into another world of soft perfumes and heavy carpets and the faintly exciting murmur of some of the most distinguished and some of the most discreetly disreputable persons in the world.

The man she had seen on the staircase in the house in Klivern street instantly appeared. He gave her the same friendly nod and suddenly she came to life again.

"Major Stranack?"

"Remember to call me 'George,'" he returned. "You're rather late and—"

"Listen, George, please," she said in a quick undertone. "I've just seen Jacob Ferrer. He held me up in my car and made me help him—"

"Where is he?" interrupted Stranack.

"I don't know. He fired at a police car that was chasing us. I don't even know whether he killed them—"

"What did he say to you?"

"Nothing. There wasn't time. O, he said he'd see me later. He told me to abandon my car and escape from the police too after he'd left me and I did. And I—"

"Then you've nothing to report beyond the fact that you've seen him in London, and that he said he'd see you again," said Stranack. "I'll phone Glenday presently."

He had brought her to a divan and they sat down. June was puzzled, indignant, deflated. This man was presumably her senior and she had expected him to want to hear her tale and to sympathize and, frankly, to commend her for her courage. He did not even disbelieve her. He was treating her with the cold impersonality that seemed to be characteristic of the service.

"Hadn't I better tell you more about the police?"

"Just keep out of it. Say nothing—know nothing—do nothing, until you get orders. Now I'll give you the drill for tonight."

SCHENCK TRADES 3 YEAR SENTENCE FOR YEAR'S TERM

Pleads Guilty of Perjury; Tax Penalty Suspended.

New York, May 1 (AP).—Joseph M. Schenck, former chairman of the board of 20th Century-Fox Film corporation, was sentenced today to a year and a day in prison on a plea of guilty of perjury immediately after a federal court had suspended a previous sentence of three years for income tax evasion.

Joseph M. Schenck.

The court accepted the plea and ordered suspension of the three year sentence after the government said Schenck had assisted in the prosecution of Willie Bioff, west coast labor leader, and George E. Browne, former president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés, who were convicted of extortion from major movie producers.

Schenck also was placed on probation for three years. Federal Judge Grover M. Moscowitz, who pronounced the sentence, gave him until tomorrow to surrender to begin the new sentence.

Stock Placed in Escrow.

As a condition of the probation, Schenck placed in escrow 60,000 shares of stock of the 20th Century-Fox Film corporation, as a guarantee his tax liabilities, estimated at $400,000, will be paid. The stock is worth approximately $540,000.

Mathias Correa, United States attorney, recommended the reduction in Schenck's sentence.

"Except for the recommendation of the government, no power in the world could change my mind that he should serve the three year sentence originally imposed," said Judge Moscowitz.

Bioff, Browne Under Sentence.

Bioff and Browne were convicted of swindling major motion picture companies of a million dollars and were sentenced to eight and 10 years, respectively.

The perjury charge against Schenck grew out of alleged false statements made under oath by him to a federal agent concerning a $100,000 transaction with Bioff.

Correa told the court that as a result of Schenck's coöperation "evidence was made available for the prosecution of Browne and Bioff, and tho Schenck was not called as a witness at their trial, he stood ready to testify if called upon."

CHARGES LAWYER LISTED PART OF FEE FOR GRAFT

Mrs. Anna Urso, mother of Sam Urso, now in prison for manslaughter, charged before Judge U. S. Schwartz in Criminal court yesterday that Attorney Thaddeus Toudor had told her that $350 of the $550 fee he charged for defending her son was to go to the judge and the district attorney.

Judge Schwartz referred the charge to the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association. Toudor asserted the charge was absurd.

Mrs. Urso's charge grew out of the investigation of the mysterious disappearance of her son, Sam, 23 years old, from court March 20, shortly before a jury found him guilty of manslaughter in the hit-run auto death.

Urso surrendered April 1 with a new attorney, Daniel A. Covelli, and explained that he had overheard Toudor tell his mother before the jury returned that he had been found guilty, so he walked out.

His bond forfeiture then was set aside and he was sentenced to prison for from 1 to 14 years.

SLAYER IS HELD TO JURY; HEARING LASTS ONE MINUTE

In one of the briefest hearings in the history of the Municipal court, John Pantano, 20 year old leader of the Three Hat gang and confessed slayer of a park policeman, was bound over to the grand jury without bail yesterday by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Boys' court. The hearing took less than a minute.

Pantano confessed killing Park Policeman Charles Williams, Dec. 10, in a tavern stickup at 4301 North Western avenue.

HUSBAND WHO TRIED TO KILL WIFE WITH SNAKE BITE IS HANGED

San Quentin, Cal., May 1 (AP).—The rattlesnake torture murder was avenged today with the hanging of Robert S. James in San Quentin prison. He was convicted of drowning his sixth wife after failing to kill her by thrusting her bare feet into a box containing two rattlesnakes.

Robert S. James.

James, a paunchy, beady-eyed man, 48 years old, smiled as prison guards slipped the noose about his neck. No word was spoken during the execution—not even the customary "good-by" to the warden.

"I realize I've led a bad life," James told the prison chaplain a moment before being hanged, "but I've asked the Lord's forgiveness, and I think He has forgiven me." In prison he led a Bible class in condemned row.

Altho California now uses a gas chamber for executions, James was hanged because he was convicted and sentenced to death by hanging before enactment of the law prescribing death by gas.

INVESTIGATE 3 FIRES CAUSING $160,000 LOSS

City and fire officials yesterday were investigating three big fires which started in separated areas before dawn, doing combined total damage of nearly $160,000 and giving the fire department its toughest one day job in eight years. Earle Downes, assistant corporation counsel, is in charge of the fire inquiries.

One of the fires attacked two large buildings of the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, 103d street and Maryland avenue, which were being remodeled for war construction jobs. The company is now engaged in making war materials. Damage there was estimated at $50,000.

At the same time fire caused nearly $100,000 damage to the six story building at 409 North Peoria street, most of which was partially occupied by the Majestic Wood Carving company. The company has been vacating the premises. The third fire did $10,000 damage to the building and American grill at 2400 Indiana avenue. More than half of the fire fighting equipment of the city was used to battle the three fires.

CHARGE ILLEGAL VOTING; 2 LOSERS SUE FOR RECOUNT

Two suits seeking recounts were filed yesterday in the Circuit court against Hobart E. Neff, Republican nominee for state auditor from the First senatorial district and against Ernest A. Greene and Edward A. Welters, Republican nominees for state representatives from the same district.

In the first suit Harris B. Gaines, 3262 Vernon avenue, attacked Neff's nomination with charges that election officials credited Neff, as well as the defeated incumbent, Daniel A. Serritella, with illegal votes. The tabulated vote was Neff, 1,558; Gaines, 1,343, and Serritella, 1,095.

The second suit was filed by Representative Arthur T. Broche who ran third to Greene and Welters in a contest in which the two highest were to be nominated. He charged that they benefited from illegal votes.

PLAN TO INDICT ROOFERS' UNION PAROLEE GOON

The grand jury will be asked early next week to return an indictment charging Harold E. Erlandson, a paroled convict from Joliet penitentiary, with the slugging and serious injury of Larry Belles of 533 Oakdale avenue, a member of the roofers' union. This was announced yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash.

Both Belles, who was under treatment in a hospital for four weeks after he had been clubbed by two goons at his front door, and his wife have identified Erlandson as one of the assailants. He has been formally charged with assault.

"Belles was slugged because he was in bad with the local's officers," Sergt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, asserted. "He was a leader in a faction that demanded an accounting of funds and fair treatment for the rank and file. Right now an international vice president is under police protection while he is going over the books of the local.

Barnes called attention to Erlandson's police record. During the prohibition era he was an alcohol peddler. In 1932 he slugged a woman and robbed her of $230. He was indicted but in some mysterious fashion the papers relating to the case disappeared and Erlandson was granted 27 continuances.

He was brought to trial March 21, 1934, and a jury after only two minutes of deliberation found him guilty of robbery. He was sentenced to one year to life in prison and was paroled last September.

FOUND DEAD IN CAR.

Robinson, Ill., May 1 [AP].—Clement H. Vaughn, 59 years old, a former resident of Phoenix, Ariz., was found dead yesterday in his car near here and a coroner's jury returned a suicide verdict after hearing testimony a hose had been attached to the exhaust and into the car.

SLAYING BRINGS ECHOES OF 1912 HUSBAND KILLING

Echoes of a slaying case of 29 years ago were heard yesterday when Mrs. Harriet Tracy, 70, was questioned about the death of Morris DeYoung, 66, with whom she had been living in a basement apartment at 6714 South Aberdeen street. DeYoung's death on Thursday was at first believed to have resulted from natural causes, but a coroner's physician found yesterday that he had been shot in the back.

Police records disclosed that in 1913 Mrs. Tracy was acquitted on a charge of slaying her husband, who was shot with a revolver in 1912. Her name then was Mrs. Harriet Burnham. A .22 caliber rifle found in the Aberdeen street apartment had been fired recently. The bullet which ended DeYoung's life also was .22 caliber.

Known as Victim's Sister.

Mrs. Tracy, who described herself to police as a housekeeper but was known to neighbors as DeYoung's sister, told Capt. Patrick Collins of the Englewood police that she and DeYoung quarreled Thursday night over a light bill. She disclaimed any knowledge of the shooting. Police are holding her for further questioning and plan to give her the lie detector test.

Rides in Army Jeep Sold for War Savings Stamps

Rides in an army jeep at a dollar's worth of war stamps per ride were selling fast yesterday at Wheaton college. The college student war board, organized last December, is putting on the special drive and the army supplied a jeep and a corporal to drive it. In four and a half hours yesterday $300 worth of stamps were sold.

Fight With Our Flyers

IN THE MIGHTIEST AIR ARMY IN THE WORLD!

The U. S. Army Air Forces Now Open Officers' Training To All Qualified Men (18 to 26 inclusive) In Business—In High School—In College. Apply NOW.

IF you are itching to be in the thick of the fight—and you'd like to slip those Japs and Nazis a man-sized dose of their own medicine—

Then here's your chance to do something about it!

The U. S. Army Air Forces urgently need every young man in America who can qualify for the New Officers' Training Program. And 100,000 are needed as of today.

NEW SIMPLIFIED REQUIREMENTS

The Army Air Forces have always picked their officer candidates from America's top young men. That always will be so.

But the method of selection has been recently changed to include single and married men in business, industry, high school—as well as in college—who can meet the new simplified requirements for physical and mental fitness.

When accepted and when facilities are ready, you will go into Aviation Cadet training, receive $75 a month with expenses paid.

In less than a year—usually 8 months—you can try for an Officer's Commission—as a Bombardier, a Navigator or a Pilot—"The Three Musketeers of the Air"! And you'll be up there ready to "dish it out" from a big, blunt-nosed bomber or sleek pursuit ship.

Or if you have had the necessary college courses—you can likely win a commission in ground service—in Armament, Communications, Engineering, Meteorology or Photography.

This past year approximately 80% of all Aviation Cadets won commissions. So your chances are excellent.

ADVANCEMENT AND PAY

As a Second Lieutenant with the U.S. Army Air Forces, your pay ranges from $183 to $245 a month. Advancement should be rapid because of the tremendous expansion of the Army Air Forces.

After the war—all the brilliant opportunities in commercial aviation await you!

WHAT TO DO NOW

If you want to do some real fighting for America—up there where the eyes of the world are watching . . . if you want years of solid achievement you wouldn't trade for anything . . . then there's an honored place waiting for you in the Army Air Forces. And we want you!

For further information . . . drop in any Army Recruiting and Induction Station listed below for a friendly chat. If you would like to enlist now with one of the Examining Boards, arrangements can be made for you to take your mental and physical examinations the same day.

The sooner you apply, the sooner you will go on the list for immediate training. The wings of vengeance are growing in America's skies. Assure your place now in the greatest air fleet of all time—apply today.

NOTE: Those under 21 years of age will require parents' or guardian's consent. Birth certificates and three letters of recommendation will be required of all applicants.

THREE WAYS TO ENLIST

All Men of 18 to 26 Years (inclusive) who pass their Aviation Cadet examination and apply for immediate Air Cadet training,

1. may enlist as privates in the Army Air Forces (unassigned) and serve there until their turns come for Aviation Cadet training,

2. or they may enlist in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and wait until they are ordered to report for Aviation Cadet training.

3. In addition to the two ways outlined above college men and high school seniors (upon entering college) aged 18 to 26, inclusive, may enlist in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and continue their schooling, provided they maintain satisfactory scholastic standings.

Upon graduation or withdrawal from college, men will be assigned to active duty at a training center as facilities become available.

If the necessity of war demands, the deferred status in the Army Reserve may be terminated at any time by the Secretary of War.

The new Army Air Force Enlisted Reserve Plan is part of an over-all Army Enlisted Reserve Corps program shortly to be announced. This program will provide opportunities for college men to enlist in other branches of the Army on a deferred basis and to continue their education through graduation if a satisfactory standard of work is maintained. In case of necessity the Secretary of War shall determine when they may be called to active duty.

Men so enlisted shall have the opportunity of competing for vacancies in officer's candidate schools.

This plan has been approved in the belief that continuance of education will develop capacities for leadership. (Reserve enlistment will not alter regulations regarding established R.O.T.C. plans.)

It took police about one hour last night to solve a reported kidnaping case on the near north side.

Mrs. Herbert L. Michel, 18 East Elm street, wife of a physician, returned home and found her son, Richard, 2 years old, and her new colored maid, Margaret Hughes, 19, missing. On the table was a note from the maid stating: "My baby is awful sick. Richard is with me. Will be back in one hour."

Mrs. Michel waited a while, then notified police that she suspected a kidnaping. Detectives John J. Keehan and Edwin Hart searched the maid's room and found a letter listing an address of 3855 State street. Stanton avenue police hurried there. They found Richard safe in charge of Lucille Boyd, colored, a friend of Miss Hughes. Miss Hughes was nowhere near, but her absence was no mystery. Her soldier boy friend was in town on a furlough — and Miss Hughes was out with him.

QUESTION JURORS WHO ACQUITTED RAPE DEFENDANT

The last act of the April grand jury which adjourned yesterday was the questioning of 11 of the 12 jurors who recently acquitted William A. Niksic, 26 years old, 2496 East 96th street, of rape.

Niksic, scheduled to go on trial before Judge U. S. Schwartz May 20 on two attempted rape charges, had been accused by a 28 year old married woman of entering her home and attacking her. Niksic said he had been drinking and admitted entering the woman's home, but denied the attack. When Niksic was acquitted Judge John A. Sbarbaro said he could not understand the verdict.

The 12th juror, Frank J. Shubert, 1841 South 61st avenue, Cicero, was reported unavailable yesterday because of a defense job. It was said he would be called next week.

The April grand jury returned 188 indictments and 37 no bills. The May grand jury, to meet Monday, is expected to continue the gambling investigation.

BELIEF GROWS FOREST FIRES IN EAST WERE SET

Much U. S. Lumber Burns in New England.

Boston, Mass., May 1 (AP).—Reports piled up to night that a score of fires which broke out suddenly in New England woodlands within a 24 hour period were deliberately started.

Damage was estimated unofficially at well above $2,000,000. Even before all of the blazes were reported checked, at least temporarily, the army intelligence, FBI, and state officials sent investigators into the burned areas.

Gov. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, after viewing army aerial photographs of the worst fire, which swept a 40 square mile area in the southwestern part of that state, asserted that he was convinced that the fire did not originate from a single blaze.

Report Evidense Found.

Massachusetts' Conservation Commissioner Raymond J. Kenney declared that his agents had found evidence that some of the fires were "deliberately set."

At least 14 farmsteads and summer cottages and a million and a half board feet of stored government lumber were destroyed by flames which raged for hours thru the Coventry-West Greenwich section of Rhode Island. Gov. McGrath placed these towns under martial law.

Shifting winds made it difficult to fight the fire and some of the fighters narrowly escaped being trapped. One group of 20 state guardsmen escaped in Summit, R. I., after being virtually surrounded by flames. One of them, Richard Walsh of Woonsocket, was found unconscious after he had struggled to safety. More than 2,500 volunteers battled the blaze.

Fifteen Fires in Three Miles.

Near that area, James R. Simmons, district supervisor of the United States forest service, asserted that his men found 15 fires along a three mile stretch of road.

"It seems strange to me," he added, "that 15 fires would suddenly spring up where the government has so much lumber stored."

Brig. Gen. Peter Leo Cannon, who directed the Rhode Island state guardsmen, said flatly "in my opinion the fires were set."

ORDERS INDIANA WEEKLY BARRED FROM U.S. MAIL

Biddle Cites 'X-Ray' as Seditious.

Washington, D. C., May 1.—The justice and postoffice departments today cited the X-Ray, a weekly newspaper published at Muncie, Ind., for publishing allegedly seditious matter.

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker instructed the postmaster at Muncie to refuse to accept for mailing any copies of "The X-Ray" until they had been forwarded to Washington for ruling as to their mailability.

The postmaster general also announced that a hearing would be held here May 19 to determine whether the publication's mailing privilege should be revoked altogether.

Sees Link to Axis.

Attorney General Biddle said in a letter to Walker that the publication "has been engaged over a period of time in a sustained and systematic attack upon certain of our activities directly related to the war effort as well as upon public morale generally. The danger of such a systematic attack has already been amply illustrated by the fate of other countries where the axis utilizes such an attack to prepare the way for military conquest."

"Furthermore," Biddle wrote, "a parallelism has existed between material contained in 'The X-Ray' since Dec. 7, 1941, and certain of the major themes broadcast by enemies of this nation during the same period."

Published by Court Asher.

The postoffice department's announcement said "The X-Ray" is published by Court Asher, former chauffeur and bodyguard for D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan now in prison serving a life term for the slaying of Madge Oberholtzer. Asher also was convicted of selling liquor to policemen.

Biddle said Asher's publication was circulated in upwards of 15 states and "it is not unreasonable to assume that a substantial number of persons, including not only civilians, but also actual and potential draftees and enlistees, are reached and influenced by it."

Arthur and Helen Brady sank quickly, but the Harry Bradys clung to their boat until help arrived from shore. Arthur Brady was employed as a driver by a beverage company.

THE DILLINGS GET POLITE: HE'LL LET HER DIVORCE HIM

Amicable Pact Shock to Both Lawyers.

The boisterous Dilling divorce case which has been fought once or twice weekly for the last few weeks before Judge Rudolph Desort, ended on a relatively peaceful note yesterday. First of all, neither Albert W. Dilling, lawyer-engineer, nor Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, author-crusader, was in court. Second, Dilling will drop his wife to get the divorce.

The surprising turn of affairs—it was surprising to her lawyer, Theodore W. Miller and to his lawyer, Maurice T. Weinshenk—disposed of most of the issues between the Dillings.

Mrs. Dilling Must Pay Fine.

It did not, however, dispose of the three contempt citations still pending against Mrs. Dilling, the $50 fine levied against her in another contempt action or her million dollar libel suit against Dilling, Weinshenk, and Walter Winchell, New York columnist, over the broadcasting of charges of drug and liquor addiction originally contained in Dilling's suit.

When court convened yesterday, only the two lawyers appeared.

Miller announced that Dilling had called him a short time earlier, telling of his plans to give Mrs. Dilling the divorce. Weinshenk protested he "had no idea there was going to be a settlement." Miller replied, "I was as surprised as you."

Agree on Cruelty Ground.

According to Attorney Miller, the divorce will be asked on the ground of cruelty. Mrs. Dilling originally sued for separate maintenance in McHenry county, charging adultery. Dilling countered by suing for divorce in Cook county. She filed a cross bill charging cruelty and adultery. This provided the setting for the many court fights.

Summery Days Stir Activity at Country Clubs

BY JUDITH CASS.

THESE past balmy days have brought hundreds of golfing and tennis enthusiasts to the various country clubs in this area. Spring arrived with a rush in Wisconsin, fully three weeks ahead of schedule, and the trees and shrubs are in full leaf and the turf on the golf greens has a Junelike velvety texture, our correspondent there writes.

Most of the Lake Geneva summer colony members are busy with war work in Chicago, Washington, D. C., and elsewhere, so no festivities were planned for this week-end at the Lake Geneva Country club, which opened for the summer yesterday. The president of the club, Augustus K. Maxwell, and Mrs. Maxwell always arrive for the opening day luncheon, and their home, Jerseyhurst, was ready to receive them. Other officers of the club and their wives who were expected for the luncheon were the Henry C. Bartholomays and the junior Daniel Peterkins.

Onwentsia Clubhouse Open; Shoreacres Opens Today.

The Onwentsia clubhouse is open now and the restaurant will resume full service on May 16. The Shoreacres will open today. The Knollwood's formal opening will be held on Decoration day, as usual, but the clubhouse was opened Thursday. The tennis professional will arrive on June 1, but the courts are in use now, as they are at the Onwentsia and at the Shoreacres.

All the cottages and rooms at the Chicago Golf in Wheaton already have been taken, but the club is not opening until May 28. The golf course, tennis courts, and restaurant are in use now, however. Charles Bunker, Frank A. Miller, Henry Faurot Jr., and Mrs. Mark Oliver have taken cottages for the summer. John D. Black, George A. Strom, John J. Abbott, Edward E. Brown, and Robert Purchas are some of those with rooms in the brick building.

Adding a gala note to the grounds of the Exmoor Country club are the 18 junior naval officers who are occupying Baker cottage. They will be in residence all summer, and others may be taken in the main clubhouse if members do not request all the rooms. The club is open now. The tennis professional, Louis A. Volpe Jr., arrived Thursday. The Indian Hill club opened on April 1, and its tennis professional, Allen Wiley, is expected any day from Florida. The Glen View and the Barrington Hills opened yesterday. The courts at the Barrington club will not be ready until later, however.

Emily Wainwright Perkins' Engagement Is Announced.

Mrs. Frederick Wainwright Perkins of Vandeveer farms, Morrisonville, announces the engagement of her daughter, Emily Wainwright Perkins, to Charles Edward Branham of Richmond, Va., and Gallatin, Tenn., son of Mrs. William Harrison Smith of Gallatin and of the late Jesse Ferguson Branham. The wedding will take place on May 23 at Vandeveer farms.

Miss Perkins was educated at schools in England and France and was graduated from the Winsor school in Boston, where she was introduced to society in 1931. She is a member of the Boston Junior league, and attended Bryn Mawr college. Mr. Branham attended the Tennessee Polytechnic institute and Washington and Lee university.

Interesting romantic news is that Mrs. Louise Thorne Bovingdon of Lake Forest and Alexander Trowbridge Jr. of Winter Park, Fla., are to be married this summer. The wedding will take place in the summer home in Dublin, N. H., of Mrs. George A. Thorne, Mrs. Bovingdon's mother. Mr. Trowbridge, who is on the faculty of Rollins college, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Trowbridge of Winter Park, formerly of New York. Mrs. Bovingdon, whose sister and brother are Mrs. William Dodge Horne Jr. of Barrington and Bruce Thorne of Lake Forest, has a subdebutante daughter, Joya, whose father is John Bovingdon. Mr. Trowbridge will visit Lake Forest in June.

Philadelphia Girl Will Be Bride of Donough Prince.

From Philadelphia comes the news that a popular young bachelor, who was much in evidence in younger circles while he was working here, is to be married next Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Dickson Irwin of Delancey place, Philadelphia, and Winter Quarters farm, King of Prussia, Pa., are announcing the engagement of Mrs. Irwin's daughter, Miss Jeanne Lawson, to Lieut. Donough Prince, U. S. N. R., son of Mrs. Henry A. Prince and the late Mr. Prince of Short Hills, N. J. Owing to the war, the wedding will take place in Trinity church, Concord, Mass., in the presence of the families.

Miss Lawson, whose father was the late Edgar Percy Lawson of New York and Southport, Conn., made her debut in 1936 in Philadelphia, where she is a member of the Junior league. She is a graduate of Vassar and has visited in Chicago. Lieut. Prince was graduated from Harvard in 1931. He resided at the Dunham Woods club in Wayne until he went east two months ago to enter the navy.

Whether right at the race track in Louisville or huddled over radios in private homes, Chicago's racing enthusiasts will be watching or listening to the returns of the 67th annual running of the Kentucky Derby this afternoon. The International club at the Drake will have its usual Derby party from 4 to 6 o'clock, with the Misses Edith and Jane Beckwith assisting John Buckmaster in selling the horses and collecting the bids. Some of those who will hear the returns there are the Bert L. Atwaters,

Slacks to Fit Properly Now Are Available

BY REA SEEGER.

According to the critics, and there are increasing numbers of the same, the trouble with most of the slacks worn by women is that they do not fit.

Viewed from side or back most slacks are not exactly miracles of good streamlining or neatness. While the masculine critics rant and rave about the feminine half of the world going into reverse, and wearing slacks, there are many times when such models are good sense and practical for the job ahead. So if you are working at such jobs the only answer to the problem of neatness and workmanlike appearance, is a pair or a suit carefully designed and constructed.

A new service is available for these slack happy shoppers, especially those in search of individually constructed models. Slacks will be made to your measurements, fitted expertly and ready for you two weeks after the first fitting. You either select your materials from the yardage on display or bring in your own materials. The slacks are made for around three dollars, a very small amount for the comfort and individuality assured by this service.

There are regulation sizes ready for trial fitting and if you can wear sizes 12, 14, 16, and so on without any changes you can still have slacks made of your specially selected materials for a smaller sum. Whether you decide for cotton, twill, linen, sharkskin, denim, heavy silk, or wool, slacks to fit, and to fit your work requirements, are ready in the two week time limit.

The Housewife

Gay little Swedish peasant figures disport themselves on some delightful new place mats for the informal luncheon or breakfast table. These linen mats have a plain white ground. They come boxed in sets, with matching napkins, and they are not at all expensive. Another attractive set, American made, shows diagonal lines in colors: blue, yellow, green, etc., on white. These mats are fringed and have little napkins in solid color to match the diagonal bands. EDITH WEIGLE.

Miss Galbraith Will Become Bride Tonight

The marriage of Miss Louise Galbraith to Frederick Maclaurin Diercks tonight in Glencoe will be an occasion of sentiment to the bride and her cousin and bridesmaid, Miss Betty Gage of Kansas City. It was just 25 years ago in June that their mothers were married in a double ceremony by the Rev. Douglas H. Cornell of the Glencoe Union church, who is officiating tonight.

The wedding will take place at 8:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Galbraith. Miss Gage is the daughter of John B. Gage, mayor of Kansas City. Her mother died when she was an infant. Mr. Dierck's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Diercks; Herman Diercks, Mrs. Raymond Watson, who is an aunt of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Haddock, and the Frank Paxtons, all of Kansas City, are here for the wedding, staying at the Moraine-on-the-Lake.

Marie Bell Watson and her brother, Raymond Jr., who will be best man; Miss Virginia Dick, Miss Mary Louise Cobb, who is maid of honor; John L. Paxton, a cousin of the bride; John Galbraith Jr., and Robert Sutherland, cousin of the bridegroom, compose the bridal party. Mr. Diercks and his bride will go to Sun Valley on their wedding trip. They will reside in Kansas City. Miss Galbraith's grandmother, Mrs. John L. Lane, gave the bridal dinner last night at the Homestead. For something old Miss Galbraith will carry Mrs. Lane's rose pointe handkerchief, and something new will be a pearl necklace that is a gift from the bridegroom.

A wedding today that was arranged suddenly when the bridegroom received orders to report tomorrow for duty with the army is the quiet family ceremony in which Miss Elizabeth Matz will be married to David Biklen Wire. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the Hinsdale home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Matz, the Rev. Wilfred Rowell officiating. Mr. Wire is the son of Mrs. George Wire, also of Hinsdale.

Miss Matz's only attendants will be her sisters, Mrs. Victor P. Kayser and Miss Louise Matz, a student at Bennett Junior college. The bride will wear the handsome gown, worn also by Mrs. Kayser, which belongs to their grandmother, Mrs. Charles E. Schramm of Latonia, N. H. Mrs. Schramm and her sister, Mrs. Lyman Marshall, also of Latonia, and Mr. Wire's two aunts, the Misses Bikler of Burlington, Ia., all have come for the wedding. Richard Norman will be best man. Mr. Wire and his bride will be at home in Chicago temporarily.

Another early May bride is Miss Emily Harmon, daughter of John H. Harmon of Highland Park, who will be married to Robert E. Wolff, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Wolff of Astor street, at 4:30 o'clock in Trinity Episcopal church, Highland Park. The Rev. Christoph Keller will read the service. The bride will wear the lovely wedding dress of her mother, the late Emily Bolton Harmon, which was worn also by Miss Harmon's sister, Mrs. Edmund W. Gifford, who will be matron of honor. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Harmon will give a reception at the Exmoor Country club.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Arthur P. Van Schaick, and her daughters, Miss Helen Van Schaick and Mrs. Sewall Emerson, all of Connecticut, and Miss Elsie Bolton, another aunt, of California, have come for the wedding. Mr. Wolff and his bride will reside in Chicago.

Miss Martha Forman, daughter of the Arthur U. Formans of Winnetka, and Robert S. Wright, son of Mrs. Frank Wright of Bronxville, N. Y., will be married at 8:30 o'clock tonight in St. Elizabeth's church, Glencoe, the Rev. Richard Talbot officiating. A reception will follow at the Glencoe Woman's club, and after a wedding trip east Mr. Wright and his bride will be at home in Bronxville.

Miss Forman will wear the gown in which her sister and matron of honor, Mrs. George Herman, was married. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Edmund H. Callahan and Miss Martha Williams. Paul Huey will be the best man, and Mr. Callahan and Oscar Dugger of Glen Ellyn will usher. The bridegroom's mother and cousin, Mrs. Joseph Menning of New York, are here for the wedding.

Miss Carolyn Farwell Ferry, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Horace Farwell Ferry of Tucson, Ariz., formerly of Lake Forest, and Whitford van Dyke Carter, son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. William Carter of New York, are being married today in New York. The ceremony is taking place in the chapel of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, the father of the bridegroom officiating. Farwell Ferry, a student at Cornell, is giving his sister in marriage. Mrs. Mansfield Ferry, their cousin, is giving a reception afterward in her penthouse on Park avenue. Following a wedding trip to Tucson, Mr. Carter and his bride will be at home in New York.

Art Students, Ages 6 to 18, Exhibit Work

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Artists from 6 to 18 years old are exhibiting their work in the attractive show which opens today in Blackstone hall of the Art institute. The youngsters are students in the Chicago public schools and members of the James Nelson Raymond classes given by Dudley Crafts Watson and George Buehr at the institute. Some of the children are sons and daughters of members of the institute; the majority of them, however, are selected students who have done outstanding work in art in their respective schools.

The current exhibit of student work is entirely the result of the efforts of the young persons themselves. They painted or drew the pictures, matted them, and hung them. Because of lack of space, a certain amount of weeding out had to be done, but on the whole one may regard this as an unjuried show and one indicative of the type of art being taught the present generation.

The exhibit is colorful and dynamic. It has its amusing moments and its serious side. Design is strongly to the fore; realism is accented. The young persons have a fresh approach, and their work is imaginative rather than photographic. There is something here for all those of the public who enjoy the development of youth.

The exhibit will conitnue to May 19.

It is interesting to compare this exhibition with that of paintings by native American Indian student artists, whose water colors are on view at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, under the auspices of the Indian welfare committee of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. The water colors are delightful. They depict Indian customs and costumes. Many of them show the kind of animals with which the Indians are familiar. There are paintings of deer, rabbits, bears, and Indian ponies.

The Chicago Society of Miniature Painters has a charming exhibit of work by members in the same gallery. The exhibitions will continue thru May 14.

The Chicago branch of the National League of American Pen Women opened its spring salon yesterday at the Drake hotel. Among the outstanding work are flower paintings by Florence Ezzell Stevenson, "Pewter and Glass" by Sydne H. Langford [whose painting has a mosaic-like quality which is highly intriguing], and "Ex-Career Girl" by Peggy Palmer Burrows. Elizabeth S. Stevens shows a dunescape and an attractive still life. Two arrangements of flowers and pottery by M. Dingle are noteworthy.

Mrs. Frank G. Logan is program chairman of the Chicago branch, and Mrs. Marco Adrogna is president. The exhibit will continue thu May 15.

Fiddling.

In a letter from Christopher Morley:

"This seems so obvious that I haven't said it anywhere, thinking every one must have thought it already — and yet apparently nobody has. It is this: 'Nehru fiddled while India burned.'"

Point with Pride.

At Thursday night's concert of the Business Men's orchestra something new was added by the appearance, in uniform, of the bass viol player, Ernst Schmidhofer, lieutenant junior grade, United States navy. As Dr. Schmidhofer, he has been a member of the orchestra for years and still is, altho he comes in from the Great Lakes naval hospital, where he is with the medical corps.

Two other former members, Dick Wilson, bassoon player, and George Weber, clarinetist, also in the navy, are now playing in the Great Lakes band.

Tat-a-ta-tat-tat.

Waiting on a State street corner for the green light the other noon, Millie Anderson was curious to learn what was so funny to a group of subway workers huddled together. Stepping closer, she saw the traffic officer, cap on back of head, whistle in mouth, having some fun practicing with the workers' diamond drill.

More Fun than a Circus!

A few days ago Father Francis Dolan, who recently assumed charge of the Queen of All Saints parish in the Sauganash district, treated the 350 pupils of the parochial school to an afternoon at the circus. He gave each little charge two shiny dimes to spend as he or she pleased, and they went off in chartered buses with a motorcycle escort. When one small boy got home, his father asked him whether he'd liked the circus. "Sure," he replied, "it was pretty good. But, O boy, the real fun was being on the bus with the motorcycle policemen clanging all the way there and back."

Perfectionist.

Before Judith Anderson went into rehearsals for "Macbeth," in which she and Maurice Evans are giving such superb performances, she had an inspiration as how to get completely in the mood for the sleep walking scene. She simply asked a psychiatrist friend to hypnotize some one so she could get the reactions of a person walking in his sleep.

Top Billing.

Arthur Meeker told an amusing story the other evening concerning the early days of the University of Chicago. From the date of the university's founding to around 1905 the stockyards [where Mr. Meeker had his offices as an executive of Armour & Co.] received much more publicity than the school of learning. Finally President William Rainey Harper asked Mr. Meeker to cooperate when distinguished visitors came to town. Mr. Meeker agreed, and thereafter always told important travelers not to leave Chicago without "visiting Harper and his university."

Neighbors to Bid Farewell to Alexander Maleys Today.

The neighbors of Lieut. and Mrs. Alexander P. Maley and of the Frederick L. Spencers in Crilly court have been invited to bid farewell to the Maleys at the Spencers' after five this afternoon. Lieut. and Mrs. Maley are moving to their Wheaton farm tomorrow. Mr. Spencer, who has been convalescing in Florida from an operation, will miss the party as he is not returning home until next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Monroe Jr. [Helen Daniels] are being congratulated on the birth of a son, Scott, on April 28 in Passavant hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Daniels of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Monroe of Wilmette are the baby's grandparents.

Maurice Evans, who currently is appearing in "Macbeth" at the Erlanger will present "Shakespeare in the News" at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the New Trier High School auditorium in Winnetka. The Winnetka and Evanston units of the British War Relief society are sponsoring the entertainment. Mrs. T. Kenneth Boyd, one of the chairmen, will entertain at a buffet supper later for Mr. Evans at her Winnetka home.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . . By John Chapman

Hollywood, May 1.—Arnold Pressburger, who made the much drubbed but surprisingly successful "Shanghai Gesture," will produce a cavalcade of heroism titled "Medal of Honor"—and there is quite a story behind it.

The idea of such a picture and the title for it were registered five years ago with the Hays office by John Peere Miles, one of the ablest of Hollywood publicity men, who dates back to the early days of David Wark Griffith. Miles publicized "The Shanghai Gesture" for Pressburger.

Five years ago the setup for "Medal of Honor" was to make it a sort of documentary film on American exploits of heroism. Floyd Gibbons was to do the narration. Gib, then at the height of his radio career, had so many commitments that he couldn't get around to the movie job. Later—and until quite recently—militarism was unfashionable in Hollywood, because the movies were being shot at for being war mongers. And Gibbons died.

Now Pressburger has bought the idea. He plans to precede the big film, which probably will be made for United Artists, with a series of "Streamliners"—pictures of four or five reels depicting individual exploits and individual heroes like Colin Kelly. Then he will do his superduper about what it takes to win this country's highest award for heroism, the congressional medal of honor.

In making the streamliners Pressburger will be the first to follow the pioneering of veteran Hal Roach, who has been fighting for five reelers for a couple of years.

On the Salton sea, a lake below sea level created many years ago as overflow from the Colorado river irrigation project, Paramount has built a replica of Wake Island for a film titled "Wake Island."

Casting problems have been difficult. It has been hard to find stunt flyers, for many of the Hollywood regulars are now in service. Fifteen years ago the movies could put their hands on 100 men—and ships—any time. There are few left now. Available for the picture were only Herbert White, who has been flying since 1919; Paul Gustine, former airline skipper; Frank Clark, a stunter for 23 years, and Paul Mantz, best known of the movies' aviation men.

Another problem was getting Jap soldiers for a landing on Wake Island. Paramount managed to hire 50 Filipinos who would pretend to be Japs. They made their invasion landing, were met by gunfire from such Americans as Brian Donlevy and Robert Preston; but they wouldn't die. They wanted to get up close and look at the camera—and they didn't want to fall in the water. It was several takes before the boys got used to movie business and died the way they were supposed to.

The "Wake Island" set is very much under the control of the United States navy and the marine corps, for the Salton sea is one of the places where people are being trained in a certain type of warfare.

Another problem the movie company faces is food for its players. A food contracting firm specializing in large projects like Boulder dam has the grocery job for the big location. It charges $1.50 a day a head, and Paramount is worried about the shape its actors are getting in.

They are becoming overstuffed and have had to have their uniforms let out. A group of visitors arrived last week at lunch time and fell into large helpings of cottage cheese, cold cuts and salad. They thought this was a fine desert lunch, so they loaded up. Then a waiter came around with a tray of thick steaks! One night Brian Donlevy had, aside from several vegetables and some salad, three lamb chops and a T-bone steak, not counting pie and coffee.

Charles Francis, Broadway veteran, has a rôle in "The Black Swan." . . . Universal has signed Alan Jones for three pix and it may be that Jones and his wife, Irene Hervey, may play opposite each other in a musical called "You're for Me." . . . Description of an actor by a director: "He's a reactionary character. You know, he reacts."

Recipe contest editors do enjoy the many fine letters that come their way. One of particular interest comes from Mrs. Ada Louise Heck, dietitian at the Chicago Home for Girls.

The letter's full of good, helpful information for those diabetes sufferers who can use no sugar. A day was set aside at the home for experiment with saccharin in beverages and cooked and baked products. Here are some of their results.

Most foods sweetened with saccharin compared favorably in flavor with those sweetened with sugar. In baked products, such as sweet, crisp cookies, saccharin gave a less glossy surface and less crisp product than sugar. The brown, sugary crust was missing when saccharin was used. But the girls decided that results, even for baked products, were pretty good when saccharin was substituted for sugar. They particularly liked the yeast bread made with saccharin.

If you'd like to do a little experimenting of your own along this line, remember that 12 1-grain tablets of saccharin equal 1 cup of sugar in sweetening ability. The saccharin must be dissolved in a liquid.

Mrs. Ernest Otteson, 233 North Beaumont road, Prairie du Chien, Wis., finds many little ways to cut the corners on her food budget. She uses bacon and other drippings for shortening, whenever possible. Bread wrappers are saved and used like waxed paper in her house. And a good big beef roast with vegetables is served each week, the roast being big enough to spread over two meals. As a time saver she cooks ahead when possible so that last minute interruptions won't throw her off schedule.

Mrs. Otteson also has been experimenting. She has been trying corn sirup and honey as part of the sweetener in her favorite cakes. Here is her rhubarb cake made with corn sirup and leftover rhubarb sauce.

Rhubarb Cake.

½ cup sugar
½ cup shortening
½ cup corn sirup
1 cup rhubarb sauce
1 egg
1¾ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¾ cup bran cereal

Cream sugar and shortening together. Add sirup and cream well. Add rhubarb, then the well beaten egg. Sift flour with soda, cinnamon, and nutmeg, and stir in bran. Add to first mixture, blending well. Turn into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate [350 degrees] oven for 50 minutes, or until done.

Three Needlework Designs

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Little girls look cool and comfortable on a warm summer day wearing a lacy crocheted dress. No. 896 is available in sizes from 2 to 6 years. Cross-stitch motifs allowing a choice of patterns is an ideal hot iron transfer item to have on hand when the spirit to embroider moves one. No. 680 includes all the patterns illustrated. For leisure time pickup work the crocheted luncheon medallion, No. 907, is an ideal choice, because the motifs require little time to create and are joined as the work progresses.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, for EACH pattern desired, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 200 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

President Roosevelt's announcement that plans for voluntary registration of women for wartime activities have been dropped will be good news to all Chicago women, for no one to whom we have talked has felt that it was a necessary measure. The number of women registered for war work far outbalances the number of jobs available today. Even some who have taken special training at the University of Chicago's school of business under the sponsorship of the federal government to prepare for service in war industries have not yet found work.

The school, of course, did not guarantee jobs to the 48 women who were chosen from more than 1,200 applicants to take the first course, but the placement facilities of the university and of the school of business were at the disposal of the women when they finished the course about three weeks ago. "Immediate placement in war industries is a major objective of the program," according to the announcement of the course.

The Junior Business and Professional Women's club, sponsored by Mrs. Burnett D. Warner, is holding a strawberry festival tomorrow night at the recreation center for service men, 1249 South Wabash avenue. This center is sponsored by the Grant park recreation committee, of which Mrs. Warner is chairman.

In addition to providing the refreshments for the evening, the club has arranged for a program, which will include the Johnson sisters, known as the Barbarettes, who are affiliated with the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

The army division of Bundles for America has been closed until new quarters are established to replace those formerly located at 424 South Michigan avenue. The organization hopes to be able to find new headquarters soon. In the meantime, any one interested in Bundles for America is asked to come to the navy division office at 337 North Michigan avenue or to call Franklin 7720.

Bundles for America is having a dinner and keno party next Friday at the Lake Shore club. Reservations for dinner may be made by calling Franklin 7721.

Sisterhoods, clubs, and fraternal organizations of the Jewish Welfare board are now donating more than 2,000 cakes a month to the Chicago Service Men's center, 176 West Washington street, according to Mrs. Alfred Wallerstein, welfare board delegate to the Service Men's center. This contribution to the large appetites of the boys in uniform will be maintained in spite of the sugar rationing. To further help the cause, most of the cakes are delivered weekly, bi-monthly, and monthly in person to save gasoline and tires for the Red Cross Motor corps.

Plans have been made for streamlining the activities of the woman's division of the Chicago Urban league so that it may function more effectively during the present crisis. Dr. Anna Johnson Julian has been elected permanent chairman of the woman's division.

The committee on public relations, headed by Mrs. Dorothy Bushnell Cole, needs volunteers to act as advisers to groups of young Negro men and women who need special training for defense jobs, to interview applicants for work at the Urban league offices, to investigate new work possibilities for Negro women, and to visit the homes of service men and advise their families.

The Sisters of Mercy at Mercy Hospital, 26th street and Prairie avenue, are giving a tea tomorrow for the Red Cross Nurses Aides who are working there.

The midwest committee of the British and American Ambulance corps announces the closing of its shop at 81 East Madison street, and the transference of all its activities to the committee headquarters in the Palmolive building.

The shop, conducted as an added incentive to raise funds for ambulances, was closed on Thursday. During the summer months any shop activity will be in the suburbs and under the supervision of a local committee. Tentative plans for such shops include Evanston, Lake Forest, and Oak Park.

From its near north side offices, the midwest committee directs not only the Chicago activities but those of five midwest states—Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, and Michigan. More than 60 ambulances from this area have been sent to the fighting fronts. The most recent ones purchased with Chicago dollars were given by the Chicago Jewelers, the Industrial Scrap Iron and Metal Dealers' association, and the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Thru the Looking Glass

This seems to be the proper time to bring up the subject of anti-perspirants and deodorants. Their use is widespread, especially among business women who long have recognized the value of personal daintiness, but there are still many persons who consider them unnecessary, or just too much bother.

Anti-perspirants for use in the under arm area are required by most persons. The strength of the solution used is best determined by the individual and a little shopping around will turn up one of proper proportions for personal needs. We hear many complaints about irritating qualities of some anti-perspirants, but questioning usually reveals that the product has not been used according to the implicit directions furnished by the manufacturer. These directions are given because testing has proved that best results will be obtained thereby and maximum protection both from the standpoint of checking perspiration and eliminating irritations is insured. One point to remember always is that such preparations should be used only on an immaculate and freshly washed surface.

We have been nagged by some of our friends to pass a little hint on this subject along to the men. Many of them do not realize that they ought to use such products, and still others relegate them to the realm of purely feminine toilet articles. But the truth of the matter is that women have had the socially ruinous effects of neglect drummed in for so long, and have become fastidious in this regard, that the finger now points to the men, warning them to check up and add a few of these items to their bathroom shelf, to be used regularly. LOUISE DOOLEY.

Illinois Voters' League Revises Its Framework

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Revisions in by-laws effecting sweeping changes in organization were voted last night by the Illinois League of Women Voters, which went into convention in the Palmer House after the National League of Women Voters adjourned. The state league's convention, its 21st, will be its last annual gathering, the delegates having agreed to meet hereafter biennially, except in extraordinary session.

Under the amended by-laws, a general council was set up as the policy making body. The council will be composed of elected officers and three directors, appointed committee chairmen and work program chairmen, the Cook County league president, and the presidents of all local leagues. It is to meet four times a year. The plan was adopted in the belief that a group having members so closely connected with unit leagues, of which there are some 50 in the state, would more truly interpret the views of the mass of members. It is to have control and management of affairs and funds.

The board of directors was reduced in number by another amendment. Its members will be the elected officers and three directors, the president of the Cook County league, and state chairmen of work program departments. Chairmen of standing committees are to be ex-officio members. The board will meet between council meetings, will perform duties delegated by the council, and will have power to act in emergency.

A reorganization plan for the Cook County league, which had been worked out in most part by the president, Mrs. Raleigh Stone, was made possible by one of the by-laws changes. Contingent upon a favorable enabling act by the state convention, the new plan already had been approved by the county organization. Since the county league is a delegate body, its participation in the national program proved to be largely a duplication of effort of the member units. Under the new plan it will concentrate its efforts entirely on governmental problems within the confines of the county. It also will have a council upon which the member league presidents will sit.

Mrs. David Shillinglaw presented the nominating committee's candidates, as follows: Mrs. J. W. Albig of Urbana, Mrs. Matthew Gaffney of Winnetka, and Mrs. Philip Ringer of the Hyde Park league for the three vice presidencies; Mrs. George G. Barnes of Peoria for secretary, and Mrs. W. W. Ramsey of Chicago, Mrs. Raymond S. Simons of Highland Park, and Mrs. Clifton Utley of Chicago for directors. The delegates will vote today. Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer continues as president on an unexpired term.

The state convention, curtailed because of the national league's meeting, will complete its business today. Mrs. Marion A. Cheek Jr. of Snyder, N. Y., a national director, will speak on "Wartime Tangents" at a luncheon session.

League Conclave Ends

The National League of Women Voters ended its biennial convention yesterday at the Palmer House after adopting resolutions demanding that only public officials of the highest caliber be elected to congress next fall and advocating vigorous prosecution of the war effort.

Asserting that "second best will not do," the delegates, in their closing resolution, pledged the league to work for a public opinion that will demand for election to congress "men whose first interest is to win the war, regardless of political, sectional, or special interest . . . and men who have demonstrated their understanding of the part this country must play in an interdependent world and the responsibility of the United States in building a free and stable order."

Acting on two points of its active war program held over for the closing session, the league resolved to study and support measures for "curbing inflation thru price control, rationing, curtailing purchasing power, and fullest use of resources" and for promoting "economy in federal, state, and local government wherever it does not impede the war effort or curtail essential services and standards."

All candidates proposed by the nominating committee were elected. They are Miss Marguerite M. Wells, Minneapolis, Minn., president; Mrs. Harris T. Baldwin, Washington, D. C., vice president; Mrs. Richard Field, Weston, Mass., second vice president; Mrs. R. T. H. Halsey, New Haven, Conn., secretary; Mrs. Walter T. Fisher, Winnetka, treasurer, and Mrs. Marion A. Cheek Jr., Snyder, N. Y.; Mrs. Louis Leonard Wright, Chicago; Mrs. D. Bailey Calvin, La Marque, Tex., and Miss Ruth Mitchell, St. Cloud, Minn., directors.

There was a large postconvention luncheon at which Mrs. George Gellhorn of St. Louis, Mo., presided. The speaker was Edgar Ansel Mowrer, deputy director of the Office of Facts and Figures and former foreign correspondent. Mr. Mowrer traced the progress of the agressor nations since the invasion of Manchuria in 1931, and declared that only by applying the lesson of the past to the present could the nations who stood for freedom and peace escape the "serfdom" which the axis would impose if they were victorious.

Good Morning!

Identical twins are running rampant over the Roosevelt screen in a couple of excellent thrillers—one a spy opus, the other a just plain hair raiser.

The one I'll tell you about this morning presents German brothers [both depicted by Conrad Veidt] as the principal characters.

One, Otto, has found home and happiness in this country and is a loyal American citizen. . . . The other, Otto, is a German consul, and, under a cloak of suavity and sincerity, operates as head of a band of saboteurs.

The brothers have not seen each other for many years, but the consul knows all about Hugo, and the latter has the surprise of his life when the former walks into his little stamp collection shop with the demand that the same shall be used as a sort of postoffice and meeting place for the ring members.

Upon Hugo's refusal to have any part in the intrigue comes another surprise. . . . Miss Harper, long his assistant, proves to be a member of Hugo's gang. . . .

Otto's attempt to reach the police brings Hugo back to kill him. . . . But now fate jumps in. . . . Otto is not the one to die. . . . He shaves his beard—and shoulders his brother's identity.

So like Hugo in appearance is he that, for a while, even the old manservant, who has been in the family for years and came over to America with Hugo, is deceived. . . . Then, one morning, handing Otto a towel after his shower, he sees on the latter's shoulder the scar of a saber wound which once he had dressed NOT for the German consul. . . .

And now Otto has a valuable ally. Events stem thickly and interestingly from this crux situation. . . . The finale will very likely bring tears to your eyes. . . . [Right here, tho, is a rub. I don't think it a logical finale. . . . Surely, clever as Otto had proved himself, there was no need for so melodramatic a sacrifice.] . . .

Mr. Veidt's ability you all know. There is no more polished or convincing actor, and in this double rôle he scintillates as usual. . . . Supporting parts are splendidly handled. . . . The piece is excellently directed and characterized by steadily mounting suspense.

See you tomorrow.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 club	1 spade	Pass	3 spades
Pass	4 spades [final bid]

West opened the nine of clubs; East cashed the ace and king and continued with the jack. Declarer's queen was ruffed away with the spade nine by West and the nine of hearts was returned. Declarer won with the king and immediately led a low spade to dummy's ace. When West showed out, 10 cards of East's original holding became known, that is, it was established that he had started with five clubs, four spades, and at least one heart. [The importance of this information will become clear in a moment.] Declarer drew East's trumps, then led his remaining heart to dummy's ace. East again followed suit, thus marking himself with at least two hearts originally.

Now, altho declarer had no real need to ruff dummy's five of hearts [since his remaining trump would be good in any event] he nevertheless made that play for a good and sufficient reason. He was highly interested in finding out whether East would follow suit to this trick. As may be seen, East actually had a third heart and now the situation became crystal clear. Declarer, upon ruffing, knew absolutely that East's original distribution had been five clubs, four spades, and at least three hearts, therefore that he could not have had more than one diamond. The diamond ace was cashed [to provide against the possible singleton queen in East's hand] but when East played the seven spot, the finesse against the queen in West's hand become 100 per cent established.

Thru such simple means as this can finesses often be avoided.

Parents Need Help Regarding the Teen Age

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

I feel that this letter is not too personal and will not be identifiable:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Your article on parents being so utterly undemonstrative with their older boys and girls seemed to be written especially to me. The night before, I had told my daughter, not quite 17, that she never showed any affection for us any more. She replied that she felt the same way about us, and I was quite shocked.

"It seemed almost a coincidence that on the very same day, Sunday morning, I should read your article about that very same subject. It is quite true that I have been taking things for granted and criticising so much that she may have felt I was entirely dissatisfied with her.

"I would like to see more articles on the high school age child, such as 'steady company' among high school girls and boys, which is a very common thing today, and also many other things we hear about them. I never felt that I had any really great problems when they were little tots, but I am sure that every parent of older boys and girls is praying for help, especially since the recent tragedies. I have read your column for many years and have found your advice most helpful."

Well, the first part of this letter scarcely needs any comment if you happened to read the article referred to. If you didn't, the gist of it was that too often we lavish signs of affection on our children when they're little, but as our children grow older we become gradually very reserved, at the same time that our criticisms and corrections mount higher and higher. Like the young girl in this letter, our older sons and daughters often begin to think we don't love them in the same tender way we used to.

As to the last paragraph, I know that parents long for advice in regard to all the teen age problems that arise. From time to time we write on them here. Altho those problems, like so many others, are individual. However, what I was about to say is that I believe it would be most helpful to the readers of this column to hear of the solutions of other mothers of high school sons and daughters. So, if you have worked out well some of the difficulties this mother refers to, write to us and tell us about it. It would be interesting to our readers to see a number of these in this column. Those that seem especially helpful we shall publish.

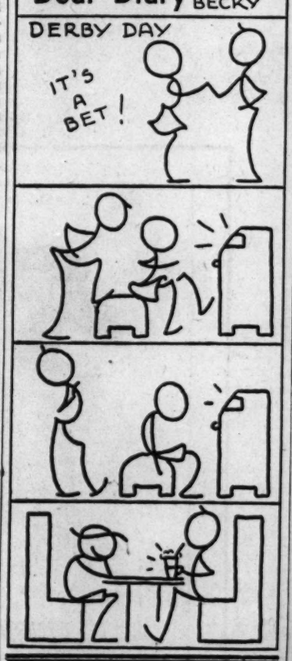
Dear Diary BY BECKY



White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY.

Crisis.

A patriotic typist and her mother decided to adopt some lonesome soldiers. Letters, cigarets, small gifts, and homemade cookies were to be part of this mother and daughter's service to Uncle Sam. So they got the names of 10 draftees and divided them—five to mother, five to daughter.

Now, Jane [the daughter] could type. And mother could bake. Naturally, it seemed sensible to take care of the matter in this way: Mother would bake the cookies and Jane would write the letters, signing her name to five and her mother's name to the other five.

After several weeks a crisis has arisen. Mother is receiving disconcertingly ardent mail from Pvt. Mc———. "Please send photo. Have applied for furlough."

Jane is quite, quite sure that in her own letters she was properly circumspect. But the question is: In her mother's letters did she sort of let herself go?

Telephone Courtesy.

A company noted for its efficiency and courtesy in dealing with the public is circulating the following notice to employés:

"Your telephone—make it serve! Your telephone is a time saver and a servant. Please observe the following rules and it will serve you better:

"Answer promptly. The other fellow is waiting. It is not time saving to make him wait while you finish what you are doing. If you are the one nearest to the phone, answer it.

"Identify yourself. Say, 'Department 62 — Smith speaking.' 'Hello' does not tell the caller anything. It is superfluous.

"Take a message. If the person called is away, say, 'May I take a message?' Or, 'May I help you?' This usually saves another call. Have a pad and pencil near the phone.

"Excuse yourself when you leave the line to get information. Offer to call back if the delay is excessive.

"Speak in your natural voice with your mouth one inch or less from the mouthpiece. Watch the tone of your voice. You can't mellow a sharp word with a smile over the telephone.

"Be brief. There is a double time saving in brevity over the phone—your time and the other fellow's. Like a good letter, a good phone call is brief and to the point.

"Close with a 'thank you' or 'good-by' that carries the warmth of a hearty handshake.

"Hang up gently to avoid a sharp bang in your caller's ear."

The Voice of Jeanine.

It's not the "face that launched a thousand ships"—tho it's a pretty brown eyed face. But it's the voice that calls a thousand cars in the parking lot on Monroe street where a young woman speaks the ticket number of parked cars into a microphone. Probably a million people have heard her voice, and to many it has become as much a part of the city symphony as the honk of automobile horns and the clang of street cars. All of which is by way of informing an inquisitive reader that the owner of the voice goes by the fascinating name of "Jeanine."

Pronunciation Quiz.

"It is interesting but positively despicable that any one in an administrative capacity should be primarily self-seeking."

The five words in italics are commonly mispronounced. Do you know the correct pronunciations?

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, who for three days had suffered the agony of defeat because of a run scarcity, were robust gentlemen yesterday while conducting the 1942 local reception for Mel Ott's Giants. The latter also were abnormally healthy with their bats, but at the end of nine turbulent, almost daffy innings, Jim Wilson's fellows discovered they had broken a three game losing streak. It was done with 13 runs against 9 for the enemy.

In anticipation of a tough afternoon with Dave Koslo, a lefty, Manager Wilson fixed up a batting order in which only one left handed swinger was present, but the Giant youngster was not around long enough to prove the efficiency of the right handed lot. He went away hurriedly before the first inning was completed. At the finish four others of Ott's staff had been mauled, whereas the Cubs, fortunately, got by with Jake Mooty, Tot Pressnell, and John [Lefty] Schmitz.

Hits Are a Dime a Dozen.

Two of the Giants, and they were pitchers at that, hit homers. Peanuts Lowrey hit one for the Cubs, but the round trippers merely were incidents in an aggregate of 27 hits for 43 bases.

The daffiness broke loose early. Koslo's first pitch in the first inning was propelled into the seats by Lowrey. Merullo doubled and Koslo walked three, forcing a second run to score. Gordon East came in to clean up the inning.

The Giants didn't get the drift of things until two of them had been retired by Mooty in the second. Then Harry Danning and Dickie Bartell doubled and East hit a homer to left to establish a temporary 3 to 2 edge.

Giants Take Lead.

Mooty started the Cubs' five run second and also finished it. He led off with a single, Lowrey sacrificed and Len Merullo singled. Passes to Rip Russell and Bill Nicholson filled the bags. Phil Cavarretta replaced Lou Novikoff and flied out, after which Lou Philadelphia, Pa., May 1. — Apparently there is nothing wrong with the White Sox that the Athletics can't cure. The Chicagoans, base hit starved and victory famished, almost left the American league cellar today by beating the Mackmen, 5 to 2.

Coming into this city of brotherly love, the occasional home of Manager James Dykes, with a record of seven straight defeats, the Sox broke their losing habit.

John Rigney was the gentleman who did it, putting up a game and sterling performance in the face of practically no odds at all, to capture his second victory and Chicago's fourth of the year. He yielded six hits.

Bob Helps Out.

The A's scored first against Rigney, but the right hander settled down quickly and without serious disturbance kept the Mackmen from finding the plate again until the eighth.

Meanwhile the Sox, handcuffed by the knuckle ball of Luman Harris, were going along at their usual gait when Bob Johnson played Tom Turner's fly poorly in the fourth, leading to three runs.

The game vode laong quietly until the third inning. Then Mike Kreevich walked and raced home on Lou Blair's double to right center.

The Big Inning.

With two down in the fourth, the Sox cut loose for three runs. Joe Kuhel singled, stole second, and Sam West walked. Bob Kennedy singled over second, scoring Kuhel. Then Johnson loafed in going after Turner's fly, the ball grazing his glove and falling for a double, which scored West and Kennedy.

Another break gave the Sox a fourth run in the seventh, when Kennedy's harsh grounder tore the glove off Bill Knickerbocker's hand and he suffered a broken thumb. This happened after Harris had walked West for the third consecutive time, putting Sam in position to score on Turner's double play grounder. Rigney was passed and Moses got his first hit in 17 times at bat, but Luke Appling went out.

Luke Fails Again.

In the ninth Pete Suder tossed out Kennedy, but Turner walked. Rigney sacrificed. Moses then singled to right, scoring Turner. Moses stole second, but Appling flied to Valo.

Rigney had no trouble after the third until the seventh, when with one gone, Suder tripled off the left field wall and remained stationary as Jim Castiglia, the Eagles' full back who scored against the Bears last fall, and Kreevich, fanned. Blair's triple in the next inning was good for a run, however.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1.—The 68th running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs tomorrow is expected to develop the most wide open race since 1935, the year the Belair stud's Omaha outlegged Roman Soldier, Whiskolo, and Nellie Flag to the wire. . . . Ben Jones, trainer of the Calumet Farm's Sun Again, who last year saddled the Derby winner, Whirlaway, says there are at least seven horses in the field of 17 that are able to win. . . . "None of them is worse than a 4 to 1 shot," he said in sizing up the overnight entries. . . . There was some doubt tonight whether Sun Again would go to the post. . . . Railbirds who have been watching his morning workouts fear he will fade in the last eighth mile of the famous mile and a quarter race. . . . Alsab, winter book favorite, has lost all eight starts as a 3 year old after winning 10 straight as a 2 year old, but despite his disappointing showing in 1942 he will be heavily backed tomorrow. . . . He is expected to crowd Requested and the Greentree stable entry of Devil Diver and Shut Out at the mutuel windows. . . . Most of the turf's intelligentsia think Devil Diver and Requested will fight it out down the stretch, but there will be thousands here tomorrow who have heard little or nothing about Devil Diver, who will remember the name Alsab, because of the reputation he established as a 2 year old.

Ben Jones.

Matt Winn.

Matt J. Winn, looking heartier than ever, predicts that attendance at the Derby will exceed that of last year, when 100,000 watched Whirlaway win. . . . He doesn't believe that wartime restrictions on tires and automobiles will make themselves felt this time. . . . Thomas Piatt, breeder of Alsab, is one of the most highly respected characters of the Blue Grass, but he has had rather limited experience in two of this region's more popular diversions. . . . He never has had a drink of Kentucky bourbon whisky and has bet on a horse only once. . . . At the age of 17 he made a $2 wager. . . . The horse won and paid off at $2.20. . . . "You can't make money that way," young Mr. Piatt philosophized. . . . Trainer Jones has this to say about that workout of a mile in 1:38 which Devil Diver delivered at Keeneland: "I saw a horse work a mile in 1:38 getting ready for the Derby last year. That was Whirlaway. Well, Devil Diver did it easier than Whirlaway." . . . Eddie Arcaro, whose expert ride had something to do with Whirlaway's sensational victory last year, will be astride Devil Diver. . . . Railbirds describe Devil Diver as the horse which never has run a bad race. . . . He has started 13 times and has been worse than second only once. . . . That time he was third to his stablemate, Shut Out, and Requested.

Omar Khayyam, the only imported horse which ever won a Kentucky Derby, turned the trick in 1917, the first year the United States was in World War I. . . . There's one imported thorobred in the first Derby of World War II. and even Kentuckians like his looks. . . . His name is Hollywood. . . . It seems unlikely that the boys who tabulate records will have to concern themselves with the mutuel prices in tomorrow's race, as the winner's pay-off is not expected to be unusually long and it certainly isn't going to be sensationally short. . . . The longest Derby price was paid by Donerail in 1913 at 91 to 1. . . . From there the record fell off to 35 to 1 on Gallahadion in 1940 and 29 to 1 on Exterminator in 1918. . . . Three are tied at the shortest price, Hindoo in 1881, Halma in 1895, and Agile in 1905, all at 1 to 3. . . . This isn't the first war Col. Winn has been thru and he is convinced that whatever happens, the American people will continue to go in for sports in general and the Kentucky Derby in particular.

Ah, the Wide Open Spaces.

I can understand how priority order restricting the amount of cloth to be used in women's apparel would follow the lifting of the restrictions imposed by the original girdle order. But, Arch, how can I now reconcile the now contemplated revocation of "girdle order concessions" with no attendant revision of the apparel order?—B. Moreon Oroff.

In jobs to be done—coast to coast.
I sing of the skill and the prowess

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Beloit, Wis., May 1—Roy Cochran of Great Lakes ran 600 yards in near world record time. Five defending champions retained their honors. Cornell college took four relay titles and Beloit won the team championship.

This is a synopsis of the sixth annual Beloit relays held tonight in Strong stadium before a near capacity crowd of 3,500 that included detachments of soldiers from Camp Grant and sailors from the Great Lakes naval training station.

Beloit's First Title.

Beloit had reason to cheer for its college won the team championship for the first time. Moreover, Dick Raddant, who captured the broad jump and anchored both of Beloit's winning relay teams, was voted the outstanding athlete in the games. But the feature was the duel between Cochran and Max Lenover, of Loyola university, in an exhibition 600 yards.

Cochran holds the national AAU title. Lenover, one of the finest of midwest milers, forced him to the limit. Cochran is a natural quarter-miler and only last Saturday established a world record over the 440 yard hurdles. Tonight he sprinted to take the pole down the long straightaway. Lenover challenged on the backstretch, pulled up even, but then dropped back to the rail for the last turn.

Challenge Falls Short.

Once more Lenover challenged, but Cochran's hard sprint carried him to the finish line two strides in the lead.

Five places counted in the scoring and army and navy athletes were excluded in the totals. Beloit won a one sided victory with 54 points to 36½ points for Monmouth college.

Dave Clutterham of Cornell, matched Raddant's activities. He ran on two of Cornell's winning relay combinations and also took the one mile race, defeating Lyn Schendel of North Central by 30 yards in the latter event in 4:24.2. Summaries:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 1.—The Kentucky Derby will be run tomorrow for the 68th time at Churchill Downs.

To the simplicity of that statement there seems almost nothing to add in the way of a column and a half of type. It would be considered proper journalism to state that the names of 17 horses have been filed in the overnight entries. And, departing from proper journalism to grow enthusiastic, it might be added that Alsab, Devil Diver, Requested, Sun Again, Valdina Orphan, Apache, and others will put on one heck of a race. But when one column and a half is written, it still will be only type, while the Kentucky Derby is something that has remained alive with an amazing intensity thru 68 years.

It's Old and Ever New.

This vitality may be traced partially to the fact that the Derby is run in Kentucky in the spring. Thus there is a freshness about it that no other sporting event possesses. This freshness has survived on the one hand, despite the most callous commercialism of some Louisville business men and, on the other hand, despite a certain cloying and sentimental tradition.

One fact stands out. As the horses come prancing out from the paddock tomorrow with the afternoon sunshine glinting on the red and gold and blue and white jackets of the jockeys while the music of "My Old Kentucky Home" floats off across the picturesque infield, there won't be a person on the grounds who'll think it's just another race. It's Kentucky, and it's spring again, and the most cynical observer is a sucker for it.

Winner Has to Be Good.

This race packs more suspense than any other event on the American turf. For the first time in their careers, 3 year olds will be carrying 126 pounds over a mile and a quarter. It's a rough, tough test. Only a good colt will be in there running in that last long drive thru the stretch. Many of the horses which go tomorrow already have shown that they're good sprinters with 116 pounds up at three-quarters, but who knows that they'll do in that final furlong with the jockeys riding like wild men and the throng yelling for them to come on?

Seldom has a Derby drawn so many horses of potentially high class and still has been so wide open. Alsab, owned by Mrs. Al Sabath of Chicago, went into the winter season with the prospect of being one of the shortest priced favorites in the history of this event. As he comes up to the Derby, 90 per cent of the professional track men have dropped him from their original No. 1 rating. And yet, even while they quote him as third choice at about 5 to 1, they say that they won't be a bit surprised if he goes to the post as favorite tomorrow.

They Haven't Lost Faith.

This paradoxical situation prevails because many of Alsab's old friends believe that the bay colt still is a great little guy. When he was only theoretically a 3 year old [because

PARK COURSES TO BE CLASSROOMS FOR GOLF SCHOOL

Chicago District Works with Tribune.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

For the seventh consecutive year the courses of the Chicago Park district will form the classrooms for the 10th annual free TRIBUNE golf school opening Tuesday night on these four well-established and easily reached locations. The success of the school in great part has been due to the use of these park district courses.

When the school was first founded in 1933, it relied for instructional centers on the 27 member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, members of which were among the school's originators. Even in those early classes THE TRIBUNE school made itself the largest system of group teaching in the history of the game. But it was felt that thousands of potential students were unable to attend the classes because of lack of adequate transportation.

Park Courses Coöperate.

Realizing that the conduct of the lessons within the metropolitan area proper would make it possible for many more novices to take advantage of the lessons, THE TRIBUNE suggested the use of the park district courses, and the commissioners of the park district and the operators of the daily fee association agreed.

All four courses are easily accessible by surface lines, motor coaches, and rapid transit. The Jackson Park layout, oldest in the park system and the cradle of many of the city's best golfers, is at 63d street and Stony Island avenue; the Marquette course is located at Marquette road and Kedzie avenue; the Columbus course, at Jackson boulevard and Central avenue, and the space now in use at Diversey in Lincoln Park on Lake Michigan at the foot of Diversey boulevard.

Recently, the park board granted the use of its courses for the seventh successive year. Headed by President Robert J. Dunham, with George T. Donoghue as superintendent, the commission includes Philip S. Graver, James C. Petrillo, Stephen I. Witmanski and Louis E. Golan.

It's All Free.

The school is free and open to every man, woman and child interested in learning the fundamentals of the game from an expert faculty that is composed of members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

Four regular classes, each beginning at 7 p. m., promptly, will be held, the first one Tuesday, the second next Thursday, the third on Tuesday, May 12, and the fourth and last of the regular series on Thursday, May 14. The graduating exercises for those 32 novices chosen best at the four courses, will be held on Sunday afternoon, May 17.

The only requirements for matriculation in the school are one golf club, a willingness to learn the game, and your prompt presence at the course most convenient to your home.

17 NAMED FOR 68TH KENTUCKY DERBY TODAY

Greentree Pair Is 5-2 in Over-Night Odds.

all horses have their official birthday on Jan. 1] he ran a mile and a quarter against seasoned handicap stars and finished in front of Challedon, Mioland, and other mighty racers. As a juvenile in the Champagne stakes at Belmont, he went the fastest mile ever run by a 2 year old in the history of the American turf—faster than Man O' War.

Those are statistical matters—and they don't make Derby favorites. The things that make Derby favorites are recollections of how Alsab ran at his best—at Arlington, at Washington Park, at Belmont. How he was always in trouble yet always would get thru, never making any excuses, never asking for any breaks. Many of the experts think he's a different horse, now that he has lost his zip, but a lot of those who watched him in his great days last season still believe that he will win on class and heart somewhere between the sixteenth pole and the finish line, possibly in the last 20 yards.

Horsemen Like Devil Diver.

The horsemen in the Kentucky blue grass region nearly all go for Devil Diver, with Eddie Arcaro aboard. Quite a few others, however, are convinced that Requested is the horse to beat and Valdina Orphan's performance in winning the Derby trial earned him a lot of friends. That's the thing about this Derby, if ever a horse race was a matter of opinion, this is it.

Devil Diver's injury which he sustained in his stall at Keeneland several weeks ago has interfered with his training program, but thru the clever handling of John Gaver it has been possible to keep the colt up to his workouts. The fact that he hasn't had much racing [only one start this year] has made it necessary, however, to push him a little harder in his morning drills than might otherwise be advisable.

Eddie's Quite a Lad.

It is generally agreed, however, that if any one can bring Devil Diver home it's Arcaro, who will be seeking to tie the record of Isaac Murphy and Earl Sande in riding three winners. Arcaro won with Lawrin in 1938 and with Whirlaway last year.

With $75,000 in added money, the race will gross $87,250 if all 17 go to the post. Of this $65,225 will be net to the winner.

The advance crowd in Louisville has been definitely smaller and less uproarious than on preceding occasions. Last year the attendance hit 100,000 for al all time record. Matt J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs, believes that, despite war conditions, the people still will come to the Derby. So he's all set for another big day tomorrow.

Young Mr. Marshall Giants' Bid for Rookie of the Year

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

For rookie of the year, an event in which the competition may be keen judging by developments thus far, Mel Ott's Giants have their own hand picked candidate. It's Willard Marshall, who at 21 sneaked into the big tent without brass band or press agentry accompaniment. In a sense he was an added starter, just one of those boys who could be turned back for the price of a railroad ticket if he didn't impress. But he came in with the poise of an old campaigner so the Giants just paid off quickly and no questions asked.

A year ago last winter Bill Terry, then the Giants' manager, developed interest in the lad as the result of what he had done in his first season with the Atlanta club. Inquiry brought Terry the information that Marshall could be had for $50,000 and two ball players. The kid had hardly been tested, so Terry balked. Last season his work fell off and Terry congratulated himself on judgment.

Willard Marshall was virtually unheralded when the New York Giants brought him up from Atlanta this season. Now he's their candidate for rookie of the year. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The Kid Haunts Bill.

Terry, however, wasn't thoroly cooled off on the lad's prospects. Last season he asked the Atlanta club if it would consider $30,000 and one player a fair price. The reply to Bill was a flat "No." Still he couldn't get the athlete out of his mind. He hemmed and hawed privately about the best course to take. But he couldn't resist. He asked that Marshall be sent to the Giants' spring camp on a "look-see" arrangement. Well, Marshall moved himself into the graces of the Giants' bosses so quickly that they paid off. It is said that $25,000 was the price.

How He Smacks 'Em.

Marshall was a sophomore at Wake Forest college when Nap Rucker, the one time Brooklyn southpaw, happened along in the guise of a scout. What he saw was the answer to a scout's dream. He would recommend him to Atlanta and he did. It was from there that Marshall began his rapid rise. In his first three weeks at Atlanta [May, 1940] he notched 12 home runs. Later in the season minors he had 21 putouts in two successive games.

He finished his pro freshman season with 118 runs driven in, which was good enough for a half share of the crown. Last May in a game against Birmingham he hit two homers, a double and a single to drive in eight runs. That tied the Southern association record. One day they had him play third base and just to prove it didn't make any difference he ripped off two homers for four runs.

As soon as Marshall had shown enough to warrant his purchase by the Giants the latter shipped Johnny Rucker, considered another promising young man, to their Jersey City farm. That wasn't so good for the Rucker family. It was Old Nap who originally had recommended Johnny, his nephew, and his recommendation on Marshall sent Johnny back to the minors.

Cheer Up, Sox! The Fire Looks Low Under Yankees' Boiler!

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 1—Manager Jimmy Dykes didn't exactly ask us to come here to scout the Yankees for his White Sox, but here we are, and with a volume of encouragement to Jim and his victorious protéges, who will open a four game series in Yankee stadium with a double header Sunday.

After watching the Detroit Tigers shove the Yanks back into third place this afternoon by whanging them, 7 to 2, we're sending word to Dykes in Upper Darby, Pa., that the Sox, now that they have shaken off their losing streak, can take the defending champions four straight, if they enter the series with enough overpowering optimism and later add an adequate number of base hits.

Dizzy Trout Does It.

We base our report to Mr. D. on the way the Yanks looked today, against the Tigers, a team, you remember, they have defeated twice this season, for two-thirds of their success accumulation prior to today.

Moreover, Dizzy Trout, whom Johnny Rigney and the Sox beat in Chicago, 3 to 1, on April 20, is the gent who beat the Yanks today. Diz held the New Yorkers to three hits in eight innings—only half the number the Sox made in eight. Trout was replaced in the ninth in both games by Hal Newhouser, so we won't mention the fact that the Yanks made their fourth hit and second run off him before he got anybody out in the ninth.

Yanks May Be Overconfident.

It is possible to hear a lot of snappy cracks around Yankee stadium about the Sox and their last place status. This may mean overconfidence among the New Yorkers, who have just lost three out of four in competition with the Browns and Tigers. It is not expected that this contempt for the Sox has extended to Manager Joe McCarthy, who plans to send his regular starters against the Chicagoans—probable pitchers for the impending Chicago-New York engagement being Red Ruffing, Spud Chandler, Ernie Bonham, and Atley Donald.

Joe Gordon was not in the Yankee lineup today—probably will be against the Sox. A pulled side muscle brought his temporary withdrawal after 471 consecutive games with the Yankees. Unfortunately for the Sox, perhaps, Gordon was feeling pretty good today. Frankie Crosetti will be playing third base, and shouldn't be too tough for Sox pitchers. Phil Rizzuto hasn't been hitting too well, and Buddy Hassett only recently busted in at first base. Joe DiMaggio has not been as good as usual ,and Charley Keller was completely tamed today.

Must Watch Mr. Dickey.

The one guy the Sox must look out for is Bill Dickey. Bill's gone crazy with his bat. But then maybe his brother George, of the Sox, can steal his bottle of vitamin pills before the series starts.

In closing we ask that none of our readers writes about the fact the Sox won the first day we left them. We wish to remind one and all the Sox last season won 17 out of 21 shortly after we rejoined them in midsummer.

UTILITY ISSUES LEAD WAY FOR RISE IN STOCKS

Buying Is Result of Tax Recommendation.

New York, May 1 (AP).—Utilities and an assortment of blue chips today led the stock market on another selective upturn.

Senior issues advanced as much as 3 points or so on small tûrnovers after an irregular opening in which fractional minus signs predominated. High marks were reduced in many instances at the close and many industrials and rails ended a shade under water.

The long-lagging utilities, as well as some other lines, seemingly were bought on tax recommendations voted by the house ways and means committee which were interpreted as beneficial to companies with heavy invested capital structures. The power and light corporations generally are in this class.

A. T. & T. Rises Again.

Preferreds in demand included issues of West Penn Electric, American Power & Light, Engineers Public Service, United corporation, and Public Service of New Jersey.

American Telephone common finished up 1⅞ after posting a loss at the opening.

Meantime figures were issued showing that the volume of business on the New York Stock exchange in April not only slumped to the smallest for any month since July, 1940, but that sales of 7,589,297 shares were the dullest for any April since 1918.

RAGGED RISE IN CHICAGO.

Prices continued to advance unevenly on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Of 75 issues involved in transactions of 15,000 shares, 31 advanced, 20 declined, and 24 closed unchanged. Of the more active stocks, Commonwealth Edison advanced ¾, and Swift & Co. ⅝, while Chicago corporation, Hupp Motor Car and General Motors were unchanged. Pennsylvania railroad and United States Steel declined ⅛ in the half hour following the close in New York.

The volume of trading on the Chicago Stock exchange for the month of April was 364,000 shares, compared with 410,000 in March. The total for the first four months of 1942 was 1,651,000, compared with 1,831,000 for the corresponding period of last year.

STANDARD (N.J.) ORDERS 50 CENT EXTRA DIVIDEND

Directors of Standard Oil company of New Jersey yesterday declared an extra dividend of 50 cents in addition to the regular semiannual dividend of the same amount on common stock. A similar extra payment was made June 16, 1941.

American Chicle company announced an extra 50 cent dividend plus the regular quarterly payment of $1 on common. An extra dividend of $1 was paid a year ago.

Chrysler corporation authorized a dividend of $1 on the common stock. The same amount was paid March 14 of this year. Before that time the corporation paid $1.50.

EXCESS PROFITS TAX OF 94 PCT. O. K.'D IN HOUSE

Committee Draws Up Its Own Rates.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 1.—A tax of 94 per cent upon the excess profits of American corporations was voted today by the house ways and means committee. The flat rate applies to all industries, regardless of size and whether or not they are engaged in war production.

"Excess profits" are designated as those gains exceeding 95 per cent of average earnings during 1936-'39 or exceeding 8 per cent on the first $5,000,000 of invested capital and 7 per cent on capital above $5,000,000.

Admit Hardship on Many.

Permitting a business to retain only 6 per cent of its excess profits may work hardships, particularly on small corporations, members conceded, but the flat 94 per cent won majority approval as a substitute for the present scale of rates which ranges from 35 to 60 per cent on excess profits, depending on their size.

The treasury had proposed a scale ranging from 50 to 75 per cent. The committee's tax experts recommended a scale ranging from 60 to 85 per cent. Both these suggestions were turned down. President Roosevelt's proposal for a 100 per cent tax, voiced in his message last Monday, was never given serious consideration, it was stated.

Fix Normal Earning Rates.

The committee voted to retain the present maximum normal tax of 24 per cent upon corporation income in excess of $25,000. It also decided to fix the war surtax on corporation earnings at 16 per cent as proposed by its own staff instead of the 31 per cent suggested by the treasury.

The committee has still to act on a treasury proposal for a system of postwar credits for corporations such as the British provide. If this provision is approved, corporations will be given a credit of as much as 20 per cent on excess profits taxes. This will be given to them when the war is over to help finance the reorganization which will be inevitable with the switch-over from war to peace production.

Whether the treasury will be in a position to rebate such amounts after spending scores of billions on the war is a matter which committee members said they could only leave for the future to decide.

Yield Lower than Morgenthau's.

The yield of the new corporation taxes is expected to be somewhat lower than the 3 billions requested by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

The committee is expected to take up next week the section of the tax bill dealing with individual income taxes. There is considerable sentiment for softening some of the burdensome new levies on incomes in the middle brackets which already bear the brunt of the income tax rates.

If the rates are lowered the yield will fall considerably below the 9 billion 700 million goal set by Morgenthau [including 2 billions in social security taxes which will be used in the war effort]. Some form of general sales tax will probably be adopted to make up this deficit.

Gas Rationing for Midwest Is Uncertain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 1.—Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum coördinator, tonight said that it cannot be decided now if or when gasoline rationing will be extended to the midwest. He said that transportation facilities are being reorganized in the midwest to try to cope with the shortage on the Atlantic seaboard caused by tanker sinkings and transfer of others to war services.

Petroleum transportation facilities in the midwest will be reduced as well as reorganized, but uncalculated is whether the reduction in supplies of gasoline in this area will be compensated by a reduction in consumption due to tire conservation.

Ask Relaxation of Laws.

Harold L. Ickes, petroleum coördinator, and Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, have joined in an appeal to cities and states to relax vehicle regulations so trucks can replace tank cars as much as possible. Tank cars in midwest service are to be transferred to the eastern seaboard haul.

"In the Chicago metropolitan area," said one of the petroleum coördinator's advisers, "tank cars have been used in hauling gasoline from refineries in Whiting, Ind., to industries on the west side. A tank car, in the ordinary business, took six days for this round trip, including delays in loading and unloading.

"A tank truck and tank trailer can make this same round trip in five hours. The long truck and trailer, carrying 7,600 gallons, can release five or six tank cars each of 8,000 gallon capacity."

Position of Pipe Lines.

"Doesn't most of petroleum supply for Chicagoland arrive by pipe lines that can't be moved to aid the seaboard?" a reporter asked.

"It's difficult to move them," was the answer, "but it might not be difficult to reverse the flow, sending gasoline toward the east in pipes that are now bring oil to Chicagoland refineries. I'm not saying this will be done, but it's a possibility being studied that is a factor in answering your question of whether gasoline rationing is going to be necessary in the midwest."

Present Illinois laws, with a legal maximum of 40 feet for a truck and trailer combination, forbid operation of the big highway haulers of gasoline, usually 45 or even 65 feet long. Eastman said he was confident that cities and states would respond to the federal government's appeal to relax restrictions.

WAR SUPPLY DEPOT TO BE BUILT SOUTH OF SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 1.—Immediate construction of a war supply depot eight miles south of Springfield, Ill., in the vicinity of Toronto station, was announced today by Rep. Evan Howell [R., Ill.]. The war department has acquired 472 acres adjacent to the Illinois Central railroad and to U. S. highway 66.

A million square feet of warehouses and sheds are to be built. Twenty-two miles of railroad tracks are to be laid within the depot, Howell said.

Will Be Shipping Center.

Springfield, Ill., May 1 [Special].—The war supply depot to be built south of here, as announced today in Washington, will be a shipping center for several midwest ordnance works. Military personnel from the quartermaster corps, the medical corps, and the chemical warfare division of the army will staff the depot.

The depot is the fourth war project in Sangamon county, including the two ordnance plants at Illiopolis and an air force supply depot at the state fairgrounds at this city.

Canada's Mills Face Shrinking Paper Demand

Because of a shrinking market in the United States, Canadian newsprint manufacturers face the prospect of curtailing output of their mills, now operating at only 70 per cent of capacity, a trade survey disclosed yesterday.

Canadian mills are producing newsprint at an annual rate of approximately 3,500,000 tons a year, against a rated capacity of 5 million tons and an actual output last year of 3,425,865 tons. About 70 per cent of America's newsprint is supplied by Canada.

Quarter's Consumption Falls.

American publishers received 751,435 tons of newsprint from Canadian mills in the first three months this year compared with 590,484 tons in the corresponding months of 1941. At the same time American consumption of newsprint dropped to 699,114 tons in the first quarter from 707,679 tons in the corresponding period of 1941.

Stocks in the hands of American publishers are the largest since 1938. At the end of March American stocks were estimated at 629,778 tons against 402,663 a year earlier and 366,566 tons two years ago.

The shrinkage in consumption has resulted from a reduction in the size of newspapers. The American Newspapers Publishers association reports that 100 Sunday newspapers showed an average decline of 6 pages in March compared with a year earlier. The same number of papers showed an average decline of 2 pages in their daily editions.

ODT's Order Would Cut Use.

A further curtailment in consumption would result from enforcement of the order limiting newspapers to one delivery a day to any one point. The order, issued last Tuesday by the Office of Defense Transportation, is scheduled to go into effect May 15. At present newspapers deliver each edition to sales points, or redistribution points, deliveries running as high as 25 a day.

At the rate consumption has been shrinking, it is estimated that operations of Canadian mills for the full year would average around 60 per cent of capacity. Operations, however, would be curtailed further by the limiting of newspaper deliveries.

Lease Chicago Space for Use of Ship Board

BY AL CHASE.

The entire second floor of the 310 South Michigan building [formerly the Straus building], containing 23,000 square feet, has been leased by the United States government for use by the maritime commission, it was learned yesterday. Final steps in the negotiations will be completed in Washington shortly. Possession will be taken in about six weeks, it was said.

Last March the maritime commission announced the creation of four regional offices at Chicago, Philadelphia, New Orleans, and San Francisco to facilitate its vast merchant shipbuilding program.

A temporary regional construction office was at once opened in the Midland building, Chicago, in charge of W. E. Spofford, regional construction director, with 35 employés. When the new Michigan avenue quarters are ready for occupancy about 75 more employés will be moved there from Washington. It was said the Chicago regional office eventually will have a maximum of 400 persons.

The main purpose of the decentralization of the maritime commission's activities is speed. Instead of having all plans for ships and engines checked in Washington they will be checked in the field at the nearest regional construction office. As shipbuilding expands the regional headquarters will be enlarged.

The Chicago office handles the territory adjoining the Great Lakes and along the Ohio river to the Mississippi. New Orleans handles the gulf territory, San Francisco the Pacific coast activities, and Philadelphia the entire Atlantic seaboard.

The administration and purchasing departments will remain in Washington, as will the five commissioners. The actual execution of maritime work, however, will be done in the four regional offices.

UNITED BATTLE ON INFLATION THREAT URGED

Danger of Its Growth Told by Economist.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Evidence is at hand that a period of inflation is beginning and all Americans should unite to combat it. On the nation's ability to win the "battle of inflation" depend in large measure the preservation of the system of government and retention of the objectives for which the country is fighting.

This warning was given yesterday by Prof. William H. Kiekhofer of the University of Wisconsin before the Executives club in the Hotel Sherman. He is a professor of economics at the university and a nationally known authority on the nation's monetary system.

"It will take courage, intelligence, and united action to control inflation," he said. "We must control it at whatever cost for one of the worst things that can happen to a nation is to have it plunge into inflation."

Inflation Is Explained.

Inflation is sometimes confused with purchasing power, he said. Any sharp rises in prices is commonly said to constitute inflation, but this is not necessarily true.

Inflation exists when there is a larger increase in "means of payment"—such as currency—than there is in the supply of goods to be purchased, he explained.

"Inflation is of two principal types," he continued. "One is crude and the other is subtle. The first is the inflation of currency, the second is the inflation of bank credit. Currency inflation is the last desperate resort of governments that have exhausted other means of purchasing power.

"The refined way of bringing about real inflation is thru borrowing from banks directly. When the government exchanges its obligations for credit at the banks, no means of payment are created. That is the sort of inflation we are now getting. It is a matter of holding such borrowing down to an irreducible minimum if we are to escape run-away inflation."

Explains Borrowing Situation.

When the government borrows from the banks, he explained, it gives them evidences of debt, such as treasury notes. The banks establish credits for the government which the latter draws upon for payment of goods and services. The funds paid out return to the banks later, forming balances against which others can draw to make payments for goods of their own. Unless such borrowings are kept to a minimum there need be no limit to government borrowing and consequent increase in bank deposits.

The most effective ways to check inflation, he said, are heavy taxation and direct lending by individuals and organizations to the government thru the purchase of government obligations, such as war bonds and savings stamps.

Taxes hurt, he said, but they withdraw money from competition for the purchase of goods and thereby act as a brake on inflation. The same thing goes for the purchase of government securities provided they are not cashed immediately.

Million Farmers in 40 States Vote Today on Wheat Control

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP).—Upward of a million farmers in 40 wheat growing states will decided in a referendum tomorrow whether to continue the agriculture department's authority to tell them how much wheat they may produce and sell.

The crop control referendum will be the first held on a food product since the United States became involved in a war which has greatly increased the demand for agricultural products to supply the needs of this country and its allies.

The voting will take place at a time when there is divided opinion among farmers and members of congress on whether all restrictions upon farm production should be lifted.

Two-thirds Vote Decides.

The specific question to be voted on is whether the department's rigid marketing quotas, imposed on wheat for the first time last year, should be applied to the 1942 bread-grain crop. Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting is required for their continuance.

Quotas are designed to prevent the sale or use of wheat in excess of each farmer's allotted share of the market. Sales in excess of quota would be subject to a penalty of 57 cents a bushel. Last year the penalty was 49 cents.

The department asked for authority to continue the control system because it expects the prospective supply of wheat to be equal to two years' needs and larger than storage and transportation facilities can handle.

Announcement of the government loan rate on the 1942 wheat crop sent wheat futures climbing yesterday on the Board of Trade. Story on page 26.

Officials expect many farmers to be influenced to vote for quotas by a tentative government price supporting wheat loan program, provisions of which were announced today.

Average Loan Rate $1.14.

Loans averaging $1.14 a bushel on farm stored wheat will be offered if quotas are approved. The crop control act requires that loans be withheld in event that quotas are rejected.

Officials say the 1941 wheat loan program—providing an average rate of 98 cents on farm stored wheat—has been holding American wheat prices about 50 cents a bushel above world levels.

The tentative 1942 loan rate, while 16 cents above last year's rate, was the lowest permitted by law. The crop act directs that the rate be not less than 85 per cent of parity. Reflecting advances in the general price level, the parity price of wheat has increased from $1.15 to $1.335 in the last 12 months.

War Demands Are Problems for Advertising

The increasing demands on the nation's transportation and communication systems as a result of the war and the diversion of these facilities from civilian use are among the most important problems facing the advertising and marketing industries, L. Edward Scriven, deputy director of the War Production board's division of industry operations, said yesterday.

L. A. McQueen warns rubber supply must be conserved.

He spoke at a luncheon in the Morrison hotel before advertising men and salesmen attending a two day conference and clinic organized by the Chicago Federated Advertising club.

Civilian Deliveries Reduced.

Scriven, who was formerly connected with Chicago advertising agencies, said that Great Britain had experienced the interruption of normal marketing thru the dislocation of transportation and communication by war demands. He said that in the United States deliveries of civilian goods have been slowed down and long distance telephone service, particularly to Washington, D. C., is often delayed.

The WPB official asserted that those agencies handling the advertising accounts for durable consumer goods companies "have more cause for worry" than those with food and drug industry accounts.

L. A. McQueen, vice president in charge of sales of the General Tire and Rubber company, Akron, O., speaking earlier at the opening session of the conference in the Hotel Sherman, warned that the supply of crude rubber in the United States will be exhausted within a year unless rigid conservation is practiced. He said that with conservation, the crude supply and existing tires can be made to last 15 months.

Rubber Is Vital Problem.

McQueen said the United States does not have enough rubber to take care of both war needs and civilian requirements, and that next to the actual fighting of the war, the rubber shortage was the nation's most vital problem. The war could not be prosecuted if civilian automobiles and trucks were taken off the road, he asserted, because 75 per cent of war workers depend upon private automobile transportation and 30 per cent of all war materials are carried by civilian trucks.

The conference closes today. C. L. Christenslan, chief price executive of the Office of Price administration, will speak at the morning session and D. Graham Hutton, director of the British Press service, will address the luncheon meeting. Both meetings will be in the Hotel Sherman.

ALL 3 TRANSPORT SYSTEMS REPORT PASSENGER GAINS

Substantial traffic increases were reported yesterday by Chicago's three local transportation systems for April and the first four months of 1942.

The Chicago Surface Lines carried 63,391,850 revenue passengers last month, a gain of 5.9 per cent over April, 1941. For the four months the total was 253,484,096 passengers, up 7.7 per cent

Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated] reported 13,713,516 revenue passengers in April, an increase of 6.7 per cent over last year, and 55,260,467 in the four months, up 7.2 per cent.

Chicago Motor Coach company's passengers last month totaled 6,038,732, a gain of 14.1 per cent compared with the 1941 month, while in the four months the total was 23,092,434, or an increase of 12.7 per cent.

NELSON IS READY TO SPEED WPB'S CAPITAL EXODUS

Chicago Office May Get Details Today.

Decentralization of the operations of the manifold war production agencies now concentrated in Washington, D. C., will begin in earnest shortly, War Production board officials disclosed last night.

The spreading out of the multitude of paper work, routine administrative chores and personnel from congested Washington into 13 regional offices and field branches in 120 cities will be directed in an order by Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman.

Joseph L. Overlock, newly named WPB regional director under the decentralized program, is expected to return from Washington today with the details of Nelson's order, which authorizes the various WPB field agencies to assume new and vigorous powers.

Expect New Job for Eitel.

Also expected today is the announcement by Overlock of the elevation of Edmund H. Eitel, assistant district manager of the priorities field service, to the district managership, replacing Malcolm R. Macdonald, who resigned recently.

The new decentralized WPB organization was developed by James S. Knowlson, a Chicagoan and director of the division of industry operations, including L. Edward Scriven, deputy director in charge of field operations.

As described by Knowlson, the plan is "to place as much authority as possible for WPB operations in these new regional offices." He declared that the scope of the field branches will be expanded and will lead to "more effective coördination of the service" to business and the public.

Policies and programs will continue to be formulated in Washington, but progressively more of the WPB activities will be directed in the regions, he indicated.

Paper Work Causes Jam.

Decentralization was a policy compelled by the jam of paper work in the central WPB offices in Washington. It was reported that the slow movement of the tons of mail entering and leaving the capital created a bottleneck which delayed WPB operations.

Overlock and James S. Stanley, who developed a formula for codifying machinery and machine operations, will speak Tuesday night in the Hotel La Salle at a special meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers association.

They will discuss the progress of the trial in the Chicago area of the so-called Stanley plan for expediting the farming out of war jobs to smaller plants. The plan provides for the weekly publication of a directory of subcontract opportunities.

The third coded directory issued under the trial plan will be distributed Monday to 1,200 small manufacturers and contains 275 offerings from 22 prime contractors.

PLACES POSTWAR HOME BUILDING AT 10 TO 15 BILLION

Residential units costing a total of 10 to 15 billion dollars will have to be built after the war to meet the housing demand that will develop when the population begins shifting away from arms plant centers, Bror Dahlberg, chairman of Certain-teed Products corporation, predicted last night.

Dahlberg discussed postwar housing at an informal regional meeting of stockholders of Certain-teed Products, building supplies producer which recently moved its general offices to Chicago from New York. About 40 stockholders attended. The meeting, held at the La Salle hotel, was the third of nine scheduled for various parts of the country.

Dahlberg said the United States probably would have to provide most of the materials that will be needed to rehabilitate Europe.

STEEL INDUSTRY JOBS MOUNT TO 653,000 IN MARCH

New York, May 1 (AP).—A total of 653,000 workers was employed by American steel mills in March against 651,000 in February and 673,000 in March, 1941, the American Iron and Steel institute reported today. Pay rolls in the industry totaled $116,998,000, against $98,025,000 in March last year.

Wage earners average $1.001 an hour—the first time on record average hourly earnings have exceeded $1—compared with an average of 87.7 cents a year ago.

The industry netted 6.2 cents on each sales dollar during 1941 on the biggest volume on record, the institute said. In 1940, the net was 8.1 cents on the dollar.

AUTO INSURANCE TO COVER SOME WAR USE CASES

The National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, the American Mutual Alliance and the Mutual Casualty Insurance Rating Bureau announced yesterday that member companies would construe all policies now in force or written after April 30 as covering certain emergency uses of automobiles without additional premiums or indorsement of policies. The groups represent most of the major casualty insurance companies in the country.

The agreement covers the use of automobiles in behalf of civil or military authority in the line of war or defense activities, or in behalf of the American Red Cross, Office for Emergency Management or any similar organization in the line of war duty. The agreement is effective with respect to accidents occurring after April 30 and will continue for the duration of the war.

BUILDING PERMIT VOLUME IN APRIL FALLS IN CHICAGO

Building permits of all classes in Chicago fell off sharply in both number and cost during April as compared with the same month last year and as compared with March, 1942, Building Commissioner Richard Schmidt reported yesterday. There were 294 permits issued for buildings costing $2,572,694 last month, compared with 458 in April of last year for properties valued at $4,312,133. In March of this year the number was 668, with a total building value of $7,718,466.

Home building last month led all classifications, with 226 permits, valued at $1,090,080. Of these 210 were for units in the defense home cost bracket, with a total value of $938,130. In April of last year there were 359 permits for all types of homes, costing $1,961,813. In March of this year there were 476 home permits, with a total value of $2,837,316.

CLASS 1 RAILS' QUARTER NET UP TO 98 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP). — Class 1 railroads of the United States had estimated net income, after interest and rentals, of $98,075,000 in the first three months this year, compared with $69,034,952 in the same period of 1941, the Association of American Railroads reported today. Estimated net income for March was $48,230,000 compared with $35,257,352 in March, 1941. Class 1 railroads paid $183,933,368 in taxes in the first quarter this year, compared with $112,455,618 in the same period of 1941.

M. W. Brueshaber Retires as Press Company Head

Martin W. Brueshaber, president of the Goss Printing Press company, has retired from active duty after more than 45 years with the firm. He started as a machinist's apprentice. He has been president for 10 years. R. C. Corlett, vice president, will handle the executive duties until the next meeting of the directors, when a new president will be chosen.

WARD CONFORMS TO NEW FEDERAL PRICE CEILINGS

Montgomery Ward & Co. announced yesterday that prices on all merchandise in its retail and mail order departments will conform Monday with the new federal ceilings, two weeks ahead of the effective date. The announcement will be carried in quarter page advertisments in Monday editions of more than 600 daily newspapers.

Prices in the new summer catalog to be mailed next week and in the large fall catalog to go out in July have been changed to comply with the order, the company said.

GEORGE A. FULLER AWARDED ENGINE PLANT CONTRACT

The George A. Fuller company has been awarded the contract for the big aviation engine plant which the Chrysler corporation will operate in Chicago, it was learned yesterday. The new plant is expected to be the largest aviation engine plant in the world.

Meantime the Defense Plant corporation has taken title to the 280 acre site of the plant, according to a deed filed yesterday with the county recorder. The seller was the Chicago and Indiana railroad. Revenue stamps indicated that the price the government paid was $449,000, or approximately $1,603 an acre.

The DPC recently took title to 67 acres adjacent to the holding just acquired and it is reported the agency may buy additional land which will bring the plant site to 500 acres. Military censorship prevents disclosure of the location of the site.

Reduced Electric Rates Ordered in Calumet Area

Indianapolis, Ind., May 1 [Special].—Reduced electric rates in the Calumet section were ordered today by the Indiana Public Service commission. They involve the Northern Indiana Public Service company and affect Gary, Whiting, East Chicago, and Hammond. The commission approved an agreement with the Gary city council, in accordance with which the company filed rates with the commission estimated to save consumers there $104,000 yearly. After studying the agreement, the commission decided also to order the same rates in effect in the other metropolitan areas in Lake county.

G. M. Halts Parts Making Until WPB Clarifies Rule

Detroit, Mich., May 1 (AP).—C. E. Wilson, General Motors president, tonight announced the corporation would suspend the manufacture of automotive service parts of all kinds indefinitely until a punitive order by the War Production board "can be properly clarified." Wilson's statement was the first for the corporation since the WPB last night ordered the company to stop making auto parts for 90 days because of alleged violations of an order to conserve critical materials.

ASKS PAY LIMIT, SALES TAXES TO AVOID INFLATION

Atlanta, Ga., May 1 (AP).—Limitation of wages and adoption of a general federal sales tax are vital to prevention of inflation, the American Cotton Manufacturers' association was told today by William P. Witherow, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"Inflation control must control prices and control the pressure of increased purchasing power which forces prices up," he said. "We must be careful not to try the expedient of sitting on a safety valve to keep the boiler from exploding.

"There are two steps to any solution. One would prevent adding more fuel to the purchasing power fire by discouraging increased incomes, and, because the bulk of the purchasing power increase has been in the low brackets, this means we cannot avoid some form of wage freezing. We must at the same time relieve pressure in the boiler by siphoning off thru taxation the excess purchasing power already accumulated in the lower brackets. This must mean some form of a general sales tax or a lowering of income tax exemptions."

PRODUCE INSULATION TO REPLACE CORK IN COLD STORAGE UNITS

Announcement of a product of American ingenuity — insulation to replace cork no longer available because of the war—was made yesterday by the Celotex corporation, Chicago. The new product is made of domestically produced raw materials of which the supply exceeds all requirements, the company said.

It is a new kind of cold storage insulation and is made from the fibers remaining after the juices have been squeezed from cane sugar stalks grown in Louisiana.

"Its ability to keep out heat is equal to corkboard's," the company said. "It is cheaper and stronger. It is particularly valuable for emergency wartime construction, such as in cold storage plants for training camps which must be built quickly with available labor."

Automatic Transportation Will Get Navy's 'E' Award

The navy "E" award for outstanding performance in arms production will be presented at 3 p. m. today to Automatic Transportation company, 101 West 87th street, in a ceremony at the plant. Among speakers will be Lieut. Gov. Hugh Cross. The company is a division of the Yale and Towne Manufacturing company.

Construction will be under supervision of the army engineers' office at Chicago. Details, including the location of the plant, were withheld.

Wage Dispute Halts Work in Michigan City Factory

Work stopped on orders totaling 100,000 pairs of soldiers' trousers at the Hoosier Factories, Inc., plant in Michigan City, Ind., yesterday while approximately 650 employés and the management sought agreement on a new wage contract. Neither the workmen nor the management termed the shutdown a strike. There was no picketing.

CHRYSLER'S NET PROFITS DIP IN FIRST QUARTER

Steel Maker Earns Less as Taxes Rise.

Earnings of the Chrysler corporation in the March quarter were only about half as large as in the corresponding period last year because the company was engaged in large scale conversion of automotive production facilities to armament work, the corporation announced yesterday. Varied results were shown by a number of other large corporations, including several with important phases of their operations in the Chicago area.

Chrysler's net profit for the quarter was $4,899,233, equal to $1.13 a capital share, compared with $9,561,982, or $2.20 a share, a year earlier.

Steel Maker Earns Less.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, Youngstown, O., announced its March quarter profit was 2 million dollars smaller than a year before because three times as much was provided for federal taxes.

The company, which has two plants in the Chicago area, earned $2,576,579, equal to $1.41 a share, compared with $4,576,197, or $2.61 a share, in the first quarter of 1941. Provision for federal taxes aggregated $7,700,000, against $2,305,200 in the earlier period.

The company said its gross business increased and that profits from operations were $13,347,076, against $9,613,300 in the first quarter last year.

Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, Milwaukee, which has several plants in the Chicago area, announced its first quarter net profit was $1,201,096, equal to 67 cents a share, compared with $596,469, or 33 cents a share, a year earlier.

Affected by Long Strike.

The company's first quarter results last year were affected by a long strike at its West Allis, Wis., works. Provision for federal taxes in the March quarter this year was $4,504,000, against $345,000 a year ago. Billings were $37,710,622, against $20,273,380 in the first quarter of 1941, and unfilled orders March 31 amounted to $126,525,057, against $72,372,294 on March 31, 1941.

American Hair and Felt company, Chicago, reported March quarter net earnings of $210,570, equal to 93 cents a share, compared with $146,341, or 53 cents a share, in the first quarter last year.

American Light and Traction company, Chicago, intermediate holding company of the United Light and Power system, disclosed its profits in the twelve months ended March 31 amounted to $6,176,098, equal to $1.94 a share, against $5,771,954, or $1.80 a share, in the preceding 12 months.

Utility's Earnings Rise.

North American company, New York, one of the nation's largest public utility holding companies, reported March quarter net earnings applicable to common stock were $4,461,396, equal to 52 cents a share, compared with $3,267,388, or 38 cents a share, a year earlier.

Atlantic Refining company, Philadelphia, engaged principally in marketing petroleum prouducts on the Atlantic seaboard, attributed a sharp decline in March quarter profits primarily to increased costs of transportation. The company's net profit was $1,237,035, equal to 41 cents a share, compared with $2,747,510, or 98 cents a share, in the corresponding 1941 period.

Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., announced a net loss of $310,650 for the first quarter of 1942 against net loss of $957,761 in the first quarter of 1941. Total revenues of $3,113,474 were an increase of 41.4 per cent.

Government Price Freezing Retards Buying at Wholesale

New York, May 1 (AP).—The government price freezing order had little effect on retail trade compared with its expected impact, but caused a decided lull in advance wholesale buying, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

New buying virtually dried up in some wholesale lines, a survey showed, while buyers and sellers alike tried to figure out just how the freezing order would affect them. All were hesitant to make long-term commitments.

Reorders Fairly Heavy.

Reorders for immediate selling were fairly heavy, and later delivery orders in some lines were so well maintained as to suggest that the availability of merchandise rather than price was the big concern.

At retail, the decline in anticipatory buying continued, with fewer lines subject to stock-up demand. Some seasonal items, retailers said, were "back in stride" after a post-Easter letdown.

Aside from those reactions to the price order retail trade was spotty.

Warm weather clothing sold a little better in some cities and summer furniture was featured along with outdoor home needs.

Men's clothing stores noted an upturn in sportswear and suits, while general apparel clearances and promotions found a good response.

Auto Sales Larger.

Automobile sales improved moderately in some sections, dealers crediting the easing of elegibility rules and increased advertising.

"Despite the rise in retail prices, estimated at more than 15 per cent over last year," the review said, "the increase in total retail lvolume was no more than 3 to 5 per cent."

Percentage gains reported from the middle west in sales were 2 to 4 per cent ahead of 1941 by value.

WHEAT CLIMBS ON DISCLOSURE OF LOAN RATE

Other Grains Advance in Sympathy.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Announcement of the higher than expected government wheat loan rate —$1.14 a bushel on the farm—sent wheat futures climbing yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. The bread grain market was up 2 cents a bushel at one time before profit taking shaved the advance at the close. Other grains took strength from wheat. Traders declared that the loan rate would induce farmers to accept the wheat crop control program today.

Acceptance of the program would mean higher average farm prices for the bread grain during the next 12 months than have been received at any time during the last 15 years. Rejection would end the federal market support program.

Rate $1.32 in Chicago.

Grain stored in commercial warehouses in Chicago would be eligible for loans of $1.32 a bushel. The rate a year ago was $1.15 a bushel and the average farm rate 98 cents a bushel. The 1942 loan rate in Kansas City would be $1.27 a bushel and in Minneapolis $1.32 a bushel.

At the finish wheat showed an advance of 1 to 1½ cents a bushe. with May at $1.20⅝.

Corn, which had been up as much as 2¼ cents, closed 1½ to 1⅝ cents higher. Oats were up ½ to ¾ cent; rye, ⅞ to 1⅛ cents, and soy beans, ¾ to 1⅞ cents a bushel. Soy beans at one time were up almost 4 cents a bushel.

Mill Brokers in Market.

Two other factors in the advance of wheat and corn prices were the reëntrance of mill brokers into the bread grain market, and a department of agriculture report that consumption of corn so far this year has been the largest on record.

A private grain crop observer estimated yesterday that the wheat crop this year, according to current indications, would be 20 million bushels larger than the government predicted a month ago. This statistician placed production at 645 million bushels against a government April 1 estimate of 624 million bushels.

WOMEN DRIVING MILK WAGONS IN TWO CITIES

John T. McGreer, vice president and general manager of Beatrice Creamery company, Chicago, announced yesterday the company is employing women drivers on milk routes in Wichita, Kas., and Lincoln, Neb., on an experimental basis and that so far their work has been "satisfactory." He discussed the experiment following the annual meeting of the stockholders in the company's Chicago offices.

McGreer said improved business in the company's fluid milk division resulted from an increase in consumption rather than an increase in price spreads. He said it is too early for sugar rationing to show its effects on the company's ice cream tonnage, asserting that the company so far has been able to replace sugar with corn sirup and other sugar substitutes.

Stockholders did not replace the late Charles S. Hutchinson on the board of directors, but reëlected other board members. They amended the company's articles of incorporation to change the annual meeting date to the first business day in June.

BUTTER SELLS HIGHER; FUTURE TRADE HEAVY; EGG PRICES ADVANCE

Wholesale prices of medium and lower grade butter advanced ¼ to ½ cent a pound in Chicago yesterday. Best butter sold at 38¾ to 39¾ cents a pound.

Trading in butter futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange was the largest in eight weeks with the November contract scaling a new 12 year peak of 40.15 cents a pound. Closing prices were 1-5 cent higher than on Thursday. Federal inquiry for sweet cream butter for export and lend-lease purchase of 809,200 cases of evaporated milk and 7,431,000 pounds of dry skim milk were factors in the advance.

Federal dried egg contracts which will require more than 22 million dozen eggs influenced the egg futures which finished 1-10 cent higher with Octobers at 33.90 cents a dozen. Wholesale prices of farm run and storage packed eggs declined ¼ cent a dozen.

TRUCKERS STUDY WAYS TO MEET DELIVERY RULES

Operators of Chicago's more than 35,000 trucks yesterday started studies to determine how they will carry on under restrictions imposed by the Office of Defense Transportation as a war measure. Copies of the ODT order have just been placed in the hands of the men who run the city's fleet of trucks.

One of the first actions taken was that of William Fullerton, chairman of the permanent advisory committee of the ODT for the Chicago area, who called a massmeeting of truck operators for Friday night in the Atlantic hotel. Fullerton, who is a big truck operator and president of the Illinois Motor Truck Operators' association, has just been named chairman of the appeal board for the rationing of new commercial cars in Chicago.

Provisions of Ruling.

The ODT's order provides that, effective May 15, no truck operator may make special deliveries, call backs, or more than one delivery to any one person on one day except for minor exceptions such as deliveries to hospitals and the armed forces and deliveries of medicines and supplies for the protection of the public health, life, and safety.

Effective June 1 truck operators must reduce total monthly mileage of rubber tired vehicles in a minimum amount equal to 25 per cent of the total mileage of vehicles in operation in the same calendar month of 1941.

Permit Delivery Pooling.

The order states that operators will be permitted to enter into pooled or coöperative delivery arrangements under certain circumstances provided permission is obtained from the ODT. All operators are required to keep records on mileage.

Operators exempted from the order include essential utilities, the armed forces of the United States and of any of the states, farmers under certain circumstances, and pickup and delivery services for other transportation agencies.

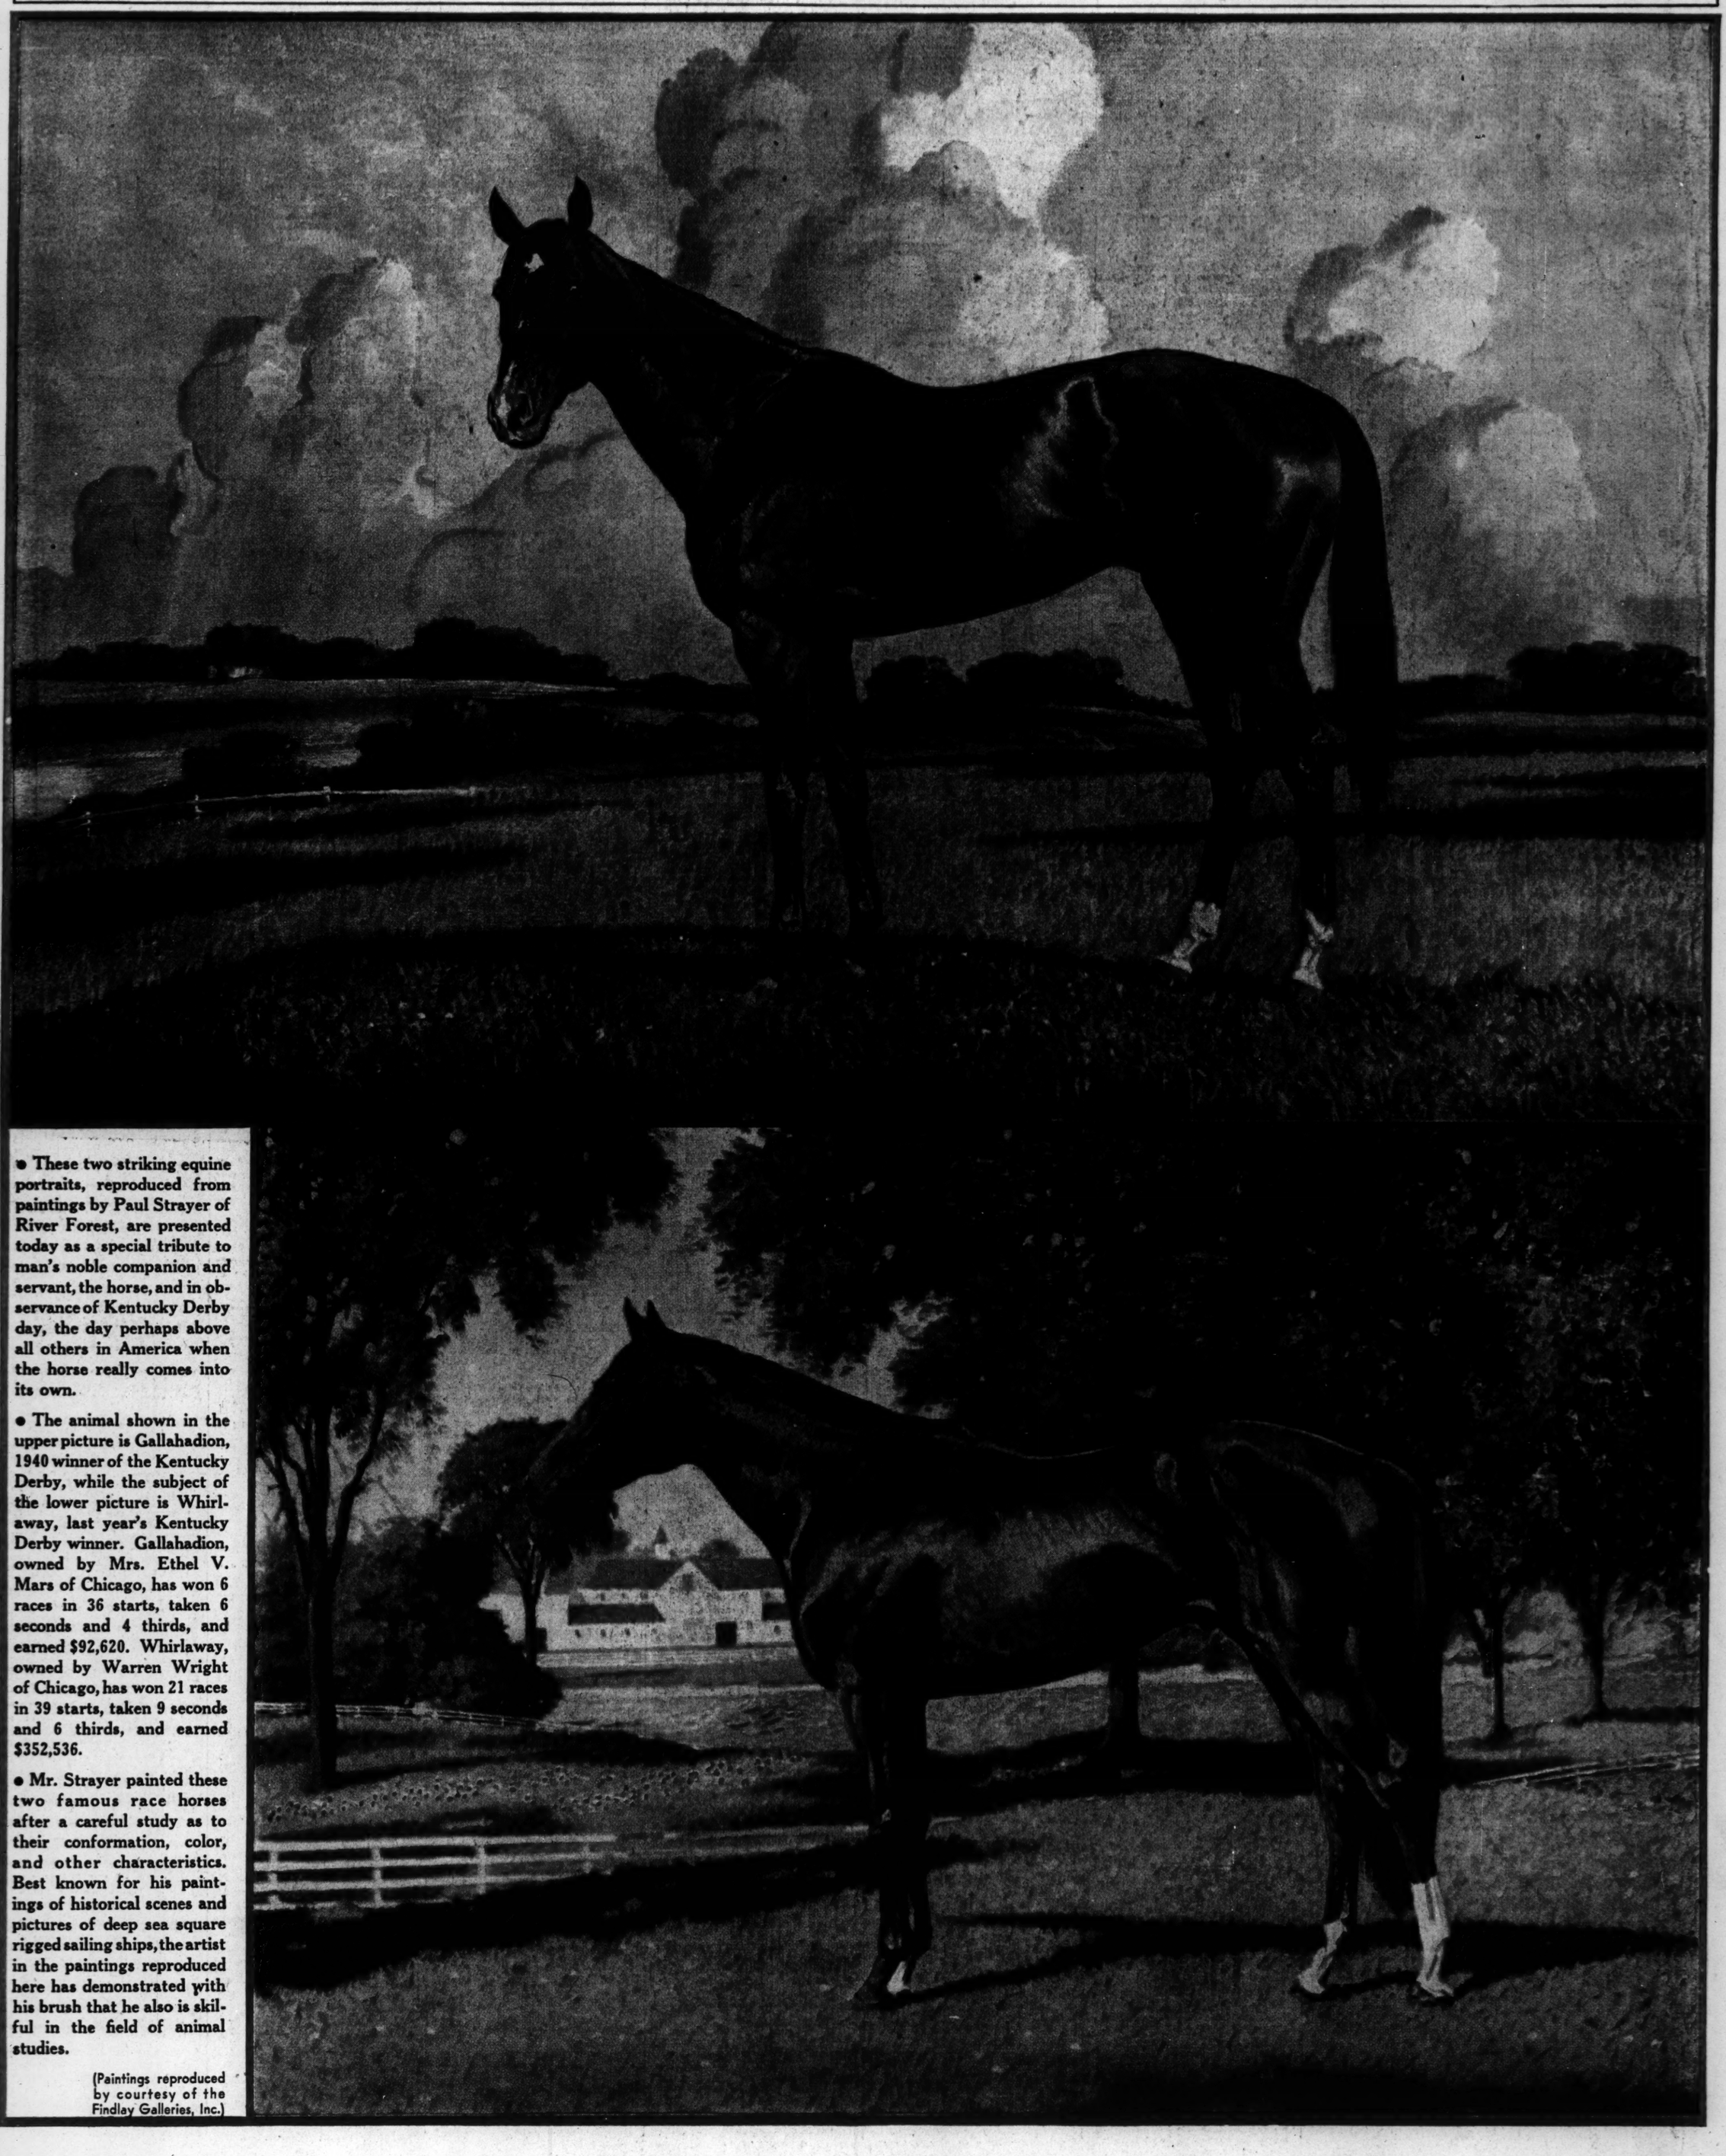
HATS OFF TO THE HORSE ON DERBY DAY!



• These two striking equine portraits, reproduced from paintings by Paul Strayer of River Forest, are presented today as a special tribute to man's noble companion and servant, the horse, and in observance of Kentucky Derby day, the day perhaps above all others in America when the horse really comes into its own.

• The animal shown in the upper picture is Gallahadion, 1940 winner of the Kentucky Derby, while the subject of the lower picture is Whirlaway, last year's Kentucky Derby winner. Gallahadion, owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, has won 6 races in 36 starts, taken 6 seconds and 4 thirds, and earned $92,620. Whirlaway, owned by Warren Wright of Chicago, has won 21 races in 39 starts, taken 9 seconds and 6 thirds, and earned $352,536.

• Mr. Strayer painted these two famous race horses after a careful study as to their conformation, color, and other characteristics. Best known for his paintings of historical scenes and pictures of deep sea square rigged sailing ships, the artist in the paintings reproduced here has demonstrated with his brush that he also is skilful in the field of animal studies.
